

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

THE CAPTAIN'S TOLL-GATE

By Frank R. Stockton

With a Memoir by Mrs. STOCKTON, an Etched Portrait, Views of Mr. Stockton's Homes and a Bibliography. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

"Thoroughly Stocktonesque and full of grace and charm."—New York World.

"Perhaps the most successful of Mr. Stockton's long stories."—Boston Herald.

"A rush of laughable incident and rib-tickling situations impossible, it would seem, to any author of less sportive imagination."—St. Louis Republic.

"In this story we have the real Stockton at his best and brightest."—New York Sun.

"An agreeable fertility of invention and a plentiful measure of whimsicality."—Philadelphia Record.

"In a frame of real life it presents characters and incidents that are fantastically unreal, yet impose themselves upon the reader as sober possibilities."—New York Herald.

Love Letters of Margaret Fuller, 1845-1846

WITH AN INTRODUCTION BY JULIA WARD HOWE

To which are added the Reminiscences of Ralph Waldo Emerson, Horace Greeley, and Charles T. Congdon.

"These are genuine letters, written by the Sibyl of New England transcendentalists. They reveal purity of thought, beauty of sentiment, sweetness of nature, and exquisite refinement of style. They were written out of a full heart and mind, and fairly pulsate with womanly tenderness and sensitiveness."—From a column and a half letter about this book written by Isaac N. Ford, the London correspondent of the New York Tribune.

ORDER ON APPROVAL

We have been several months accumulating a stock to carry us promptly through the season's business, and have ready for immediate shipment between

in handsome and substantial bindings, representing over fifteen hundred titles and nearly four millions of Toy Books and Juveniles—the toy books in paper, limps and enameled linen; and the board books in varied and resplendent lithographed covers, with artistic, new and original color effects.

No publishing concern in the world can show such an immense array of books as we now have in our warehouses. We know that our publications are standard sellers—we know what they have done in the past—and we are simply anticipating the demand that is assuredly coming to us. The country was never so prosperous; everybody is working at remunerative wages, and the book business will be better this season than ever before in its history. Take our word for it. Stock up now and be prepared for the business that is certainly coming to you.

No handsomer books than ours, both inside and outside, have ever been published. Our prices place them beyond competition, and insure to the dealer a respectable return for the handling. Another decided advantage—they are quick-sellers.

Our complete descriptive catalogue of publications for 1903-04 will be ready in a few days and will be mailed to you. Order as many more as you can use advantageously, and they will be immediately forwarded to you.

Go over the catalogue carefully—it will well repay the reading. Recollect that the Conkey Standard Sellers are unquestionably the most and no dealer, large or small, can afford to be without them, and recollect also that a full stock of every title is on hand in our warehouses, and orders will be filled completely, and shipped on the very day of their receipt.

Make up your order for anything you may desire to examine and they will be sent you on approval. If they do not meet your perfect satisfaction, you may return them to us without any cost to you. Our confidence in the character, attractiveness, and saleability of our publications inspires the proposition.

Economy in money, in time, and in work is served by dealing directly with the manufacturing publisher. We are able to fill all the wants of the bookseller. A letter to us disposes of the whole matter in one order, one shipment, one settlement. No other publishing concern offers this great advantage to the trade. Save writing, save transportation charges, save annoying details of every description by sending your orders to us, and they will be completely filled on the very day of their receipt. We shall have no time this season for any "back-order" business. Order at once. Order liberally.

Yours very truly,

W. B. Conkey Company

CARTOONS BY MCUTCHEON

Has gone into a fourth edition in eight weeks, because it is a masterpiece of American humor—spontaneous, original, and within everybody's understanding. The book contains one hundred of his most diverting drawings, including the ever delightful 'Boy in Summer-time,' the 'Cartoons that Made Prince Henry Famous,' and many others that you will enjoy tremendously; of all book-sellers—the price is $1.25 net.

THE WARD of KING CANUTE

Is different from all the rank and file of romantic novels—so fresh and original in plot and treatment that it is the book of all others for Summer reading. You are sure to be interested in the story of Randalin, the beautiful Danish maiden who served King Canute disguised as a page in the brave old days of the Danish Conquest. Another distinctive feature is its beautiful appearance, especially the wonderful pictures in color.

Third Edition. $1.50. At all Book Stores.

By W. C. STILES

A thorough and powerful treatment of a remarkable historical episode

Starts the pulses and stirs the blood Broad, Liberal, Tolerant

This is not a passing sensation written about the massacre, but a burning, dramatic, well-balanced, powerful treatment of the whole case as between the Jew and the Russian.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just brought out in their Twentieth Century Text-Books series, "Selections from Homer's Iliad," with an introduction, notes, a short Homeric grammar and a vocabulary, by Professor Allen Rogers Benner of Philips Academy, Andover, Mass.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY will publish at once in their People's Library an edition, bound in paper covers, of Henry Harland's "The Cardinal's Snuff-Box" which has been one of the most successful of the author's works.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY have just ready a timely work entitled "Out of Kishineff," by W. C. Stiles, an account of the whole case as between the Jew and the Russian. They have also just brought out a secret-service novel, entitled, "The Gilded Lady," by Will M. Clemens, who recounts the story of a crime against the United States government.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish within a few weeks a volume on "American Railways." This is a reprint, considerably amplified, of a series of articles that have appeared in the London Times from the pen of their special commissioner, Edwin A. Pratt. The Times sent Mr. Pratt to this country to make an investigation of the subject of our railroads. The volume, which runs to a little over three hundred pages, is likely to have some importance on account of the author's knowledge of his theme, and also on account of the special advantage a book of this sort has when written from the pen of a student who looks upon the subject from the outside.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will bring out at once the American edition of "Studies in Human Nature," by Professor Elie Metchnikoff, of the Pasteur Institute at Paris, the pioneer in the campaign of science against old age, who claims that "from twenty to fifty a man should live for himself and his family, from fifty to a hundred for science and humanity, and after a hundred for the State." The work has been translated by Dr. P. Chalmers Mitchell, who has also contributed an introduction. Dr. Mitchell is an authority on natural science, having lately been elected secretary of the British Zoological Society. They will publish shortly "The Life of Voltaire," in two volumes, by S. G. Tallentyre, author of "The Women of the Salons." This work is written in a popular vein, yet it is authoritative, being based upon original documents. It will contain a number of interesting illustrations.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just published "Wesley and His Preachers," by G. Holden Pike; "An Introduction to the History of Modern Philosophy," by Arthur Stone Dewing; a new edition of "In and Out of Book and Journal," by Sydney Roberts; the fifth edition of "A Brief Introduction to Qualitative Analysis," by John Marshall; also, a new and revised edition of "The Elements of Electro-Chemistry," by Robert Lupke. They have secured the American rights of the new Biographical edition of Charles Dickens's works, which they will bring out in the fall. The edition, which includes Forster's "Life of Dickens," edited and revised by the noted critic, George Gissing, is illustrated with reproductions from the original drawings by Cruikshank, Walker, Landseer, Leech, Luke Fildes, Seymour and "Phiz," printed on specially made paper, and handsomely bound both in cloth and in half green morocco.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price. ☞

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

"This book originated in a course of lectures delivered in various towns in England, Scotland, and Wales, during the years 1900-1903. Their object was to awaken the interest of Christians of all churches in the modern study of the sacred books of their religion, by sketching the history of the processes of investigation, and indicating some of the results which have been so far attained. In preparing the lectures for the press, it was possible to expand the treatment of some topics. . . ."—Preface.

A certain line occurs twice in the Medea of Euripides and is cited in a third place by Didymus, according to a scholium the exactness of which has been questioned. A second scholium, which has hitherto been misunderstood because of a corruption, is emended by the author. It contains a stichometrical reference and incidentally throws light on the text possessed by Didymus.

Gardiner, S: Rawson. History of the Commonwealth and Protectorate, 1649-1656. In 4 v. v. 3, 1653-1655. New ed. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1903. 16+346 p. D. cl., $2.

Mr. Leigh's "Appreciation" which opens this volume, points out Voltaire's great work in the field of intellectual liberty. Following is a list of the innumerable publications relating to Voltaire which appeared during his life, and subsequently, under "Voltaireana" (6 p.) The index is for the new 42 vs. edition of his works. Of this index, Mr. Leigh says: "Voltaire is here made to portray himself. This aims to be an index, through his works, of the man. For this reason there have been scattered through the ordinary entries examples of his literary style and play of thought. Epigrammatic sentences, passages from essays, dramas, and poems, give life to the dry bones of index matter. . . ."

ORDER ON APPROVAL

We have been several months accumulating a stock to carry us promptly through the season's business, and have ready for immediate shipment between

in handsome and substantial bindings, representing over fifteen hundred titles and nearly four millions of Toy Books and Juveniles—the toy books in paper, limps and enameled linen; and the board books in varied and resplendent lithographed covers, with artistic, new and original color effects.

No publishing concern in the world can show such an immense array of books as we now have in our warehouses. We know that our publications are standard sellers—we know what they have done in the past—and we are simply anticipating the demand that is assuredly coming to us. The country was never so prosperous; everybody is working at remunerative wages, and the book business will be better this season than ever before in its history. Take our word for it. Stock up now and be prepared for the business that is certainly coming to you.

No handsomer books than ours, both inside and outside, have ever been published. Our prices place them beyond competition, and insure to the dealer a respectable return for the handling. Another decided advantage—they are quick-sellers.

Our complete descriptive catalogue of publications for 1903-04 will be ready in a few days and will be mailed to you. Order as many more as you can use advantageously, and they will be immediately forwarded to you.

Go over the catalogue carefully—it will well repay the reading. Recollect that the Conkey Standard Sellers are unquestionably the most and no dealer, large or small, can afford to be without them, and recollect also that a full stock of every title is on hand in our warehouses, and orders will be filled completely, and shipped on the very day of their receipt.

Make up your order for anything you may desire to examine and they will be sent you on approval. If they do not meet your perfect satisfaction, you may return them to us without any cost to you. Our confidence in the character, attractiveness, and saleability of our publications inspires the proposition.

Economy in money, in time, and in work is served by dealing directly with the manufacturing publisher. We are able to fill all the wants of the bookseller. A letter to us disposes of the whole matter in one order, one shipment, one settlement. No other publishing concern offers this great advantage to the trade. Save writing, save transportation charges, save annoying details of every description by sending your orders to us, and they will be completely filled on the very day of their receipt. We shall have no time this season for any "back-order" business. Order at once. Order liberally.

Yours very truly,

CARTOONS BY MCCUTCHEON

Has gone into a fourth edition in eight weeks, because it is a masterpiece of American humor—spontaneous, original, and within everybody's understanding. The book contains one hundred of his most diverting drawings, including the ever delightful 'Boy in Summer-time,' the 'Cartoons that Made Prince Henry Famous,' and many others that you will enjoy tremendously; of all book-sellers—the price is $1.25 net.

THE WARD of KING CANUTE

Is different from all the rank and file of romantic novels—so fresh and original in plot and treatment that it is the book of all others for Summer reading. You are sure to be interested in the story of Randalin, the beautiful Danish maiden who served King Canute disguised as a page in the brave old days of the Danish Conquest. Another distinctive feature is its beautiful appearance, especially the wonderful pictures in color.

NET PRICES AND TRADE DISCOUNTS.

DOUBTLESS much of the success which the reform movement in the book trade has so far achieved has been earned, and deservedly earned, by not attempting too much at once, and by considering fully the interests of the buying public, on whose consent and co-operation the success of any such movement must finally depend. For years back we have pointed out that in any real reform of book prices and the selling system the actual selling prices of books should be unified or averaged rather than increased. This fundamental idea was accepted as the basis for the present reform, and most publishers have adhered to it loyally by making a real reduction on the published prices of net books. There have been some actual exceptions, and other seeming exceptions which were apparent and not real, that is, in which there was specific reason for a price which seemed as high as or higher than a price made on the old basis; but, on the whole, publishers and public, as well as booksellers, have felt reason to be satisfied with the new reform, and have loyally accepted it.

It is the general opinion of the bookselling trade that the time has come for including fiction with net books, and also for extending the period of protection from one year to two years. The semi-protected system for novels has not been very effective as there has been a natural tendency to cut prices to the lowest limit permitted, and it certainly would be more wholesome to make fiction wholly protected. Whether this is possible, of course, depends upon the present attitude of those publishers who at the start did not see their way to include fiction among net books. The success of the net system in general may well have brought about a changed view of the possibilities in this direction, particularly as so large a proportion of the department stores, through which fiction had been so largely sold at cut prices, are now thoroughly in line with the reform movement. In respect to the period of protection, the ingenious and careful feature originally made part of the publishers' plan, by which protection might be extended beyond the first year, has proved singularly inoperative. A publisher might with respect to any net book or books notify the trade at the end of the year of protection that the net price must be continued, with the proviso that he would accept returns at the wholesale price of many copies unsold which any bookseller might desire to return. We know of no case in which this option has been exercised. The net period has been so short that it has led to some uncertainty as to the prices of books, and possibly some deferring of orders on the part of library and other buyers, and it would seem that a longer period might now wisely be adopted.

The recent convention of the American Booksellers' Association made another recommendation, perfectly natural from the booksellers' point of view, which may not, however, in the long run prove to be desirable. It was stated that the average cost of selling books, with any kind of return to the bookseller, averaged close upon 25 per cent., and this was made the basis of an argument for an increase in trade discounts from publisher to bookseller. Now the cost of doing business depends in large measure upon the amount of sales, particularly in the book trade, where rent, clerk hire, etc., will in many cases cover double the business done by most booksellers. The purpose of the reform has been to increase the business of the bookstore and thus to give the bookseller larger total profits while giving the public a fairer price on each sale. The old system of underselling had its root in the increasing and finally excessive discounts which were demanded by the bookseller from the publisher—discounts so large that the bookseller was promptly forced to divide them with his customers, particularly with library customers. The essence of the reform was a closer price to the public, a fair average between the old published price and the extreme underselling price, and this meant a closer nominal discount, though practically not a lessened actual discount, from publisher to bookseller. It is greatly to be feared that if booksellers should begin to put pressure upon publishers to increase discounts, a little here and a little there, the old results to the book trade will soon follow. A large proportion of bookselling is still done in this country outside the book trade; we speak not with reference to the department bookstore, but to subscription agencies and to newspaper syndicates. What we want in the book trade is a fair and inviting price on "regular" books, so that "regular" bookstores shall get an increasing proportion of the total expenditures of the public for books. More business at less profit per book will mean more profit in the long run, and this is the goal which should be persistently kept in mind by the whole trade.

BOOK PRODUCTION IN AUSTRO-HUNGARY.

IN bringing the "Oesterreichische Bibliographie," for 1901, to a close the Verein der Oesterr.-Ungar. Buchhändler announces that owing to the indifferent support of the undertaking the work will be suspended. Three years ago the society of Austro-Hungarian booksellers in its official organ, Oesterreichisch-ungarische Buchhändler-Correspondenz, enthusiastically resumed the bibliographic work relinquished in 1870 by its predecessor. However, though the society and its editors, Carl Junker and Arthur L. Jellinek, performed their work conscientiously and at very little cost, the trade, generally, remained indifferent, and so the work must cease because not enough subscribers are willing to pay three dollars the year for the excellent service rendered.

The editors of the "Oesterreichische Bibliographie" recorded during 1901, 2054 titles, of which 1465 were books and pamphlets, 506 annuals and periodicals, and 83 maps, etc. Of the 2054 titles 1899 were works in 2074 volumes, 686 being pamphlets of less than five signatures, 199 periodicals and 83 maps, etc. Of the number recorded 242 appeared in new editions—127 in their second, 47 in their third, and 1, Pichler's Primer, in its ninety-third edition. Strange to note, there were but thirty translations. The total number of works recorded was published by 182 publishing houses, the various divisions of the country being represented as follows:

DON VINCENTE, THE ASSASSIN BOOKSELLER.

ANDREW LANG, in a recent communication to the London Morning Post, in which he thumped the bookseller for some real and many imagined sins, referred to a Spanish antiquarian bookseller whose customers came to strange and sudden ends. "Stones fell on them; gratings opened under their feet; they perished of diseases which medical science was powerless to explain; the daggers of braves reached their nobler organs. In fact, they were all taken off by the bookseller, who could not bear to part with his treasures."

To answer a number of inquiries as to the basis of this story, we print the story of the assassin bookseller as told some years ago by Halkett Lord, a well-known bibliophile and antiquarian:

Fifty years ago there lived at Barcelona one Don Vincente, a friar of that Poblet convent whose wealth and above all whose admirable library, the gift of one of the last of the Kings of Arragon, was plundered, dispersed, and destroyed at the recent pillage of the monasteries during the regency of Queen Christine de Bourbon. For the small consolation he could manage to obtain from still handling books, Don Vincente set up as a bookseller. Though scarcely able to read, he was thoroughly conversant with the minutiae of old books, and had a specially gifted scent for nosing out the value of a ms. which he had scarcely opened. He rapidly established a disastrous competition with the oldest bookseller in the place, a man generally liked, whose name was Augustin Paxtot. Don Vincente himself was far from having so good a reputation; but he had had the wit, however, to secure, at his rival's expense, an excellent connection; his store was better filled and was better patronized, but evil reports were rife concerning him, and it was whispered about that the invaders of the convent were not the only persons who had pilfered its books. Don Vincente knowing better than those illiterate thieves the value of these piles of waste paper and heavy folios had diverted their attention to places where were to be found wealth and abundance more suited to their appetites, and, speculating on their ignorance, had awarded to himself the more precious treasures of the library.

A singular thing! The unfrocked monk showed no hurry to part with these treasures, whose value seems nowadays extremely hypothetical. Ordinary books and those of small value passed readily from his hands; but it was only when he found himself very short of money that he opened even to the wealthiest or best informed amateur his backstore whose shelves were laden down with treasures which would have dazzled the eyes of Nodier, Didot, Pixérécourt, or above all, the Marquis de Morante, the celebrated Spanish collector.

Did one secure from him, at its weight in gold, one of these volumes treasured with so much care, it would have been thought one had deprived him of a "pound of flesh," and he even ran after the purchaser sometimes and offered him back his money in exchange for the book. Did he save anything, he immediately profited by it to add to his beloved collection. Though he lived for days on a little damaged fruit, he spared nothing for the sake of adding to his treasures.

Towards the middle of the year 1836 the library of an old lawyer, recently deceased, was sold by auction. Among the works dedicated to the study of the ancient law, of which the library consisted, was one which excited all the covetousness of Don Vincente. It was the unique copy of the "Furs e Ordinacions fetes per los gloriosos reys de Aragon als regnicols re regne de Valencia," the original edition, a small folio printed at Valencia in 1482, by Lambert Palmart, the first Spanish printer.

Don Vincente had mustered all the resources provided by his economies, by sales which he hastened to make at reduced prices and even by borrowing; and was in hopes that the prize would be knocked down to him. The book was started at a low price and the bids were slowly raised. It seemed for the moment that the book was going for a song when Augustin Paxtot added 50 reals, Vincente hoping to warn off his adversary went another 150; Paxtot bid a further two hundred.

They stood face to face. Paxtot's color was high, Vincente was quite pale. Bid followed bid rapidly, sometimes of 100, sometimes of 150 reals. The monk became paler and paler, and Paxtot still redder, as if one absorbed the blood of the other. All at once Vincente raised his bid to 4000 reals. He was no longer pale, he turned green. Paxtot crimson as a poppy shouted out: 4500 reals! Vincente leant against the wall with staring eyes, his nails digging into his flesh, grinding his teeth and biting his lips. At length after a terrible silence, seeing all eyes fixed upon him, with parched throat and foaming mouth, he painfully murmured 55 reals. . . ! A nervous trembling seized him and had he not been sustained by the wall he would have fallen. It was evident that this was his supreme effort and that he could go no further. Paxtot had but to bid another 100 reals and the precious incunabule was knocked down to him amid the applause of the bystanders, little used to such combats.

Don Vincente drew himself up, more livid, more distorted than the holy monks of the Spanish painter writing his memoirs fifteen days after his death. For one moment his eyes lit up to dart a lightning glance of pallid anger and fierce hatred at his successful rival, then brusquely jamming down his cowl over his face he hurried from the auction room.

Hardly a week had passed since this memorable contest, when in the middle of a dark, moonless night was suddenly heard the terrible cry of—Fire! which had just burst forth with fury, after having smouldered for some time, in the store of Augustin Paxtot. The unfortunate man appeared to have been surprised in his bed, which had slowly burned under him. Had he been asphyxiated by the smoke? Had he been the victim of an assassin? It was impossible to discover as the body had been quite charred. A sum of money that he had received on the previous evening was found intact. He was generally esteemed, and it was not known that he had any enemies.

Nevertheless suspicion somehow or other was directed to Don Vincente, whose monkish character was anything but a recommendation. The bitter contest of which the book purchased by Paxtot had been the occasion, the pallor, the baleful glances of the monk when he found himself out-bidden by his rival were recalled, and the grave fact that the book, purchased at so large a price, which the bookseller's heirs knowing its value searched for high and low, could nowhere be unearthed. When a suspicion of this kind is once aroused no one knows where it will stop.

Some remembered that there had recently been found in the ditches of the Arsenal scarcely covered with branches, a curé, poniarded, with his purse untouched, and this curé, it was said, had been seen mousing over books, particularly in Don Vincente's store. Others spoke of persons similarly stabbed by evil-doers who had not robbed them. All were men of attainments and some of them habitual clients of the publishers and booksellers of Barcelona. Among these was mentioned Don Pablo Rafael de N. . . . honorary alcade, an alcade mayor and a baillie. Eight were reckoned up; when all at once a new crime was announced. The body of a young German litterateur was fished up in the harbor, riddled with stabs from a knife but still retaining his purse.

Investigations, hitherto to no purpose—had been made in several directions. But the public voice pronounced so strongly against Don Vincente that the Corregidor felt it his duty to pay him a domiciliary visit. The unlooked for arrival of the magistrate did not appear to disconcert Don Vincente, who hastened to open all the rooms in his house and placed himself at the service of justice to aid its researches. He pointed out with verbose erudition the disposition of his books, the place where his most valuable were kept, and the Corregidor finding nothing suspicious was retiring rather disappointed when by accident he observed perched upon a lofty shelf, in a secluded room, a Directorium Inquisitorium. Were his eyes attracted by the title of the work or by its curious binding! Be that as it may, mounting on a stool, he took down the book. Another, smaller, volume pushed back on the top of the other, so as to be hidden, tumbled on his head and fell, open, on the floor. It was a small folio, the copy of the Furos de Arago, printed by Palmart in 1482. . . ! the copy recently knocked down to the unfortunate Paxtot! the copy that Don Vincente himself had declared to be unique.

This dumb witness sufficed to cause the arrest of the bookseller-monk. The Corregidor, pointing to the book with his finger, said to him:

"How did that book come here?"

"He re-sold it to me," Don Vincente replied, afraid to pronounce the name of Paxtot.

"Take that man to gaol," said the magistrate.

He allowed himself, unresisting, to be taken and handcuffed. As soon as he was under bolts and bars justice proceeded to make a detailed inventory of his books. Several valuable books were found which had notoriously been sold to the persons assassinated, notably "The Antiquities of Spain and Africa," with the margins covered with annotations by de Bernard Adrete, bought from Vincente by the unfortunate Don Pablo Rafael de N. several days before his death.

Overwhelmed by so many convincing proofs Don Vincente could only plead to the judge impotent denials. It was only after receiving a formal promise that his library should not be dispersed but preserved in its integrity that he determined to make a clean breast of it and confess the details of the crimes that he had committed.

After making on his lips and on his eyes the sign of the cross he spoke as follows: "I have promised to tell the truth, I shall tell it. If I have transgressed it was with a good intention—to endow learning—to preserve treasures impossible to be replaced. Whatever happens to me matters but little since it has been promised that my collection shall remain intact; for it is not just to punish the saddle for faults committed by the ass who bears it.

"To this poor curé it was that I sold the first of my treasured books, against my will, I swear it—constrained by hunger: mala suada fames! The Glorious St. John, patron of authors, is my witness that I did all I could to choke him off. Then, smitten with remorse I ran after him, I said to him:

"Give me back my book, here is your money!"

"He refused and I stabbed him. He fell; I gave him absolution and I despatched him. I went home hugging my recovered treasure. That's how it was!"

"And is that the way in which you murdered your other victims?"

"By the Holy Virgin and Saints nothing was more simple. When a purchaser was determined to wring from me one of my books, before handing it over I detached several pages which I carefully preserved; the buyer brought me back my book; I enticed him aside, into one of my rooms, and the assistance of my patron saint has never failed me; never has my arm weakened."

"And so you had the heart to assassinate a creature made in the image of God?"

"What would you have? Men are mortal: God calls them to himself a little sooner or a little later; good books must be preserved."

"And it was solely for the sake of books that you committed these murders?"

"Books! yes! books! Books are the glory of God!"

"You are also the assassin of Paxtot?"

"Could I leave in his hands an object so precious as that unique copy printed by Lambert Palmart! He was a good fellow after all notwithstanding the wrong he did me in depriving me of that book. When he was dead I set fire to his bed."

"You did not take his money?"

"Do you take me for a thief? I gave them all back their money."

Vincente's counsel, in defence of his client, in this desperate strait, maintained that there might exist several copies of the books found in his store and that it was out of the question to condemn, on his own sham avowal, a man who appeared to be half-cracked.

The counsel for the prosecution said that that plea could not be urged in the case of the book printed by Lambert Palmart as but one copy of that was in existence.

But the prisoner's counsel retorted by putting in evidence attested affirmations that a second copy of the Furos de Arago was in existence—in France.

Up to this moment Vincente had maintained an imperturbable calm; but on hearing his counsel's plea he burst into tears—

"At last then—said the Alcade to Vincente—you recognize the gravity of your crime?"

"Ah! your worship, of what a gross error have I been guilty! Never will you understand how miserable I am."

"The better for you, prisoner. God will take into account your repentance."

"Alas! Alas! your worship, my copy is not unique . . ."

Vincente was condemned to be strangled, and when asked if he had anything more to urge all he could utter, sobbing violently, was: Ah! your worship, my copy was not unique!

DIRECTORY PUBLISHER RE-ARRESTED.

J. POWER FALLON, president of the United States Directory Company, was released June 24 from the Ludlow Street jail, New York City, but was immediately re-arrested on a charge of perjury and locked up in default of $500 bail. Fallon last winter caused the arrest of J. A. Brown on a charge of perjury, the latter having sworn that Fallon's methods were dishonest. Subsequently Fallon's business directory was enjoined by both the Chicago Directory Company and the Trow Directory Company of New York, for infringement. In the subsequent proceedings it was charged that Fallon manufactured evidence to intentionally deceive Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, in the injunction proceedings. As a result Fallon was ordered to pay a fine of $1000, and be imprisoned thirty days for contempt of court. Being unable to pay the fine, he has remained in prison since April.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

AQUILA KEMPSTER, the author of "The Mark," a new novel of Eastern mysticism and Hindu magic, announced by Doubleday, Page & Co. for publication in the late summer or early fall, is a New York artist, and this is his first novel. His full name is James Aquila Kempster.

WILLIAM J. DAWSON, the author of the "Life of Christ," published early this year by George W. Jacobs & Co., of Philadelphia, is a minister of the Congregational denomination, and is at present pastor of Highbury Quadrant Church, London. He is one of the most widely known Congregational ministers in England, is highly appreciated by his own denomination, and is greatly esteemed by influential men of other churches and different communions. Besides the "Life of Christ," he is also the author of several other books which have attained quite a large circulation.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the consolidation of The New York Medical Journal, of which Dr. Frank P. Foster is editor, and The Philadelphia Medical Journal. The general offices and editorial rooms will be at No. 66 West Broadway, New York City, with branch offices in Philadelphia and Chicago. Although The Philadelphia Medical Journal loses its distinctive title, it will perpetuate itself as an integral part of the united publication.

The Journal of Infectious Diseases, said to be the only endowed publication of the kind in the world, will be issued in the fall, edited by Prof. Ludwig Hektoen and Prof. Edward O. Jordan of the University of Chicago. The expenses, which it is estimated will amount to $5000 annually, will be met by Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCormick. This agreement is made for an indefinite term, and amounts to a $125,000 endowment. Since the death a few years ago of their son, Jack Rockefeller McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick have founded the Institute for the Study of Infectious Diseases, connected with Rush Medical College. The Journal of Infectious Diseases will give to the scientific world the results of work done there and in other laboratories.

The International Studio Library continues to add each season of the year a supplement present some field or other of art, past and present. The subject for the "Summer Supplement" is entitled "Masters of English Landscape Painting," in which is discussed the work of three masters of the early nineteenth century, each of whose work is liberally represented by color reproductions and black-and-white prints, accompanied by criticisms of their accomplishment from authoritative pens. The landscape painting of John Sell Cotman is treated of by Lawrence Binyon; that of David Cox by A. L. Baldry, and of Dewint by Walter Shaw Sparrow. These three artists have all left behind them proofs of their mastery both in oil and water-color, and it would be hard to find in any one school of painters three whose methods are more diverse. Those interested as amateurs and art lovers in the subject of landscape painting, and the art student in general, will find here collected every process of the brush and pencil, from the roughest sketch and study to the finished picture, either in oil or water-color, both in pure and architectural landscape and in seascape.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—Thomas J. Flynn & Co., booksellers, have moved from their old store on Essex Street, to numbers 64 and 66 on the next block.

HOLDREDGE, NEB.—O. E. Pearson has sold out his book and stationery business.

JOHNSTOWN, PA.—H. T. Kaylor, of Kaylor's Book Store, 338 Washington Street, has bought a majority of the stock of the Johnstown Book Store, Limited, 503 Main Street, and now controls that business. The business will be continued under the same name, as heretofore, under the management of George E. Lightcap, formerly with the J. B. Lippincott Company. Improvements will be made in the building, and another complete floor will be added shortly. Kaylor's Book Store will be continued at the old stand, on a much improved scale, under the management of M. H. Skadden, formerly of the Burrows Brothers Company, of Cleveland.

NEW YORK CITY.—John J. Daly will remove his Book Shop to larger quarters at 427 Fourth Avenue a block farther down town. Fourth Avenue dealers and those on Forty-second Street have been sorely tried because of the upheaving of these streets by the subway; but they have fortunately overcome the worst and hope for better times now that the roadway is getting into normal shape again.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The H. E. Pendry Company has been incorporated to deal in books and stationery with a capital of $5000. The directors are Kate S. Veach, of Palmyra, and H. E. Pendry and W. H. Burr, of Rochester.

WASECA, MINN.—Allis Breen has purchased the book, toy and stationery store of D. J. Shaw.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish "Poe's Best Tales" and "Poe's Best Poems and Essays," in two volumes edited by Sherwin Cody.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY have published in their Red Letter Series, a dramatic story by Arthur W. Marchmont, entitled "The Price of Freedom," with illustrations by Clare Angell.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just published a practical manual for women, entitled "The Body Beautiful, common sense ideas on health and beauty without medicine," by Nanette Magruder Pratt, a well-known physical culture lecturer and teacher.

ERNEST L. BRIGGS, formerly of Briggs Brothers, of Plymouth, Mass., announces a series of Editions de luxe of books, which will be issued at Boston, with the imprint of the Fortune Press. The first of these publications, by Beulah Marie Dix and Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, will be issued about the first of September.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will bring out at once a novel by Katrina Trask, (Mrs. Spencer Trask,) the author of "Under King Constantine," to be entitled "Free, Not Bound." The story, which takes its title from a phrase used by Thomas Aquinas, is laid in New England before the Revolution. The hero is of Puritan descent and the heroine of cavalier ancestry.

WYCIL & COMPANY, New York City, will issue shortly a series of illustrated handbooks by specialists, beginning with works on Bridge, Motoring, Solo Whist, Invalid Cookery, Palmistry and Graphology. Each subject will be presented clearly and briefly, but yet comprehensively, touching every salient and minor point in an interesting way. Others of the series will be upon live subjects of general interest.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have just ready The Holy Bible, with Apocrypha and marginal readings, adopted by the General Convention of 1901. This edition is authorized to be read in the churches. In the Appendix are contained certain other alternative renderings preferred by the Commission, though not authorized for reading in the public services of the church. Twelve colored maps are added to the volume.

HENRY HOLT & Co., will publish shortly "A Duke and His Double," a story by Edward S. Van Zile, the central figure of which is an ambitious Chicago flour merchant with designs on New York society. They are sending Paul L. Ford's edition of "The Federalist" to press for the third time. They also announce the 55th edition of Anthony Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda," and the 20th impression of the same author's "Rupert."

JAMES H. EARLE & Co., Boston, have just published for Miss N. Ainsworth Montgomery, an instructor of Shepardson College, at Granville, Ohio, a novel entitled "A Modern Patrician." Miss Montgomery, whose first novel this is, says that she has "attempted to depict true American manhood and womanhood representing the democratic spirit, as contrasted with a type so familiar to us in which all that a man possesses—ancestry, wealth, social position—is made to supersede that which he really is."

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish shortly a book by Dr. W. Sanday, Canon of Christ Church, entitled "Sacred Sites of the Gospels." The volume will contain a large number of special illustrations, maps, and plans. The author in his efforts to reconstruct the Palestine of the past has been assisted by Paul Waterhouse, who has contributed notes explaining the details of his drawings. The Palestine of the present is shown by means of photographic reproductions.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY have in preparation a new edition of Lübke's "Outlines of the History of Art," rewritten, paraphrased, augmented and translated by Russell Sturgis, which will be brought out in two volumes with 1000 illustrations in the text and over 100 full-page plates, several of which will be in color; "Richard Daunt," a new story by Hamblen Sears, author of "None but the Brave;" also, "A King's Romance," by Frances Gerard, a romantic biography of the late King Milan of Serbia, father of the murdered Alexander.

W. B. CONKEY COMPANY announce that they have ready for the fall trade between four and five millions of cloth-bound books in attractive bindings, representing over fifteen hundred titles, and nearly four millions of toy books and juveniles—the toy books in paper, limp and enamelled linen, and the board books in lithographed covers. These books are actually now ready for shipment, and samples may be seen either at 341-351

Dearborn Street, Chicago, or at their Eastern branch, in charge of William J. Kelly, at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York.

JOHN LANE will publish shortly "Armorial Families," a directory of gentlemen of coated armor, showing which arms in use at the moment are borne by legal authority, compiled by Arthur Charles Fox-Davies. The book is profusely illustrated with over 2000 cuts of arms and crests. It is arranged alphabetically, giving full details of the rank, titles, names, and estates of arm-bearing families in America. They announce another Vale Press volume, Marlowe's "Doctor Faustus," which has been seen through the press by John Masefield, and decorated by Charles Ricketts, under whose supervision the book has been printed for the benefit of The Romantic Stage Players. There will be only two more volumes of the Vale Press, after which the Press will suspend operations.

T. FISHER UNWIN has just brought out a book entitled "The Failure of Lord Curzon: a Study in Imperialism." It takes the form of an open letter to Lord Rosebery and the author signs himself "Twenty-eight Years in India," in order to show that he has had a long personal acquaintance with the matters he discusses. The book is a trenchant yet courteous criticism of the present Viceroy's administration in India. The uprooting of self-government, the flouting of experienced advice, an inability to grasp the need of financial reform, a high and mighty method of dealing with native princes, the destruction of a peasant proprietary in Bombay and the neglect of excise reform in Assam are among the administrative shortcomings laid to Lord Curzon's charge.

IN view of the terrible events in Serbia which have lately startled the world, it may perhaps be of interest to mention that the history of Serbia is fully dealt with in William Miller's volume on "The Balkans," in the Story of the Nations Series, published in this country by G. P. Putnam's Sons. The history of the country is traced from the earliest times up to the accession of the ill-fated monarch. Of him Mr. Miller wrote: "Europe recognized that Serbia had a monarch of great determination, who was resolved to govern as well as to reign. Whether he will put an end to the deplorable party strife between the three factions of Liberals, Progressists and Radicals, which is the curse of his country, remains to be seen. But no one can help looking forward with interest to his career. Some have thought that he is destined to revive the Empire of the Dusan and unite once more under a common sceptre the scattered members of the great Serbian family."

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on August 1 Thomas Dixon, Jr.'s, new novel, "The One Woman." As in his first novel, the author is said to show a mastery of the expression of powerful human emotions, in the attempt to show the power of love as affected by the movement toward socialism that marks the new century. Socialism is described as a deadly force, annihilating home life and weakening the structure of Anglo-Saxon manhood, and the sweep of the story shows an intimate study of the character of men and women in widely diversified walks of life in New York City. They have in preparation a story of the pine country lands of Michigan, entitled "The Whip Hand," by Samuel Merwin, author of "The Road to Frontenac;" also, "The Web," by Frederick Trevor Hill, author of "The Case and the Exception," etc., who tells the love story of a lawyer, a brilliant, strong, resolute, big-hearted man. Their most important book for the fall, thus far announced, is Kipling's new volume of poems—the first collection since 1896—entitled "The Five Nations." Besides those poems which, in the last three years, have become more or less familiar to Americans through their cabled fragments to this country, the volume will contain about twenty-five new and unpublished pieces.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have ready this week "Our Feathered Game, a Handbook of North American Game Birds," by Dwight W. Huntington, who describes all the game birds of the United States and tells where and how they may be shot. The author, who has shot nearly every one of the birds about which he writes, also gives chapters on guns and dogs, and on game clubs and preserves. The book is elaborately illustrated with photographic reproductions of upwards of 100 game birds, and 8 full-page illustrations of typical sporting scenes from drawings by the author, printed in colors. They have also just ready "The Life and Letters of Charles Butler," by Professor Francis Hovey Stoddard of the New York University. Mr. Butler, who reached the ripe age of ninety-five, was a prominent New Yorker who began his business life as a clerk in the law office of Martin Van Buren. After he was admitted to the Bar he became clerk of the New York Senate. In 1824 he removed to Geneva, N. Y., to practice law. He was appointed postmaster of Geneva, and later was active as agent of the New York Life and Trust Company in developing the farming and railroad interests of the West. His most important services to his country were in defence of State credit and the funding of the bonded debt in Indiana. He was one of the founders and active supporters of the New York Half Orphan Asylum, the New York University, the Union Theological Seminary, the Loyal Publication Society active during the War between the States, and of the Union League. He counted among his friends the leading statesmen and literati of his day in this country and abroad. The account of his life and his letters will be found profitable as well as interesting reading.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have in preparation for the fall the following: "Sixty Jane," a volume of stories by John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly" and "Naughty Nan;" a handsome edition of "Madame Butterfly," in Japanese style, the illustrations something rather unusual; a book of stories, "Under the Jackstaff," by Chester Bailey Fernald, author of "The Cat and the Cherub;" Richard Whiteing's novel, "The Yellow Van;" a new book for young folks, "Thistledown," by Mrs. C. V. Jamison, author of "Lady Jane;" Hermann Klein's "Thirty Years of Musical Life in London," the recollections of a critic, (part of which has appeared in The Century;) "My Old Maid's Corner," by Lillie Hamilton French; "Pa Gladden, the Story of a Common Man," by Elizabeth Cherry Waltz; a new edition of Frederic C. Penfield's "Present-Day Egypt," brought down to date; a new "Baby Days," stories, pictures and jingles from St. Nicholas, edited by Mrs. Dodge; in the Thumb-Nail Series, editions of the "Rubáiyát," "She Stoops to Conquer," and "Socrates;" "Theodore Leschetizky," a book of memoirs and stories from the life of the great piano teacher, by the Countess Potocka; a book of "Little Stories," by S. Weir Mitchell, M.D.; a "Life of John Wesley," by Professor C. T. Winchester, of Wesleyan University; "Gallops, No. 2," another book of horse stories, by David Gray; a new and enlarged edition of "Cheerful Cats," by J. G. Francis; and a large work on the recent explorations in Northern Central Syria, written by Howard Crosby Butler, a member of the expedition, and author of "The Story of Athens."

S. E. CASSINO, the publisher of Little Folks, Boston, has in preparation a little holiday book for children, entitled "Chicken Little," by Mrs. Pratt, one of the editors of Little Folks, illustrated by her son, Ralph Pratt. Mr. Stephenson Browne, in the New York Times Saturday Review of Books, June 27, recalls the fact that "it is twenty-eight years since The Atlantic Monthly published a true story, 'How Two Girls Tried Farming,' and introduced Miss Ella Farman to readers who were sorry to hear no more of her. She wrote a story or two for The Galaxy a little later, but she chose to work for children and young girls rather than to attempt any wider flights, and when Mr. Daniel Lothrop wanted an editor for Wide Awake, a magazine for children, he asked her to take the post. A few months of experiment showed the difficulty of living in Michigan, forming the staff of a new Boston magazine and putting it upon a paying basis, and she and the other 'girl' came to Boston. For many reasons the work was more arduous than is inevitable in such cases, and her assistant retired in discouragement, but Miss Farman toiled on, and with the assistance of Mr. C. S. Pratt, the art editor, who was as energetic as she, the magazine was made financially successful. Then they married, and Ralph Pratt, their only son, has for some years been studying art, and naturally has now and then contributed to Little Folks, but this is his first book." Mr. Cassino will also publish four books by Sophie Swett—"The Lion Tamer's Little Girl," "Peablossoms Lion," "Long Tom and How They Got Him," and "The Yellow Capped Money." "The Happy Forest," by Daisy D. Plympton, will be his Christmas book.

PAUL ELDER & COMPANY, San Francisco, Cal., who have succeeded to the business of Elder & Shepard, have in preparation a clever collection of short "Parlor Plays," by Grace Luce Irwin; a collection of addresses on the problem of higher education, by Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford Jr. University, to be entitled "The Voice of the Scholar;" "On Seeing an Elizabethan Play," a skit compiled by members of the English Club of the Leland Stanford Jr. University, with illustrations; "My Favorite Book-Shelf," a volume of selections compiled by Charles Josselyn, include passages of readable length, so chosen and arranged, in many cases, as to epitomize the messages of the voluminous originals; "Girl's College Record," a diary for four years of college experience, arranged and illustrated by Virginia Woodson Frame, and a companion volume for men, compiled by Gordon Ross; "The Limerick Up-to-Date Book," a volume of nonsense verses, original and selected, by Ethel Watts Mumford, illustrated by Miss Mumford and Addison Mizner; a revised edition of "Bird Notes Afield," by Charles Keeler, with reproductions of photographs from nature, by W. L. Finley; "Bachelor Bigotries," a collection of quotations on bachelors, compiled by "An Old Maid," but illustrated by "An ex-Bachelor," (Laura Bride Bates and A. F. Willmarth;) also, a companion volume on "Widows, Grave and Otherwise," compiled and illustrated by A. F. Willmarth, both printed in two colors; "Happiness," a booklet of quotations on the duty of being happy, compiled by Paul Elder; "Nature" and "Success," two volumes of quotations; a revised version of the "Cynic's Calendar of Revised Wisdom," for 1904, compiled and illustrated by Oliver Herford, Ethel Watts Mumford and Addison Mizner; "Impressions Calendar for 1904," an entirely new calendar prepared from designs by Morgan Shepard, with Browning's "Year at the Spring," for the selection on the cover; seven new volumes in the series of Impression Classics, and eleven new Impression Leaflets; also "A Song of Books," a handsomely printed broadside of certain quotations from great authors, with an illuminated initial designed by Gordon Ross.

PICK-UPS.

AN INGENIOUS CUSTOMER.—Yesterday afternoon a well dressed man was standing outside a bookseller's shop on the Boulevards, closely examining one of Balzac's works illustrated by Gustave Doré. "How much this Balzac?" he asked an assistant. "Forty francs," was the reply. "Oh! that's far too much. I must see the master about a reduction," continued the prospective customer, and, suiting the action to the word, he took up the book and went into the shop. Approaching the bookseller, he took the book from under his arm and asked what he would give for it. "Twenty-five francs highest offer," he was told.

The offer was accepted, the man took his money and left. "Well," queried the assistant after he had gone, "were you able to hit it off with the old gentleman, sir?" "Oh, yes, I managed to get another copy of that edition of Balzac for only twenty-five francs." When the situation was explained to him the bookseller cursed heartily, after which he lodged a complaint with the police.—Paris Messenger.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

The Best Key to Educational Books.

THE
American Educational Catalogue
For 1903,

whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its thirty-fourth year, and that

claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most complete order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the Fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS:

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements:
With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00 ;
per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or for $1.00 if plate is sent.

Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 50 cents per copy in leatherette.

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

A Key to Books in Print

IN THE 1902 PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

Index Volume

the books of the 246 publishers who contributed the lists bound up in alphabetical order in the Catalogues volume, are indexed, by author, title and subject catchword, furnishing, by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print on July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August. The Index volume and the Catalogues volume of

will be found the most useful, as well as the least expensive, single book trade reference work yet issued, especially for the booksellers and small libraries who cannot afford to buy many trade tools. Price, $2 for the Catalogues volume and $5 for the Index volume, separate, or $7 together, absolutely net.

The Catalogues volume is a huge octavo, probably the largest volume now issued, reaching, with 1902, 5700 pages, being 8¼ inches in thickness and weighing 20 pounds. Directions for enclosure delivery in New York should accompany the order, unless shipment is to be by express at the charge of the subscriber.

The Index volume, an octavo of 1114 pages, will be sent on approval to any bookseller or library enclosing 10 cents for partial postage. Of the Catalogues volume less than 300 remain unsubscribed, and the edition of the Index volume is also limited. Address,

JUST PUBLISHED LILIAN BELL'S NEW NOVEL

The Interference of Patricia

Library 12mo. Cloth. with Frontispiece. $1.00

"What C. D. Gibson has done for the American Girl in art, Lilian Bell has done for her in fiction." Miss Bell's new story of social life in Denver should add not a little to that author's reputation as a teller of clever stories.

With an unmistakable quality of actuality it savors also of the sentiment and healthy atmosphere which associates itself with those endearing qualities which we have all learned to love in the true "American Girl."

The delicate love story which runs pleasantly through the book stands out in sharp contrast to the financial element with its vigorous and subtle characterizations.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just ready Lilian Bell's new novel, "The Interference of Patricia," a story of social life in Denver. They have prepared a series of copyright reprints in popular editions of two dozens of some of their most taking titles, on which they will make special quotations and discounts to the trade. A list of the titles is given in their advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

E. J. CLODE, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, will publish August 22 "The Wings of the Morning," a story by Louis Tracy, a new writer. Mr. Clode will furnish every bookseller making application a plan which he thinks will enable the dealer to sell a large number of copies of this book. Mr. Clode announces that he has decided to extend the time in which book clerks may contest for the prizes he has offered for the best suggestions as to how to interest the public in a novel, until August 1. Judging from the number of replies already received the experiment promises to be successful.

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. have just ready a second edition, revised and enlarged, of Justin McCarthy's succinct history of Pope Leo XIII's administration, brought out in the Public Men of To-day Series under the title of "Pope Leo XIII." The volume on its first appearance received the almost unanimous approval of both the Catholic and Protestant press. They also announce "The Handy World Atlas and Gazetteer," by John Bartholomew, with 120 pages of colored maps of the world, enlarged maps of principal cities, etc. The first volume in Newnes' Art Library is just ready, treating of "The Work of Botticelli," with 64 full-page illustrations in monochrome and a frontispiece in photogravure. This will be followed by "The Work of Sir Joshua Reynolds," "Velasquez," etc.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just brought out a new novel entitled "Andy Barr," by Willis B. Hawkins, the well known New York journalist, now connected with the Brooklyn Eagle. It is a striking character study and unfolds a tale of unusual interest besides. In the person of "Andy Barr," the quaint village guide and friend, Mr. Hawkins has produced a striking creation in fiction. They are also publishing a new book by Samuel T. Clover, author of "Paul Trayer's Adventures," entitled "On Special Assignment," a graphic newspaper story, in which the hero of Mr. Clover's first book appears in many Western adventures. They have just ready "Ethel in Fairyland," a book for young people, with a handsome decorative cover and several pleasing illustrations by Hermann Meyer.

THE SMART SET PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish on the 20th inst. "Miss Sylvester's Marriage," by Cecil Charles, a sensational story of a niece of a society leader in New York, with some of the wild blood of the South American Spaniard in her veins, who is fascinated by a daring adventurer claiming to be worth millions, and whose sensational marriage and its strange results are told with great realism and art. They will publish on August 1 "The Middle Course," by Mrs. Poultney Bigelow, which concerns itself with a beautiful London society woman whose husband is unsympathetic and even brutal, and who becomes sensationally involved, though innocent, with a celebrated sculptor. On the 15th of August they will publish "Hearts Aflame," by Louise Winter, the story of the effort of a New York society leader to re-establish in the social world a woman friend who has been sensationally divorced and remarried.

The Best Key to Educational Books.

THE

American Educational Catalogue

For 1903,

whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its thirty-fourth year, and that claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most complete order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the Fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS:

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements:

*With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00 ;
per 1000, $40.00.*

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or for $1.00 if plate is sent.

Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 50 cents per copy in leatherette.

A Key to Books in Print

In the 1902 PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

Index Volume

the books of the 246 publishers who contributed the lists bound up in alphabetical order in the Catalogues volume, are indexed, by author, title and subject catchword, furnishing, by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print on July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August. The Index volume and the Catalogues volume of

will be found the most useful, as well as the least expensive, single book trade reference work yet issued, especially for the booksellers and small libraries who cannot afford to buy many trade tools. Price, $2 for the Catalogues volume and $5 for the Index volume, separate, or $7 together, absolutely net.

The Catalogues volume is a huge octavo, probably the largest volume now issued, reaching, with 1902, 5700 pages, being 8¼ inches in thickness and weighing 20 pounds. Directions for enclosure delivery in New York should accompany the order, unless shipment is to be by express at the charge of the subscriber.

The Index volume, an octavo of 1114 pages, will be sent on approval to any bookseller or library enclosing 10 cents for partial postage. Of the Catalogues volume less than 300 remain unsubscribed, and the edition of the Index volume is also limited. Address,

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 11, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

A TEMPORARY SETBACK FOR REFORM.

THE decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, voiced by Justice Ingraham, reversing the decision of the court below, in the Macy case, and overruling, instead of sustaining, the demurrer of the counsel for the American Publishers' Association, is a setback to the cause of booktrade reform, which, there is good reason to suppose, will be only temporary. The recent decision of the Court of Appeals itself in the Park case seemed so clearly and fully to cover the present case that the decision rendered through Justice Ingraham will be a general surprise.

It is evident that the question of how far trade regulation may go is one peculiarly difficult to adjudicate; in almost all cases in which the principle has been settled or unsettled it has been by a divided court. In the Park case, the general principle which seemed to cover the present case was laid down by a bare majority only, and the judges on each side differed among themselves as to the grounds for the decision. In the first decision of the Macy case, Justice Leventritt was, so to speak, "divided against himself," for in accepting the ruling of the Appellate Division in the Park case as decisive, he expressed his personal view on the other side. As the Court of Appeals now stands, there is every reason to believe that the principle of the Park case will rule in the Macy case when a final decision is obtained from the Court of last resort. In the meantime the demurrer of the counsel for the American Publishers' Association having been overruled, the trial of the main issue will be proceeded with in the lower court.

It should be noted that Justice Ingraham met the copyright question by holding that there is no difference between the power of protection over copyrighted or patented articles and that over articles not thus protected. In this respect, especially, Justice Ingraham's decision will be a surprise. His point is, practically, that nothing can be sold "with a string to it;" that a sale is absolute, and that any attempt to control the prices after a first transaction is in restraint of trade. This is so wide-reaching that it would seem almost to sweep away the control of agents by a principal in making sale, which would certainly be destructive of many trade relations. It is probable that no court would go really so far as this; but in the remote possibility that the Court of Appeals would uphold the Appellate Division, it may be desirable to have the American Publishers' Association work out an agency system, which would meet the requirements of the law as now construed.

The line of argument adopted by Judge Ingraham is so comprehensive that many other trades besides the booktrade will be concerned, and it is, as before stated, most difficult to reconcile this decision with the ruling principle recently laid down in the Park case by the Court of Appeals. Indeed, Justice Ingraham seems to have treated the case as a first impression, on the ground that the statute against monopolies was not passed upon in the Park case. The Court of Appeals has, however, held that the statute against monopolies is a re-enactment of the common law.

Presiding Justice Van Brunt in a characteristically short and caustic sentence sums up the opinion of the dissenting justices, namely: "I do not see why a seller of property, in respect to which he has a monopoly, cannot impose any condition as to its resale that he sees fit."

It is understood that there is nothing in this decision which prevents the operation of the plan of the American Publishers' Association. Consequently, the trade have no reason to fear that net prices will not be maintained for the present. When during next autumn or winter the case comes to trial on the merits it will be possible to say whether any change must be made, and if so, what the change will amount to.

PUBLISHERS' DEMURRER OVER- RULED.

THE Appellate Division of the Supreme Court of New York, on July 7, handed down an opinion in the suit brought by Isidor Straus et al., (R. H. Macy & Co.,) against the American Publishers' Association, to restrain the defendants from carrying out measures to prevent the disorganization of the booktrade by unwarranted underselling. The court by a vote of three to two stated that the complaint sets forth a cause of action; that is, that if the allegations of the complaint are true the plaintiff is entitled to some judgment. Justice George L. Ingraham wrote the prevailing opinion, reversing the Special Term. Justices Edward Patterson and Frank C. Laughlin concur, while Justice Chester B. McLaughlin and Charles H. Van Brunt, the presiding judge, dissent.

We give below the opinions in full:

JUDGE INGRAHAM'S OPINION.

The plaintiffs, who are the proprietors of what is called a department store in the City of New York, are engaged in connection with their retail business in selling books and other publications, and as such complain of the action of the defendants and others in their endeavor to prevent them from purchasing and selling books without joining with these defendants in an agreement that all books sold by them are to be sold at a net price to be fixed by the publishers of the books. They have asked for an injunction restraining the defendants from carrying on this combination of arrangement, which the complaint alleges has been made between substantially all the publishers of books and those engaged in retailing books to the public; and they also ask to recover the damages sustained because of this combination or arrangement which is alleged to be illegal and in violation of the laws of this State. The defendants demurred to the complaint upon the ground that it does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action; which demurrers were sustained upon the decision of this court in Park & Sons Co. vs. Nat. Druggists' Assn. (54 App. Div. 223, since affirmed by the Court of Appeals, 175, N. Y., 1.)

In determining the legality of the combination or arrangement here complained of, the test is whether the arrangement or combination as alleged in the complaint is within the statutory prohibition (Chap. 690 Laws of 1899.) This statute is not referred to either in the opinion of this court in the Park case, or in the prevailing opinion of the Court of Appeals, for the reason, I suppose, that it was not in force when the arrangement or combination complained of was made, or when that action was commenced. It was referred to incidentally by Judge Martin in his dissenting opinion in the Court of Appeals, but only as a declaration of the law of this State, which he considered was violated by the contract or combination which was alleged in that case.

In determining the question now before us, it is well first to consider just what the statute in question prohibits; and, then to determine whether the arrangement or combination as set forth in the complaint in this action violates that statute. Just what relief may be granted if the combination is prohibited by the statute it is not important now to consider, for I take it that if the combination or arrangement as alleged in the complaint is declared by the statute to be against public policy illegal and void, one who is directly affected by such an illegal combination or arrangement is entitled to appeal to the courts for redress either to restrain the continuance of the illegal acts which result from the illegal combination, or to recover the damages caused by such combination.

Section 1 of the Act (Ch. 690 of the Laws of 1899) which in this respect is a re-enactment of Chap. 383, Laws of 1897) provides that "Every contract, agreement, arrangement or combination whereby a monopoly in the manufacture, production or sale in this State of any article or commodity of common use is or may be created, established or maintained, or whereby competition in this State in the supply or price of any such article or commodity is or may be restricted or prevented, or whereby for the purpose of creating, establishing or maintaining a monopoly within this State for the manufacture, production or sale of any such article or commodity, the free pursuit in this State of any lawful business, trade or occupation is or may be restricted or prevented, is hereby declared to be against public policy, illegal and void." Clearly the intent is to prohibit every arrangement or combination whereby the supply or price of any article or commodity of common use may be fixed or regulated by the agreement of those producing or dealing in such article or commodity, or in any other way except by the free competition of the manufacturers, and dealers in such article or commodity. Any agreement among manufacturers which limits the amount that each is to manufacture would be an agreement whereby competition in the supply of the articles covered by the contract may be restricted; and any contract, agreement, arrangement or combination which fixes the price at which articles should be sold by those who had become their owners by purchase from the manufacturers, would be a contract, agreement, arrangement or combination by which competition in the price of such articles may be restricted or prevented; and a combination by which all dealers in a specific article who should refuse to sell it at a price fixed by the manufacturer would be prevented from carrying on their business, would be directly within the condemnation of this statute.

This statute does not attempt to prevent the manufacturer of any article from fixing any price at which he would sell the article manufactured by him. It does not attempt to provide that such a manufacturer may not agree with a customer that the customer should not sell the article that he had purchased from the manufacturer at a price less than that fixed by the manufacturer or that the manufacturer may not agree to give special facilities to the customer who lived up to such an agreement; and that was the question presented in Walsh vs. Dwight (40 App. Div., 513). But when an article thus manufactured has passed out of the hands of the manufacturer and has come into the ownership of dealers engaged in general business, a combination between all manufacturers that any dealer who presumed to sell the article thus manufactured at a price below that at which the manufacturers had fixed as the retail price should thereafter be cut off from all opportunity to purchase articles of a similar character, is, it seems to me, a combination which would tend to restrain the free sale of the article thus manufactured and sold, and would restrain or prevent competition in the price of the article. What is declared to be illegal is any contract, agreement, arrangement or combination whereby competition in the supply or price of any article or commodity of common use may be restrained or prevented. If all the manufacturers of flour in the United States should join in an agreement that all flour must be sold to consumers at $10 per barrel, and that any retailer who sold flour at a lower price should not be allowed to purchase flour from any of those engaged in the combination, or that any third party who sold to such dealer any flour, no matter where he obtained it, could thereafter have no dealings with any member of the combination and purchase no flour from them, this would certainly be a combination or arrangement which would restrain competition in the supply or price of flour, and would be illegal. Although each manufacturer in the United States could agree that he would not sell any flour manufactured by him at a less price than $10 per barrel, when he attempts by combining with other manufacturers to prevent the flour when sold from being dealt in in the market except at the price fixed by him he attempts to restrict the free competition in the price of that flour. It matters not by what plan or method this result is sought to be accomplished, if a contract was made for that purpose and methods were adopted which tended to carry that purpose into effect, it comes within the prohibition of the statute and attempts to accomplish what the statute declares shall be illegal. It is the competition in the supply or price which is to be preserved, and any contract or arrangement or combination having for its object a restraint upon or interference with such competition, either in regard to the supply or the price, is declared illegal.

In matter of Davies (168 N. Y., 89) the Court of Appeals said in regard to this statute: "Its object is to destroy monopoly in the manufacture, production and sale in this State of commodities in common use; to prevent combinations in restraint of competition in the supply or price of such commodities, or restraint of the free pursuit of any lawful business, trade or occupation. The act in this respect is little more than a codification of the common law upon the subject, and its validity, to this extent, is not and cannot be successfully questioned in view of the long line of authorities." This being the effect of the statute, the question is, whether the combination entered into between these defendants is by the act declared to be against public policy, illegal and void. The complaint is quite voluminous, but a general statement of the nature of the combination alleged is sufficient for the determination of the question before us.

It is alleged that the defendant, the American Publishers' Association, is a membership corporation, organized and existing under the laws of this State. The members of this association are the publishers of books, engaged in business in a number of the States of the United States, and comprise ninety-five per cent. of the publishers of books in the United States who published ninety-five per cent. of all books published in the United States. There are made parties defendants in this action a large number of members of this corporation. Of these, eleven are corporations organized under the laws of this State, eleven are copartnerships doing business within this State, and one is a foreign corporation. The purpose for which this corporation was organized is thus alleged: "That during the year 1900 a large number of prominent publishers, including the defendants hereinbefore described as publishers, for the purpose of securing to themselves an unreasonable and extortionate profit, and at the same time with the intent to prevent competition in the sale of books, and for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the prices of all books published by them, or any of them, and all books dealt in by them, or any of them, and preventing competition in the sale thereof, . . . combined and associated themselves together, and as a part of such unlawful combination or scheme formed or incorporated the defendant, the American Publishers' Association, a membership corporation, which included amongst its members the defendants hereinbefore described as publishers, and also a large majority of the publishers of books in the State of New York and throughout the United States." It is thus alleged that these defendant corporations, organized under the laws of this State, as well as individuals doing business here, to accomplish a purpose which was prohibited by law, organized a corporation under the laws of the State, thus using for this illegal purpose the general law authorizing the formation of corporations. The complaint then alleges that to carry out this intent the corporation adopted a resolution and entered into an agreement which was intended to prevent the cutting or reducing of prices on all copyright books published by the members of the association, "by which each of the members of the association agreed that all copyrighted books published by any of them after May 1, 1901, should be published and sold at retail at net prices; that is, the published price thereof, and not be subject to any discounts;" that the members of said association agreed "that such net copyrighted books, and all other books, whether copyrighted or not, or whether published by them or not, should be sold by them to those booksellers only who would maintain the retail net price of such net copyrighted books for one year, and to those booksellers and jobbers only who would furthermore sell books at wholesale to no one known to them to cut or sell at a lower figure than such net retail price, or whose name would be given to them by the association as one who cut such net prices; and that a dealer or bookseller was defined as one who makes it a regular part of his business to sell books and carry a stock of them for public sale." The complaint further alleges that through the efforts and influence of this corporation and its members the American Booksellers' Association, a voluntary association which was composed of a large majority of booksellers, at wholesale and retail throughout the United States, was organized; that in pursuance of this combination and agreement the said American Booksellers' Association and its members have continuously co-operated with and assisted the American Publishers' Association and the members thereof in establishing and maintaining the prices of such books, and preventing competition in the supply and sale of the same, and still continues so to do; and that "in compliance with said agreement, neither of said associations, nor any of the members thereof, will sell or supply books at any price to any dealer, whether a member of said association or not, and whether such books are copyrighted or not, or are published by said American Book Publishers' Association or its members or not, who resell, or is suspected of reselling, such copyrighted books at less than the arbitrary net price fixed by said unlawful combination, nor will the said association nor any of their members sell or supply any books whatever to any one who resells, or is suspected of reselling, such copyrighted books to any dealer who thereafter sells the same at less than such arbitrary net price." It is further alleged that "for the purpose of forcing and compelling the plaintiffs to join such illegal and unlawful combination, and of inducing and coercing them to maintain an enhanced uniform price of books at retail, the defendants conspired to injure the plaintiffs in their said business of selling books, and by threats, coercion and intimidation sought, and by like means are still seeking to prevent all persons engaged in the business of publishing, or buying and selling books at wholesale or retail, from dealing with the plaintiffs;" that the defendant corporation and the American Booksellers' Association, in their monthly bulletins and official publications and otherwise, have wrongfully attacked and falsely and maliciously misrepresented these plaintiffs, "and in every way to cast reproach upon them, and to intimidate all persons, both members and non-members of the association, from selling them books, and to prevent all publishers, although not members of the association, from likewise furnishing them with books, although said publishers and dealers would be willing so to do but for the threats of defendants, and that from time to time they issued circular letters to the trade, including dealers and publishers outside of said combination, some of which were marked confidential, blacklisting the plaintiffs and warning all persons against doing business with them, and threatening to injure and destroy the business of any dealer or publisher who should sell books to these plaintiffs;" that "by reason of the unlawful agreement to maintain prices and prevent competition, and the unlawful conspiracy among the defendants to prevent the plaintiffs from purchasing any books, and selling them at such prices as to them seems desirable, and the intimidations and threats broadly published and widely circulated by the defendants, any dealers and publishers, both those belonging to said associations and others, have refused to sell books at any price to the plaintiffs, to their great damage, although such publishers and dealers have signified their willingness to deal with plaintiffs, but that they feared injury from the defendants in their business;" and that "the defendants still continue all said unlawful acts, and threaten to continue the same, to the great injury and damage to the plaintiffs, and that plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law."

Does this combination or arrangement violate the provisions of this act which we have before considered? It is alleged and admitted that the defendants who were the publishers of books, with the intent to prevent competition in the sale of books, and for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the prices of all books published by them, or any of them, and all books dealt in by them, and preventing competition in the sale thereof, combined and associated themselves together; and to carry out that combination, incorporated the defendants, the American Publishers' Association. Having thus secured a corporate franchise from the people of the State, the members of this corporation organized a voluntary association of those engaged as wholesale and retail dealers in books, and have agreed among themselves that any bookseller who attempts to sell books which he has purchased at a less price than that fixed by the publishers, shall not be allowed to purchase any books, either from the members of the corporation, or from the members of the voluntary association, or from any other dealer in books, and have threatened that if any dealers in books should sell to such a bookseller, he will be prevented from buying any books from any member of the association, or from any dealer dealing with the members of either the corporation or the association. And this combination comprises ninety-five per cent. of the publishers of books in the United States and Canada, and the Booksellers' Association comprises a large majority of all dealers in books not publishers.

Upon these allegations, what is the object of this combination which includes the publishers and sellers of books? What is the effect of the corporate action of this corporation and of its members in carrying out the intent with which the combination (which includes the formation of the corporation and the voluntary association) was formed? Was not the nature and object of the combination to compel every dealer in books to fix the selling price of each book owned by him at the price designated by the publishers of the books? If that was the nature and object of the arrangement or combination, is it not clear that by it competition in the price of books is or may be restrained or prevented? I can conceive of but one answer to these questions. What competition in the price at which books are sold or retailed can exist if these defendants, constituting as they do, ninety-five per cent. of the publishers of books in the United States and Canada can carry out the object and intent of this combination? For, no bookseller who sells a book at less price than that fixed by the publishers can obtain a book to sell. If he sells a book at a less price than that fixed, the members of the association who are the publishers of the book will sell him no books. If he goes to a bookseller to purchase books and they sell him one, his supply is at once cut off; and if this agreement could be carried out, all competition in the sale of books would necessarily be at an end.

It is said, however, that as this arrangement related to copyrighted books, which each publisher has a sole right to publish and sell, the agreement is merely carrying out their monopoly given by the Copyright Law, and is not, therefore, a violation of the statute; but I do not understand that the Copyright Law gives to a publisher any right in the book when once it is published and sold. It is true that he has a right to sell as many copies as he pleases; but so he has the right to sell any other book he pleased upon the same conditions. The monopoly that the copyright gives is that no one else shall print or publish the book upon which the copyright exists; and of course every publisher can enforce that right. But when a publisher of a copyrighted book once sells the book, the Copyright Law gives him no right to prevent its being sold by the person to whom he sells it, or to interfere in any way with the property right of the purchaser in the book which has been sold by the person owning the copyright. The publisher of a copyrighted book certainly cannot sell and receive the price and still own and control the book. He can prevent any other publisher from publishing and selling it, but the book once sold becomes the property of the purchaser, and neither the publisher nor the author can interfere with the ownership of the book that the publisher has sold.

We have discussed this question without reference to any of the cases upon this subject, relying solely upon the language used in the statute, with the evident intent of the legislature that passed it; and having ascertained what was declared to be illegal, we have examined the provisions of the combination or arrangement as alleged in relation to the prohibition contained in the statute. In none of the cases to which our attention has been called has the Court of Appeals defined just what contract or combination is within the prohibition contained in this statute. The court at Special Term sustained this demurrer upon the ground that the case of Park & Sons Co. vs. Nat. Druggists' Association was controlling; but in that case the provisions of this statute were not considered, as the combination therein complained of was formed long before the statute was enacted and the action itself was commenced prior to that time.

In the Park case there was an interesting discussion as to whether the combination in that case was void at common law, and the validity of that agreement was placed by a majority of the court, as I read the opinions, upon the ground as stated by Judge Haight, that the arrangement "does not operate to restrict sales in any localities, but contemplates a ready method distributing the goods throughout the entire country. It is, in effect, the creating of an agency on the part of the proprietors, by which every druggist throughout the United States may receive the goods and dispose of them as agents of the principal, receiving the commission agreed upon therefor." The agreement as construed by the court in that case was: "The manufacturer says to the jobbers of the country, I manufacture a medicine that I will sell for one dollar a bottle, and it is my desire that it shall be sold at that price per bottle throughout the country. If you will take consignments of this medicine from me, billed to you, at that price per bottle, I will allow you a rebate of ten per cent., and if I find that you are selling at a lower price than billed to you, I will allow no rebate. If this arrangement is not satisfactory to you, I prefer to keep my manufactured stock on hand. These are the only conditions under which I will ship my manufactured article." Thus, the only effect of the agreement was that the manufacturers or proprietors refused to allow a rebate on the price that they had fixed for their goods to those dealers who refused to sell at the retail price fixed; and the reason that the plaintiff objected to this plan is thus stated by Judge Haight: "The meaning of these allegations is obvious. It is that the plaintiff or the firm of John S. Park & Sons, of which the plaintiff is successor, could command large capital, and by reason of this they could purchase proprietary goods in large quantities and more cheaply than the other wholesale and jobbing druggists, and this by reason of the adoption of the contract plan the plaintiff was unable to so do. Under the contract plan the prices of these goods were made uniform for fixed quantities, and dealers possessing large capital and thereby enabled to purchase in large quantities could not purchase for a less sum than the ordinary wholesale and jobbing druggist, and not being able to purchase for a less sum, could not handle the goods more cheaply." Chief Judge Parker, in his concurring opinion, also emphasizes this as the object of the combination when he says that it was discovered that the "manufacturers have favorites to whom they will give a larger rebate than to wholesale dealers as a class, and generally the favorite is the person or corporation buying the greatest amount of goods, as strong firms or corporations like this plaintiff with a business of such dimensions that it claims damages in this case of one-half million dollars. That there are wholesale dealers who for the purpose of getting clients away from their competitors will give them some part of such extra rebate. To remedy this difficulty was the leading object of the association, and it was sought to be accomplished by placing all the wholesalers upon an equality, so that one should have no advantage over the other in dealing with retail dealers, a result which seems altogether desirable because it is in the line of fair dealing." And in discussing the threats that it is alleged were made against the plaintiff by the defendants, it was stated that those threats were nothing more than a notice to the trade that the plaintiff "is outside of the association, and prefers to stay out of it rather than be bound by the rules and regulations which other members of the trade regard as the fairest and best to all, and insisting that the penalties of such a course shall be meted out to him, namely, that he shall not be allowed any rebate upon any of the manufacturers' goods so long as he shall retain that position;" and "it will be seen, therefore, that this is a controversy between opponents in business, neither side trying to help the public. Nor will the public be the gainer by the success of either." The dissenting opinions in that case is based solely upon the nature of the combination or arrangements between the defendants. As I understand it, there was no substantial dispute about the law, but the difference arose as to the construction to be given to the agreement which it was sought to have declared illegal. Judge Martin, in his dissenting opinion, examines the authorities in this State, and it is quite unnecessary for us to discuss them here. The cases to which he calls attention, on pages, 34, 35 and 37 of the report, seem to me to condemn the arrangement or combination now under discussion. Thus, in People vs. Fisher (14 Wend., 9), Chief Justice Savage says that "the owner of an article was not required to sell it for any particular price, or for less than a stated price, but he had no right to state the price at which others should sell their goods, and that all combinations to effect such a purpose were illegal." In Curran vs. Galen (152 N. Y., 33), it was held that contracts or arrangements with employers to coerce other workmen to become members of the organization and to come under its rules and conditions, under the penalty of the loss of their positions and of deprivation of employment, are against public policy and unlawful, and are in conflict with the principles of public policy which prohibits monopoly or exclusive privileges. In Judd vs. Harrington (139 N. Y., 105), an agreement, the real purpose of which was to suppress competition in an article of food, was forbidden by public policy and void. Cummings vs. Union Blue Stone Co. (164 N. Y., 401) is but an application of this same principle. Judge Landon, in delivering the opinion of the court, there says: "But the case before us is of a different kind. It is one of such a combination among many dealers as threatened a monopoly, with which the individual would be practically powerless to compete, and the many consumers who would be severally exposed and coerced would be either compelled to submit to its exactions, or to forego the purchase of the commodity of customary use needful to them, and but for this monopoly obtainable in the market at a reasonable price. The same evil principle pervades both large and small combinations; all are alike offenders, differing in degree, but not in kind. And hence it is that contracts by which the parties to them combine for the purpose of creating a monopoly in restraint of trade, to prevent competition, to control and thus to limit production, to increase prices and maintain them are contrary to sound public policy and are void." And in Cohen vs. Berlin & Jones Envelope Co. (166 N. Y., 292) the same principle was applied. There the court say: "The contractor gave and was intended to give the parties of the second part, through the Standard Envelope Company the exclusive right to fix prices at which manufacturers of envelopes should sell their output during the term fixed by the contract, the object being to secure a better price for the goods manufactured. Such a contract threatens a monopoly whereby trade in a useful article may be restrained and its price unreasonably enhanced, and it matters not that the parties to it may have so moderately advanced prices that the sum exacted for the product seems to some persons reasonable, for the 'scope of the contract, and not the possibility of self-restraint of the parties to it, is the test of its validity.'" And Judge Cullen says: "But the scheme goes further. It requires the manufacturer not only to sell at the same price to each jobber, but to compel each jobber to sell to the consumer at the same price by refusing to sell goods to any one who would not comply with these requirements. It is in this respect that the agreement is vicious and operates in restraint of trade, for it destroys competition among the jobbers." There is no statement in the prevailing opinions that would uphold the scheme if its effect had been as thus described by Judge Cullen, and I do not think this case is an authority for holding that the arrangement as here alleged would have been legal at common law, but, however that may be, it is, I think, clearly within the statute.

It is not seriously disputed that books are an article or commodity of common use, and a further discussion of this question is quite unnecessary. We have the plain terms of the statute. We have a combination expressly organized for an object which the statute declares as against public policy, illegal and void. We have the fact that such combination or arrangement has been and is being applied to prevent the plaintiffs from continuing their business, and has caused them large damage for which they have no adequate remedy at law; and it seems to follow that, such a condition being admitted, the plaintiffs are entitled to some relief. In my view of the case the complaint stated a cause of action and the demurrer was improperly sustained.

The judgment should, therefore, be reversed, with costs, and the demurrers overruled, with costs, with leave to the defendants to withdraw demurrers and to answer, upon payment of costs in this court and in the court below.

Justices Patterson and Laughlin concur.

THE DISSENTING OPINIONS OF JUSTICES McLAUGHLIN AND VAN BRUNT.

The question here presented cannot be distinguished in principle from the question presented in Park & Sons Company vs. National Wholesale Druggists' Association (54 App. Div., 233; aff'd, 175 N. Y., 1). In that case the manufacturers of certain proprietary articles entered into an agreement which, in effect, was to maintain the price put upon such articles by the respective manufacturers thereof. Here, the publishers of copyrighted books have entered into a similar agreement for the purpose of maintaining the price which the respective publishers put thereon. There is also an allegation in this complaint to the effect that the agreement to uncopyrighted as well as copyrighted books, but as I read this complaint I do not think that allegation adds anything to the one relating to the copyrighted books, because there is no allegation in it to the effect that the plaintiffs have by the act of the defendants been prevented from purchasing all the uncopyrighted books which they desire from persons not members of the American Publishers' Association or the American Booksellers' Association, or that the sales of uncopyrighted books will, by reason of the acts of any of the defendants, be restricted in any way.

Applying, therefore, the principle laid down in the Park case to the facts set out in the complaint, it necessarily follows, as it seems to me, that the judgment appealed from is right and must be affirmed.

Judge Van Brunt, in concurring with Judge McLaughlin, says: "I concur. I do not see why a seller of property in respect to which he has a monopoly cannot impose any conditions as to its resale that he sees fit."

John G. Carlisle argued the appeal for the plaintiffs, but the principal work in preparing the complainants' case was done by Edmond E. Wise, of the firm of Spiegelberg & Wise. Colonel Stephen H. Olin, of the firm of Olin & Rives, appeared as counsel for the American Publishers' Association.

THE LIBRARIANS AND THE NET PRICE SYSTEM.

At the recent annual conference of the American Library Association, held at Niagara Falls, N. Y., the matter of the rule limiting library discounts to ten per cent. on net books was a leading subject of discussion. The strong dissatisfaction with the net price system that has been growing for two years among librarians was forcibly expressed by several speakers, and the effect of the present rule in restricting purchases and affecting methods of book buying by libraries, was dwelt upon.

The committee of the Association, appointed last year to confer with the American Publishers' Association and endeavor to secure an increased discount, reported that its efforts had been unsuccessful and that in its opinion "concessions will not result from further petition by it to the Publishers' Association." This report was followed by a review of the situation, from the publisher's point of view, by W. F. Zimmerman, of A. C. McClurg & Co. Mr. Zimmerman gave a clear and careful statement of the development of the reform movement which has resulted in the present net price system, the necessity for it, and the reasons that have made it successful. He pointed out that while the public libraries have largely increased the number of book readers it was a question whether they had increased the number of book buyers. "If statistics were available, or, rather, if it were possible to gather statistics to determine this question, it would probably be found that the introduction of the library system has not increased the sales of books to the extent that is sometimes supposed, however much it may have contributed to the advancement of culture and learning." The fact that the business of booksellers and publishers must be based on business principles was emphasized. "Time never was, perhaps, when booksellers were not assailed for endeavoring to make money out of books; but just why this should be so is not clear. No fault, to a like extent, is found with those who handle the necessities of life, or produce them. Perhaps one reason for it is in the fact that the bookseller is called upon to bear not only his own sins, but also those of the publisher who may fix too high a price upon a book, although the public here has redress within reach by letting the book alone until the price has been reduced or a cheaper edition of it published." The method common among librarians of submitting long lists of books to various dealers for quotations was criticized. Few librarians, Mr. Zimmerman thought, "have any appreciation of the amount of work such quotations entail—not upon one bookseller, but upon all to whom their list is submitted and who care to make the attempt to secure the order. This custom has contributed much to the demoralization of the trade, with small gain to the librarian. Far better to make your arrangements with a responsible and honorable dealer whose prices can always be verified by reference to publishers' catalogues if doubt is entertained concerning their correctness. If purchases generally were made in this way much of the friction that exists between the bookseller and the librarian would be removed, and in the long run the librarian would not fare the worse." In conclusion Mr. Zimmerman said: "In considering this whole question, and the justice of the position taken by the trade, you must not be unmindful of our change in attitude on many questions of public policy. For instance, the axiom that competition is the soul of trade has almost given way to the other formula that competition is the death of the trader. First, we found that foreign competition was injurious to our industries; and now that the latter are strong and healthy, it is found that domestic competition is likewise injurious, and combination takes the place of competition. We find combination on every hand, in all lines of industry and in all walks of labor. Indeed, combination is the watchword of the hour, and doubtless will be until the pendulum shall again swing the other way—unless, indeed, combination is to land us in the millenium of the socialistic state, where competition and all ruder things shall be happily and wholly eliminated."

The librarians' side of the case was first presented by Gardner M. Jones, of the Salem (Mass.) Public Library. His remarks covered two points, first the net price system itself; second, the increased cost of books. Regarding the net price system, he felt that it should have the unhesitating support of librarians, as aiming to place the book business upon an honest basis, with one price to all; and he considered the development and support of good local bookstores most important in the educational life of the community. As to the increased cost of books, careful comparison of the number of volumes bought by the Salem Public Library, and their cost, during the past three years, gave the following result: In 1900, 1815 volumes were bought at a cost of $1923, or $1.06 per volume; in 1901, 1992 volumes were bought, at a cost of $2132, or $1.07 per volume; in 1902, 1665 volumes were bought at a cost of $2059, or $1.25 per volume. "This shows an increase during the past year of 17 per cent. over the average cost of the two previous years. It may be said that a comparison of this kind cannot fairly be made, as the character of purchases would vary from year to year. I admit this might be true in some cases, but I think it does not hold in ours. The percentage of fiction bought each year is nearly the same, being 46, 53 and 46, respectively. This includes duplicates and replacements as well as new books. Instead of buying a larger proportion of higher priced books we have bought less than usual. I therefore think that the three years in question offer a fair basis of comparison, and that I am not mistaken in saying that our books are costing us about 17 per cent. more than before the introduction of the net system." It was stated that librarians had anticipated and were willing to meet an increase of 8 per cent. in the cost of books under the net rule, but "the real ground of complaint is that the publishers have used the net system as a means of increasing their own profits, and prices have been unduly advanced. In some cases the net price is as much or more than the old retail price would have been. If the cost of manufacture has really increased to this extent there is some excuse for the publishers; but I fail to find any plea of this sort set forth in their behalf." The only practicable remedy, the speaker felt, lay in the refusal to buy books that are so excessively costly; "a little experimenting will show that we can delay buying most of the offending books without injury to our libraries and without incurring much criticism. If the latter comes to us, let us boldly give our reasons for not buying; let us frankly show our critic that prices are exorbitant and that the library cannot afford them."

Miss M. E. Hazeltine, of the Prendergast Library, Jamestown, N. Y., presented on behalf of the smaller public libraries a statement of the changed methods of purchase that must result from the increased cost of books. To the small public libraries the net price system works a great hardship, lessening the power of the annual book appropriation by 20 per cent. This has enforced great care in book selection and in buying. The librarian of the small town is learning to wait until the protected price period has passed before buying net books—and in many cases after waiting a year the book has been proved unnecessary or undesirable; to buy older books, filling up gaps and rounding out special classes; to import largely for current publications; and to watch the market for bargain opportunities, and to study auction sales catalogues. Anderson H. Hopkins, of the John Crerar Library, Chicago, made a vigorous statement of the librarians' grievances, and urged two alternative methods—the appointment of a commission, jointly appointed and jointly financed by the Library Association, the Publishers' Association and the Booksellers' Association, to investigate and report upon the whole question of the relations of libraries and the booktrade, their mutual influence and responsibilities; or a concerted and systematic refusal on the part of librarians to purchase any net books during the period of protection. Mr. Wellman, of the Springfield (Mass.) City Library, advised the importation of books, so far as possible, and careful and conservative buying of net publications. Henry Malkan and S. F. McLean spoke on the side of the bookseller, urging especially the importance of the net price system as a means of arresting the former demoralization of the booktrade.

As a result of the discussion, and the recommendations made, the Council of the American Library Association adopted, and the Association ratified, the following resolution:

"Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the incoming Executive Board which shall specially represent the Association in efforts to mitigate the restrictions imposed on booksellers by the American Publishers' Association in limiting the discount on books purchased by librarians. This committee shall secure and from time to time communicate to the librarians of the country all the information procurable relative to this question; and it shall advise librarians as to any measures that may seem feasible, including variation in methods of purchase, for the avoidance or mitigation of the hardships experienced through the net price system. For the expenses of this committee during the coming year the sum of $200 is appropriated from the treasury of the Association."

PERMANENT OFFICE OF THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF PUBLISHERS.

THE fifth session of the International Congress of Publishers was to be held at Milan in 1904, to coincide with the inauguration of the Simplon Tunnel and the opening of the Milan Exhibition. Owing to delays in construction the inauguration of the Simplon Tunnel has been put off till April 13, 1905, and the opening of the Milan Exhibition has also been deferred till that date. In view of these facts the organizing committee of the Milan Congress has requested the Permanent Office to take measures to postpone the session of the International Congress. A canvass of the delegates resulted in a majority vote favorable to holding the session at Milan in April, 1905. The meeting of the Executive Committee, which was to be held this spring, has been put off to a later date.

The funds contributed towards maintaining the Permanent Office for three years have been administered so economically that the balance on hand is large enough to cover the expenses of a fourth year.

ACCUSED OF WORKING A DIRECTORY SWINDLE.

P. E. BOESON, editor and publisher of the Fairfield (Ia.) Tribune, according to The Fourth Estate, caused the arrest in Creston a week ago of two men, operating under the firm name of Emery & Sherman, whom he charges with working a directory swindle. One of the men, J. G. Emery, was held under $500 bonds for examination. Sherman was released.

THE RECOVERY OF A HISTORICAL DOCUMENT.

FRANK O. BRIGGS, State Treasurer of New Jersey, has in his possession a document which is believed to be an original and true copy of an act of Congress passed on July 5, 1790, while the National Legislature was in session in New York City, providing for the purchase by the Government of West Point, on the Hudson, as a military station and school of military instruction.

This document was presented to Mr. Briggs by Clayton L. Traver, the Trenton bookseller, who, knowing that the State Treasurer is a graduate of West Point, and naturally interested in anything pertaining to that place, secured possession of the paper when he found it while rummaging through one of the old book stores in Philadelphia.

The paper is in a splendid state of preservation. It is marked in ink with "No. 7," and signed by Thomas Jefferson, Secretary of State, and Frederick Augustus Muhlenberg, Speaker of the House of Representatives. John Adams's name as Vice-President also appears on the copy of the bill.

Governor Bloomfield was New Jersey's executive at that time, and as his name also appears on the document it is believed that it was sent to him from the Department of State.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

COURT OF APPEALS REVERSES ORDER IN THOMPSON CO. CASE.

THE United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Second Circuit, on July 2 handed down an opinion in the suit brought by the Edward Thompson Co., of Northport, L. I., publishers of the "American and English Encyclopedia of Law" and the "Encyclopedia of Pleadings and Practice," against the American Law Book Co., publishers of "The Encyclopedia of Law and Procedure," reversing the order of Justice Lacombe of the trial court, in which was granted a preliminary injunction against the defendant, enjoining 210 citations of cases as respecting the words and phrases used in defendant's books.

Had the injunction been sustained by the higher courts it would have compelled the defendant to have reprinted its volumes at a large cost.

Judge Coxe, in writing the opinion of the court, said, among other things:

"Briefly stated, then, the question is this: Is a copyrighted law book infringed by a subsequent work on the same subject where the only accusation against the second author is that he collected all available citations, including those found in the copyrighted work, and, after examining them in text books and reports, used those which he considered applicable to support his own original text? We are of the opinion that this question must be answered in the negative. The doctrine contended for by the complainant extends the law of copyright beyond its present bounds, and if pushed to its logical conclusion will inflict a far greater injury upon literature than it can ever expect to prevent. If it be held that an author cannot consult the authorities collected by his predecessors, the law of copyright, enacted to promote the progress of science and useful arts, will retard that progress. The defendant has not copied a sentence or a word from the complainant's book and, of course, has not appropriated the skill and taste of the complainant in selecting or arranging quotations or any other matter. The affidavits describing the method pursued by complainant's editors distinctly charge that they not only used, but actually copied, paragraphs and syllabi from the copyrighted works of the West Publishing Company and other publishers. This charge has not been denied, but an attempt has been made in the brief to excuse and palliate it. That there have been instances of piracy is, in substance, admitted in complainant's brief. A literary pirate is not entitled to much consideration in a court of equity. Consistency requires that the defendant should not be punished for doing that which the complainant does with perfect impunity. An author who has pirated a large part of his work from others is not entitled to have his copyright protected. Sufficient doubt is presented by the evidence properly before the court to warrant the refusal of a preliminary injunction."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

ANTHONY HOPE HAWKINS, the author, and Miss Elizabeth Sheldon, of New York, were married July 1, at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, London.

JACOB A. RUS is engaged at present in gathering material for a book on the President which he will call "Theodore Roosevelt, the Citizen." It will be published by the Outlook Company.

MARK TWAIN will pass the summer with his family at Elmira, N. Y. In October next he will sail for Europe on a trip to be undertaken for rest and recreation, but more especially to benefit Mrs. Clemens, who has been ill for a year.

PAUL P. DU CHAILLU left an estate the value of which is placed at less than $500 in the papers that were submitted to the surrogate of New York City this week. The settlement of his affairs is in the hands of Henry R. Hoyt, of 2 East Seventy-fifth Street, New York, who is the sole beneficiary, having been a friend of the explorer for many years.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Salesmanship is the title of a new monthly magazine published by The Salesmanship Company, at Meadville, Pa., at one dollar a year. Frank H. Dukessmith is the editor, and the first issue, dated June, gives evidence of his ability to treat the subject of selling in an attractive and helpful manner.

THE July issue of The Printing Art, published at Cambridge, Mass., contains an interesting and informing essay on "Book Illustration of To-day," by M. H. Spielmann, editor of The Magazine of Art; also, an article on "The Basis for Successful Printing," by the editor. There are the usual notes and comments and the descriptive text accompanying the typographical exhibits. These are unusually attractive this month, including among others examples of book pages and examples of catalogue pages. The frontispiece is a reproduction of an original water color by F. Charlet, engraved and printed in three impressions by the American Colortype Co., of New York. It is a surprisingly clever piece of color printing and worthy of close study by the manufacturer of books. The volume will be completed with the August number, six numbers constituting the volume. Beginning with September the annual subscription price will be raised to $5, single copies to 50 cents.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Bureau of University Travel, formerly at Ithaca, N. Y., is now at 201 Clarendon Street, this city.

CHANDLER, OKLA.—J. E. Rolland, bookseller, has been succeeded by Mrs. L. M. Jonett.

DALLAS, TEX.—The business of Percy E. Ginn has been absorbed by the Ginn, Myers & Perry Book and Stationery Co., incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000.

FITCHBURG, MASS.—Cummings & Remington, booksellers, have been succeeded by H. E. Remington.

HICKORY, N. C.—S. E. Akins, bookseller, has sold out.

MARIETTA, O.—A. D. Alderman has purchased the interest of E. S. Alderman in the Marietta Bookstore, and is now sole owner.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Anderson Auction Company, successors to John Anderson, jr., and Bangs & Co., auctioneers of literary and artistic property, announces its removal from 20 West Thirtieth Street and 91-93 Fifth Avenue to the spacious and more convenient quarters at No. 5 West Twenty-ninth Street, one door from Fifth Avenue.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Neale Publishing Company announce that in August the home of their editorial publication departments will be transferred from Washington to New York, to provide additional facilities to meet the requirements of the rapid growth and expansion of their business. The Washington building, at 431 Eleventh Street, is now undergoing extensive alterations, and will be entirely refitted and redecorated. It will continue the central establishment of the engraving and stationery departments. The sale of books at retail and to the trade will continue in part from Washington, and a branch of the editorial, advertising, and publication departments will also be maintained there in close touch with the New York house. Mr. Walter Neale, president of the corporation, will be in charge of the New York interests, and will be at the Washington establishment for several days, beginning the first and fifteenth of each month. The Washington interests will be in charge of the secretary, Mr. H. S. Neale. The principal plants for the manufacture of books will continue to be located in Baltimore and Washington.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—H. E. Pendry Company, recently incorporated, have removed from Powers Building to 497 East Main Street.

SAN JACINTO, CAL.—Edwin Minor, bookseller, has sold his business to Robert Carmichael.

SHEBOYGAN, MICH.—Miss Ida M. Fexer has bought out Louis A. Fexer's bookstore.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

DR. JAMES M. LUDLOW'S latest novel, "Deborah," has been placed upon the course of required reading by the Jewish Chautauqua Society.

THE PENN PUBLISHING COMPANY will be represented at the book show in Chicago by Mr. Frank W. Shoemaker, who will make his headquarters at the Palmer House.

MRS. WARD'S novel, "Lady Rose's Daughter," according to her American publishers, has now swung into the full stream of popular interest, and is selling at the rate of one thousand copies a day.

JAMES POTT & Co. will publish in the fall an account of Morocco, by Isabel Savory, author of "A Sportsman in India." The new book will be entitled "The Tail of the Peacock," and will be lavishly illustrated.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, announce a book of wonder tales for children from seven to seventy, entitled "The Ram-billicus Book," by Walt McDougall. The book is fully and very cleverly illustrated.

An edition of Count Tolstoi's pamphlet, "Thou Shalt Not Kill," which a Leipzig firm recently published, was seized by the Berlin police on the 4th inst. on the ground that it contains statements regarding Emperor William which are classed as high treason.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY will publish another nature book by John Henry Comstock, author of "Insect Life," which he is writing in collaboration with his wife. It will be entitled "How to Know the Butterflies," and will be illustrated with many colored plates.

ALBERT S. BROWN, who was found guilty of grand larceny in the second degree for stealing a set of books valued at $300 from Charles Scribner's Sons, by whom he was employed as clerk, was sentenced July 7 by Judge Newburger to an indeterminate term in the Elmira Reformatory.

WOODWARD & LOTHROP, Washington, D. C., report that a new edition, (the sixth,) of "Christology. Science of Health and Happiness," Oliver C. Sabin's notable work on metaphysical healing, has just been issued. The price of the new edition has been put at $1 a copy, instead of at the former price of $2.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will bring out later in the year "The Magic Forest," by Stewart Edward White, author of "The Blazed Trail" and "Conjuror's House." This is a charming story of the Canadian woods, the hero being a little boy who walks off a train in his sleep and ends by spending the summer with the Indians. It is full of the woods atmosphere.

M. D'ARSONVILLE, according to a special cable to the New York Herald, last week submitted to the Academy of Science an invention for typesetting by telegraph, the electric current being made to perforate characters on a moving band connected with a typesetting machine. It is claimed that the contrivance, which is the work of M. Rodmal, will dispense with transcription altogether for press purposes.

OWING to a strike in all the San Francisco bookbinding establishments the following books of the Bancroft-Whitney Company that should have appeared in June were not published: "American State Reports," v. 90; "California Reports," v. 138; "Rose's U. S. Digest," v. 3; "Montana Reports," v. 27; "Washington Reports," v. 30; also, "Deering's Code of Civil Procedure of California, 1903." These books will be ready this month.

THE UNITED STATES GOLF ASSOCIATION has just brought out its year book for 1903, which gives full information of its twenty-nine associate clubs and of its 218 allied clubs. The book also gives the records of the championships, the names of the past and present officers, and the by-laws and constitution. The date of each club's election is furnished, and, besides blank spaces for the insertion of new data before the next book is out, there is a comprehensive index. The present secretary of the association is Maturin Ballou, 10 Wall Street, New York.

THE CENTURY COMPANY will publish in the fall the chapters which have appeared from month to month in The Century during 1902 and 1903, telling the story of Pa Gladden, his simple faith, his quaint optimism, and his broad humanity, under the title of "Pa Gladden—the Story of a Common Man." Elizabeth Cherry Waltz, author of these sketches, is authority for the statement that the character of Pa Gladden is based upon that of her father, Major John Nicholas Cherry, a cavalry officer during the Civil War, and a man of broad and genial charity, much humor and quaint phraseology.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have just ready "Mors et Victoria," a drama in three acts, the heroine of which is maid of honor to Margaret of Navarre, who, persecuted at the court by the attentions of the Duke of Guise, flees to her father's castle for protection. Her lover is a Huguenot, and when the Duke of Guise, following the girl, fills the village with his soldiery, the young man takes up arms, and with his band is massacred. The heroine dies with her lover, who has persuaded her that life outlasts the grave. They have also just ready a special edition, limited to 250 copies, of "A Dream of John Ball and A King's Lesson," by William Morris.

JOHN LANE announces a new contribution to the Carlyle controversy, entitled "The Nemesis of Froude." It is stated that Sir James Crichton Browne and Alexander Carlyle look to this volume to clear Carlyle's memory of the imputations retailed by Geraldine Jewsbury, of whom a portrait will be given in the book. Mr. Lane has in preparation a new story by Nathaniel Stephenson, whose first novel, "They That Took the Sword," was published three years ago. The forthcoming book will be entitled "Eleanor Drayton." The scene is laid in Paris in the declining days of the Second Empire, and the heroine is an American girl.

THE "International Encyclopædia of Journalism" is announced, under the editorship of William Hill, (Westminster Gazette, London,) Alfred Harmsworth, (London Daily Mail), and Maurice Ernst, (Neue Wiener Tagblatt.) The encyclopædia, which will be provided with a full index, is to be published at a popular price, probably in two handy volumes on good thin paper. A bureau has been opened for the organization and accomplishment of the idea, which is to produce for the first time an authoritative history and comprehensive handbook of journalism in all its phases. Communications in furtherance of this object, (preferably in English, French or German,) addressed to the Secretary, "Encyclopædia of Journalism," Granville House, Arundel Street, Strand, London, W.C., are invited.

THE NEW JERSEY HISTORICAL SOCIETY has just issued the twenty-second volume of the New Jersey Archives, "Documents Relating to the Colonial History of the State of New Jersey." The volume is edited by William Nelson, and consists of Marriage Records 1665-1800. For the counties of Bergen, Hudson and Essex they are exhaustive so far as the material is extant; but much has perished. These church records succeed a transcript of the index to the marriage in the office of the Secretary of State at Trenton. Mr. Nelson's learned introduction reviews the early marriage laws of New Jersey, with excursions into New England, New York, Pennsylvania, etc. There are fourteen distinct alphabetically ordered lists. That for males of the Friends gives also some of the witnesses to the ceremony.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation "Songs and Poems," the first volume of verse by Marie Corelli, author of "The Master Christian," etc.; "William Bradford's First New York Book" and "Votes of the House of Representatives for His Majesty's Province of New York, 1695," facsimile reprints of the editions printed by Bradford in 1693 and 1695, respectively, each with an introduction by Miss A. R. Hasse, of the New York Public Library; also, a new book by Charles Wagner, the author of "The Better Way," to be entitled "Courage." The title of Mrs. Amelia E. Barr's new story, which is to be brought out in the fall, has been changed to "The Black Shilling." It is a tale of Boston towns, the opening scenes being in old Boston, in Lincolnshire, but soon pass to Boston proper. The time is that of the Mathers, and about the period of the witchcraft delusions.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS will publish in November the first four volumes of the Clarendon Press edition of the "Letters of Horace Walpole," edited by Mrs. Paget TOYNEBEE. There will be sixteen volumes in all, and there will be a limited edition, on hand-made paper, and editions on Oxford India paper and ordinary paper, all of which will in the first instance be offered to subscribers. Mrs. Toynebee has obtained the use of over 400 letters not included in the latest edition of the collected letters, and upwards of a hundred of these have never before been printed. A careful collation of the text with the original mss. has revealed many curious and interesting passages hitherto suppressed, and also many serious errors in transcription. The notes, except those written by Horace Walpole himself, have been compiled anew by Mrs. Toynebee, who has also prepared a very full analytical index. This new edition will be illustrated with fifty photogravure portraits of Walpole and his circle and with facsimiles.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just brought out a study of "The Rise and Progress of the Standard Oil Company," by Gilbert Holland Montague. Mr. Montague undertook this work while he was Ricardo Scholar in Economics at Harvard University, basing it upon the reports of official investigating commissions and committees. The chief sources are the "Hepburn" Committee, appointed in 1879 by the Legislature of New York to investigate railway abuses; the report submitted to Congress in 1888 by the Committee on Trusts, and the Industrial Commission appointed by the President in 1898. The volume covers the history of this company from its beginning in 1865, when John D. Rockefeller began refining petroleum in a small way at Cleveland, Ohio, until its control in 1878 of 95 per cent. of the entire oil business of the United States, and thence down to the present time. Their new subscription edition of the works of Richard Harding Davis is almost exhausted, and a new edition is being hurried to completion to meet a demand which has gone beyond the expectations of the publishers.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just brought out "A Reply to Harnack on the Essence of Christianity," lectures delivered in the summer of 1901 before students of all faculties in the University of Greifswald, by Dr. Hermann Cremer, Professor of Theology, translated from the third German edition by Dr. Bernhard Pick. Unlike other opponents of Harnack, Dr. Cremer refuses to meet the higher criticism upon the field that it has chosen for the contest, namely, the critical examination of the New Testament text, particularly that of the gospels. He denies that the essence of Christianity is comprehended in the teaching of Jesus in the four gospels, and affirms that it is found rather in the teachings of the evangelists and apostles about Jesus. He holds that the true nature of Christ and of his mission was revealed to the disciples through their realization of the meaning of his resurrection. This perception, being due to the quickening of their spiritual sense from above, belongs to a higher order of truth than merely rational observation. The soul that accepts it must be illuminated by a higher, diviner light than that of the intellect.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. expect to publish in September the following works of fiction: "Rebecca," by Kate Douglas Wiggin, the story of a little girl of decided character, whose every angle of mind and body is brought out on a visit to her maiden aunts "Down East;" "Jewel—a Chapter in Her Life," by Clara Louise Burnham, who tells the story of a little girl who has never known other than Christian Science influences until she is taken into the inharmonious household of her grandfather, where she makes her way against many antagonisms; "The Pine Grove House," by Ruth Hall, a realistic picture of the life of city people at a summer hotel in a small country town; "Zut and Other Parisians," by Guy Wetmore Carryl, eleven stories of the types of the French capital, full of Parisian vivacity and cleverness; also, "Mr. Salt," by Will Payne, a story portraying the characters brought together by modern business methods in Chicago and their influence upon one another, with illustrations by C. H. White. They will also publish in September a volume entitled "Aids to the Study of Dante," compiled by C. A. Dinsmore, a handbook of indispensable collateral reading compiled from the best Dante authorities; "The Clerk of the Woods," by Bradford Torrey, about thirty sketches of a year's observation in the woods and fields of New England; "My Own Story," by J. T. Trowbridge, the autobiography of a veteran story-writer and poet, delightful for its wide ranging comment upon men and events and for its ease and charm of style, with thirty portraits and illustrations; "A Land of Little Rain," by May Austin, describing the strange life of the arid region of southeastern California, with illustrations by E. B. Smith; also, "The Hill Towns of Italy," by Egerton R. Williams, jr., a narrative of a journey through central Italy, with forty illustrations and map.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word (Cash).

☞ Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Best Key to Educational Books.

THE

American Educational Catalogue

For 1903,

whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its thirty-fourth year, and that claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most complete order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue is made entirely new each year, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and all new books (ready or to be ready for the Fall) are added in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. POPE LEO XIII.

By JUSTIN MCCARTHY. With an interesting portrait. Second edition, revised and enlarged. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"This important work views the Pope from a distinctly 'modern' point of view. Easily and gracefully written, in Mr. McCarthy's best style, the volume is eminently readable and instructive.

"There is not a dull page in the book."—The Outlook.

"A very good succinct history of Leo XIII's administration."—The Sacred Heart Review.

"Eminently fair and impartial."—N. Y. Sun.

"Written in Mr. McCarthy's easy style, and in a thoroughly appreciative spirit."—Review of Reviews.

"Bigotry itself might melt before the tale of Leo's genuine goodness and high humanitarian intent; and Mr. McCarthy tells it well."—The Dial, Chicago.

FREDERICK WARNE & CO., 36 East 22d St., N. Y. City

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

A Key to Books in Print

In the 1902 PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

Index Volume

the books of the 246 publishers who contributed the lists bound up in alphabetical order in the Catalogues volume, are indexed, by author, title and subject catchword, furnishing, by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print on July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August. The Index volume and the Catalogues volume of

will be found the most useful, as well as the least expensive, single book trade reference work yet issued, especially for the booksellers and small libraries who cannot afford to buy many trade tools. Price, $2 for the Catalogues volume and $5 for the Index volume, separate, or $7 together, absolutely net.

The Catalogues volume is a huge octavo, probably the largest volume now issued, reaching, with 1902, 5700 pages, being $8\frac{1}{4}$ inches in thickness and weighing 20 pounds. Directions for enclosure delivery in New York should accompany the order, unless shipment is to be by express at the charge of the subscriber.

The Index volume, an octavo of 1114 pages, will be sent on approval to any bookseller or library enclosing 10 cents for partial postage. Of the Catalogues volume less than 300 remain unsubscribed, and the edition of the Index volume is also limited. Address,

The Wings of the Morning

By LOUIS TRACY

A New Publisher and a New Book

BOOKSELLERS are invited to participate in a plan which will give them immediate sales in good round numbers—three or four figures, anyway. "THE WINGS OF THE MORNING" would sell rapidly on its merits without advertising, but bookbuyers will be told about it in advance and will be ready for it as soon as copies are placed on sale.

Send your name and address and I will furnish free an attractive advertising plan which I pay for, and which will sell a large number of copies of "THE WINGS OF THE MORNING" for you. Details of this plan furnished to the book trade only. Write promptly for the best bookselling plan proposed yet.

State Publications

A Provisional List of the Official Publications of the Several States of the United States from their Organization

COMPILED UNDER THE EDITORIAL DIRECTION OF

R. R. BOWKER

PART I: NEW ENGLAND STATES—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut

Includes preface giving a sketch of State Bibliography.

PART II: NORTH CENTRAL STATES—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin

The complete work, exceeding 500 pages, will be furnished at $5. Subscriptions will be received only for the whole work.

 But 500 copies have been printed and there are no plates.

The attention of State libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries is especially called to this publication, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State, and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry, for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.

Publications of Societies

A Provisional List of the Publications of American Scientific, Literary, and Other Societies from their Organization

R. R. BOWKER

This volume, of 186 pages, schedules over 1100 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. It will be found of use in all libraries—in large libraries as a check-list, in small libraries as a bibliographical key to a most important field of special literature.

Price, $2.50 paper; $3 cloth

OFFICE OF THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

298 BROADWAY, (P. O. BOX 943,) NEW YORK

Bibliographic Publications.

For all American books as they appear, take THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY; for an hour's glance each month at the important books and magazine papers, take LITERARY NEWS; for library matters take THE LIBRARY JOURNAL; for magazine articles in general, consult THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX; for books in print or issued of late years, see THE AMERICAN AND ANNUAL CATALOGUES, also, the index to the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902 and the Index thereto.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Established in 1872, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852.) Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly cumulative indexes, etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year, postpaid; to foreign countries, postpaid, $4.00 a year; single numbers, 10 cents, postpaid. Special Numbers: Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Number, 25 cents; the numbers containing the three, six and nine months' Cumulated Lists, 25 cents each. Extra copies of the Annual Summary Number, to subscribers only, $1.00.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL. Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription, $5.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 50 cents. Price to Europe, or other countries in the Union, $6 a year; single numbers, 25. (LITERARY NEWS is sent free to subscribers of THE LIBRARY JOURNAL.) Teachers may be interested in the "School Number" published in the spring of each year.

GENERAL INDEX TO THE LIBRARY JOURNAL, vols. 1-22, 1876-1897. Arranged to serve as an index to succeeding volumes or for other sources of professional information. 4°, in sheets, or paper binding, $2.50; A. L. A. half leather, $3.00.

LITERARY NEWS. A Monthly Journal of Current Literature. Contains the freshest news concerning books and authors; lists of new publications; reviews and critical comments; characteristic extracts; sketches and anecdotes of authors; bibliographical references; prominent topics of the magazines; portraits of authors, and illustrations from the newest books, etc., etc. Subscription, $1.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 10 cents.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books in print and for sale July 1, 1876, compiled under the direction of F. LEVOLDT, and its supplements, 1876-82, 1882-90, 1890-95, and 1895-1900, compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER, aims to present all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first part alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second part alphabetically by subjects.

The Catalogue and its supplementary volumes form the only approximately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consumer is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information by a convenient method.

The author-and-title volume of the 1876 volume is out of print. A limited number of the subject volume may be had in half leather binding at $15.

The volumes covering the periods 1876-84 and 1884-90 are also out of print.

—, 1890-95, 4°, hf. mor., $15.
—, 1895-1900, 4°, hf. mor., $15.

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, containing yearly the monthly lists in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, cumulated, giving in one alphabet, by author, title, and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by the latest volume. It also contains a directory of publishers with full street addresses. The current volume covering 1900 to 1902, inclusive. 8vo, cloth, net, $3.00.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL. Contains: The latest catalogues of upwards of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume. These lists, all bound in one volume arranged alphabetically for ready reference, with marginal index, guiding the finger at once to the right letter, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. Large 8vo, cloth, without index, net, $2.00; with index, 2 v., 8°, net, $7.00.

INDEX TO THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, 1902, contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in the Catalogues volume of the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902, furnishing by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August of that year. 2 v., 8°, cl., net $5.00.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX, including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the cooperation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER. 8°, cloth, $3.50.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE. Contains a price-list of all the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE [Annual giving full titles classified under author and subject in one strict alphabet, with particulars of the size, price, month of publication, and name of publisher of the books issued in Great Britain and Ireland, in the calendar year, being a continuation of the "London" and "British" Catalogues. [London: Sampson Low, Marston & Co.] 8vo, cloth, net, $1.50. THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE and THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE bound in one volume, cloth, $4.50.

A Story of New York of To-Day

READY IN AUGUST

The Silver Poppy

By Arthur Stringer

12mo, Cloth, $1.50

HERE is a story of stirring dramatic interest, teeming with the life of a great city. Mr. Stringer has already made many friends through his short stories of New York life, stories which, through their plot and motive, reveal the author's power of analyzing the great drama being enacted about us, but which is so little understood.

This is Mr. Stringer's first long story. It will appeal to a wide public through its originality of plot, its dramatic interest, the literary charm of its description and its sparkling dialogue. The New York of to-day is reproduced in graphic and apt scenes as it has not often been done before, with poetic appreciation for its beauties and a keen eye for its dramatic values.

Miss Sylvester's Marriage

By CECIL CHARLES

Illustrated by W. SHERMAN POTTS

Cloth, 8vo, $1.00

Miss Sylvester, the niece of a society leader in New York, has some of the wild blood of the South American Spaniard in her veins, and she is fascinated by Count Geraldine, a daring adventurer, who claims to be worth millions as the beneficiary of a pearl-fishery concession. The story of their sensational marriage and its strange results is told with great realism and admirable art.

BALTIMORE SUN—"A strange and powerful novel, which will appeal to all sorts and conditions of men and women, especially the latter, to whom matrimony, whether real or fictitious, is a subject of perennial interest."

Perkins, the Fakeer

By EDWARD S. VAN ZILE

A Yankee, after long residence in the East, has become an adept in magical arts, and on his return to America amuses himself by occult pranks that involve innocent persons in appalling dilemmas.

Fifth Edition

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just ready "Count Zarka," a novel of mystery and strange surprises, by Sir William Magnay, author of "The Red Chancellor," etc., with a frontispiece by Maurice Greiffenhagen. They have in preparation a collection of stories by Morley Roberts, entitled "The Promotion of the Admiral," also, a new volume of poems by Bliss Carman, to be entitled "Sappho—One Hundred Lyrics," which will be published in a limited edition, printed on paper originally made for the Kelmscott Press.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready two important new novels. The first of these, perhaps, is James Lane Allen's "The Mettle of the Pasture," in which is said to be renewed and perfected all the haunting charm and magnetic sweetness of the author's "A. Kentucky Cardinal." A competent authority calls it "Mr. Allen's masterpiece—a work of beauty and finished art." The other novel is "The Call of the Wild," by Jack London, in which, though its hero is a superb dog named Buck, is pictured "all the relentless fascination of the wild Alaskan 'toil of trace and trail.'" Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie thinks that the book is "likely to make a deep impression by reason of its power and its unusual theme." They will publish shortly "St. Paul and the Ante-Nicene Church: an Unwritten Chapter of Church History," by the Rev. Stewart Means, rector of St. John's Church, New Haven, Conn., who deals with the type of piety as set forth by St. Paul and as it presents itself since the second century.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have just ready a Teachers' edition of the American Standard Revised Bible, edited by the American Revision Committee. The "Helps" in this volume consist of a "Concise Bible Dictionary," based on the "Illustrated Bible Treasury," written by leading scholars in America and Great Britain, which supplies in condensed and convenient form all the latest information about the Bible, its writers, its language, the various versions, complete chronology, life of Christ with harmony of the Gospels, life and travels of St. Paul, etc.; also, an entirely new "Combined Concordance," prepared specially for this edition, which combines complete concordance, subject-index, Scripture, proper names, obsolete and ambiguous words in one A-B-C list, also giving the correct pronunciation and interpretation of Scripture proper names, and over 10,000 references to the King James Version where it differs from the Revised. The volume also contains twelve colored maps, carefully revised, and a number of illustrations.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just published an instructive volume entitled "The Book of the Short Story," edited by Alexander Jessup and Henry Seidel Canby. The volume contains selections from an Egyptian papyrus, 2500 B.C., from the Bible, from the "Golden Ass" of Lucius Apuleius, from "The Decameron," the "Arabian Nights," "Don Quixote," and from the writings of Defoe, Voltaire, Washington Irving, Walter Scott, Prosper Mérimée, Balzac, Hawthorne, Poe, Turgeneff, Robert Louis Stevenson, Maupassant and Kipling. The purpose of the volume is to give, both by exposition and example, a view of the short story from the earliest times to the close of the nineteenth century. In addition to the eighteen representative tales that the volume contains there is a general introduction and notes before each story. There are also lists of the principal short story collections of the world's literature. While the book is designed primarily for educational purposes, it will be found to possess a lively interest for the general reader.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of Action (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. Annual register (The): a review of public events at home and abroad, for 1902. New series. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1903. 8+167 p. O. cl., $6.

The first part of this volume is devoted to a résumé of the political history of England during the year 1902. The events of Parliamentary life are noted, and the principal speeches summarized. Foreign and colonial history are also dealt with. In the second part a chronological summary is given of the principal events of the year, both foreign and domestic; this is followed by a retrospect of literature, science and art, and an obituary of eminent persons. A full index adds very materially to its value as a work of reference.

Bostock, Frank C. The training of wild animals; ed. by Ellen Velvin. N. Y., Century Co., 1903. [Jl.] c. 17+256 p. il. D. cl., $1 net.

"The training of wild animals" is an animal book out of the ordinary, for the writer, Frank C. Bostock, has spent his life with wild beasts and knows all their ways, their whims, their good points, and their bad. The book tells interestingly how the lad Bostock proved his fitness for an animal trainer despite his father's hope of a Church of England career for his son; of thirty years' experience with lions and tigers, elephants, and other wild creatures; and gives many details of the training—always a work of unlimited patience, courage, and endurance—which tames the wild animal into his trainer's puppet.

Cremer, Hermann, D.D. A reply to Harnack on "The essence of Christianity": lectures delivered in the summer of 1901 before students of all faculties in the University of Greifswald; tr. from the 3d German ed. by Bernhard Pick. N. Y., Funk & Wagnalls Co., 1903. c. 12+268 p. D. cl., $1 net.

Dr. Cremer, who is a theological professor in Greifswald University, the German stronghold of orthodoxy, is recognized not only in his own country but throughout the religious world as one of the ablest and most eloquent of the supporters of evangelical Christianity. His lectures in reply to the critique, "What is Christianity," by Prof. Harnack, attracted instant attention throughout Germany as by far the strongest of the many answers to the attack of the brilliant Berlin professor. Unlike other opponents of Harnack, Dr. Cremer refuses to meet the higher criticism upon the field that it has chosen for the contest, viz., the critical examination of the New Testament text, particularly that of the Gospels. He denies that the essence of Christianity is comprehended in the teaching of Jesus in the four Gospels, and affirms that it is found rather in the teachings of the evangelists and apostles about Jesus.

"This book is a study in civil and administrative history. Its object is to describe the growth, to analyze the character, and to estimate the influence of the Napoleonic system in Germany; of campaigns and battles it will say practically nothing; of diplomacy only so much as will enable the reader to understand how it was that by 1807 Napoleon had become the master of Germany. Personal descriptions will occur, for all systems are worked by men and moulded by those who work them. But the main purpose of the book is not to draw portraits of persons, but to show how the Napoleonic states in Germany were created and governed."—Preface.

As an introduction to the main task of this book, the author indicates the strength of the New Testament attestation of the Virgin birth and offers an interpretation of the story as found in the gospels of Matthew and Luke. The theological uses to which the Fathers put the virgin-birth narrative, the influence of the apocryphal writings upon their understanding of the story and the relation of their interpretations to the prologue of the Fourth Gospel, are carefully considered.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JULY 18, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE AMERICAN LIBRARY ASSOCIATION AND NET PRICES.

At the recent conference of the American Library Association, at Niagara Falls much of the time and more of the thought of the convention were given to the relation between libraries and the booktrade, which, indeed, proved to be the "burning question" of the conference. The librarians have felt that they have not been altogether well treated by the booktrade in view of the two facts that public libraries, as a class, are the largest purchasers of books, and that they are purchasers for public purposes, and in part out of public funds. As the purpose of the net price system is to make a just price to all concerned, and as the exceptional character of library purchases was specifically acknowledged in making libraries the sole exception to the rule that no discounts whatever were to be made on net prices, there is perhaps less ground for dissatisfaction on these counts than our friends the librarians assert.

The grievance which has unfortunately created so much real feeling of antagonism on the part of the librarians has perhaps been partly of manner or method. We have not heard that the committee of the library organizations has been treated by the authorities of the American Publishers' Association otherwise than with consideration and courtesy, though the desired result was not reached; but not a little heated feeling has been engendered by the extreme talk at meetings of, or by members of both the Booksellers' Association and the library organizations. "Extremes meet" only with increased antagonism, and it is to be hoped that the more conservative members of both the Booksellers' and the Library Associations may act toward calming the troubled waters. The request or demand on the part of the Booksellers' Association that discounts should be taken away from the libraries altogether was met at the recent conference of the American Library Association by provision for a nationally representative committee to consider and report upon measures of evasion of the net price system—which means, in part, importation of English editions as far as possible, which can be done under the copyright law to the extent of two copies for each library, and these free of duty. It is asserted that many libraries have been able to purchase at prices below the ten per cent. allowed on the publishers' plan, by indirect methods which could scarcely be creditable to all the participants, perhaps less creditable to a bookseller evading the publishers' plan than to a librarian purchasing as best he might. The committee is to be appointed by the Executive Board of the American Library Association, and it is to be hoped it will be met in the most friendly spirit by representatives of the American Publishers Association and the American Booksellers' Association, so that the librarians as a body may be satisfied that no injustice is intended or will be brought about by the net price system.

There is one question of fact on which librarians have a right to be heard. It was figured at the Wisconsin meeting in 1901 that the price of books to librarians under the net price system with ten per cent. discount would be raised practically five to ten per cent.—an increase in price which most librarians professed themselves perfectly willing to accept, in view of the general advantages of a reform in the booktrade which should strengthen the bookstores as coadjutors with the libraries in the work of diffusing knowledge through books. A chief grievance of the librarians has been that the prices of net books have not been reduced in accordance with the publishers' plan, so they claim, but that the old retail prices have been in many cases maintained, and in some cases actually raised. So far as this claim is well founded we have no hesitation in saying that this is a business mistake that will react disastrously upon the publisher taking such a course. Several of the supposed instances, as we have from time to time pointed out, rest upon apparent rather than real facts; individual books have been published at a seemingly higher price because there was specific reason, which would have caused the book under the old system to have been published at a still higher price. In other words, many of these specific grievances have been supposititious rather than real. It is true that in some cases individual publishers have made the mistake of adhering to old prices while lessening trade as well as library discounts, and this constitutes a real grievance on the part of the librarians which should have the fullest consideration at the hands of the booktrade. It is to be remembered, of course, that the American Publishers' Association has nothing to do, officially, with prices as made by individual publishers—has indeed no power over prices; but public opinion within the trade as well as the opinion of the public who constitute the final court of appeal, should be against the misuse of the publishers' plan to increase instead of to decrease nominal or actual prices. The whole spirit of the reform, as has been expressed by leading publishers in the course of the several discussions, is not that the publisher should advance his price, but that the retail trade should be supported in making a price just to the public, and to libraries as a part of the public, which would practically be an average between the old nominal advertised price charged to some customers and the extreme discounts allowed to others.

We have treated this question outspokenly and candidly, having in mind the points of view both of the booktrade and of librarians, because it is not wise to rest this reform upon any other grounds than public policy. That is the best justification for booktrade reform, and the course of the movement should be fully in accordance with the best interests of all concerned.

THE letter from Mr. Thwing, printed in another column, throws interesting side-lights on Justice Ingraham's decision. The fundamental fact, which it seems to us the decision has overlooked, is that the judge is applying a law against "monopoly" in a case where a higher authority, the Congress of the United States, has specifically provided for a monopoly by virtue of the copyright law. There seems little doubt that the decision will be ultimately reversed when the case, after trial on the main issue, reaches the Court of Appeals, if indeed it gets so far.

SOME SIDE-LIGHTS ON THE MACY DECISION.

JUDGE INGRAHAM's opinion in the Macy case seems to me vulnerable at the vital point. He says:

"I do not understand that the Copyright Law gives to a publisher any right in the book when once it is published and sold. . . . When a publisher of a copyrighted book once sells the book the Copyright Law gives him no right to prevent its being sold by the person to whom he sells it, or to interfere in any way with the property right of the purchaser in the book which has been sold by the person owning the copyright. The publisher of a copyrighted book certainly cannot sell and receive the price and still own and control the book. He can prevent any other publisher from publishing and selling it, but the book once sold becomes the property of the purchaser, and neither the publisher nor the author can interfere with the ownership of the book that the publisher has sold."

This is intended to dispose of the claim that the Copyright Law gives the publisher a monopoly in a copyrighted book, and consequently the right to sell it under such restrictions as he sees fit. Judge Ingraham does not speak to the question, and what he says is not only irrelevant but fundamentally untrue.

1. The plaintiffs did not allege that their property right in books which had been sold to them had been interfered with by the publishers or others who had sold them the books. On the contrary, the plaintiffs only alleged that the publishers and owners of copyrighted books refused to sell the books to them except on condition that they, the plaintiffs, would enter into a certain agreement beforehand. Then if they violated that agreement the further sale to them of the books would be discontinued. The right to impose conditions that shall govern the retail sale of impressions of a copyrighted book is exercised before these impressions are sold by the publisher, not afterward, as Judge Ingraham implies. After the sale to the dealer, the publisher merely exercises his right to insist upon the non-violation of contract.

2. A publisher does not sell a copyrighted book to the bookseller. He sells him one or more copies or impressions of the book, and he certainly can "sell and receive the price" of these copies or impressions "and still own and control the book." If he could not do so, he would never invest thousands of dollars in securing ownership and control of the book, and in manufacturing copies or impressions of the same for sale. The "property right" vested in the owner of the copyrighted book and guaranteed to him by the Copyright Law is vastly greater than "the property right of the purchaser" in the copy or impression "which has been sold to him by the person owning the copyright." It seems strange that Judge Ingraham should put emphasis on the "property right" of the man who has merely secured the privilege of selling at retail a few impressions of a copyrighted book, a transaction involving comparatively small investment and risk, and belittle the property right of the publisher whose investment and risk are so much larger with respect to the same book.

It needs no argument to show that if the publisher's property right in a copyrighted book, which right is guaranteed to him for twenty-eight years by the Copyright Law, is to remain of any value it must be protected against conditions which would impair or destroy that value. It must be so protected, even if to do so necessitates an arrangement by which purchasers are permitted to secure only a partial property right in the impressions of such a book. It is impossible to sever the relationship between the sale of these impressions and the protection of the property right in the book itself.

Certainly the owner of a copyrighted book or a patented article is at liberty to decide whether he will sell that book or other article with restrictions or without them, or whether he will sell it at all—in other words, whether he will give to the dealer or user absolute or only partial property right or no property right at all in the thing he transfers to him. The manufacturers of telephones have decided to give their customers no property right, but only the right to use the telephones under certain restrictions. Railroad companies and theatres sell their tickets subject to specified restrictions. Real estate is sold with restrictions, a violation of which invalidates the title. Moreover, the purchaser of such real estate cannot resell it free from such restrictions. We never hear it seriously asserted that an owner of a piece of land or of commutation tickets on a railroad "cannot sell and receive the price and still control" the same by the restrictions which were a condition of the sale, or that when "once sold it becomes the property of the purchaser," whose ownership can continue without "interference," even though he violates the conditions on which he was permitted to purchase. But the publisher of a copyrighted book does not go so far as to "interfere with the ownership of the book" already sold, even when the specified condition of the sale is violated. He merely refuses to sell further until satisfied that agreements will be kept.

The Copyright Law which forbids any other than the owner of the copyright to publish, produce, or sell unauthorized impressions of a copyrighted book and thus gives the publisher a full and free "monopoly in the manufacture, production and sale" of said book does not impose upon the owner of the copyright any commands or obligations as to the persons to whom he shall sell, or the terms, restrictions, or agreements under which he shall sell it; nor is there any other law on the statute books which does so. The law against monopolies is not intended to and does not destroy the privileges guaranteed by the Copyright Law. To compare the sale of flour, in the production of which there can be competition, with the sale of a copyrighted book, in the production of which there cannot be competition, is altogether wrong, and serves to show still more clearly that the law which governs the sale of the one cannot govern the sale of the other.

3. It has been demonstrated again and again that the restrictions and conditions imposed upon the sale of copies of a copyrighted book are not intended and do not act "to restrain the free sale of the article" or "the free pursuit of any lawful business," but, on the contrary, to encourage and promote "the free pursuit of the lawful business, trade and occupation" of retail bookselling. "We have a combination expressly organized for an object" just opposite to that "which the statute declares as against public policy, illegal and void." Further, "we have the fact that such combination or arrangement has been made and is being applied to" enable booksellers to continue and enlarge their business and to "prevent the plaintiffs from" destroying the same by unfair and fraudulent means which have caused the booksellers "large damage for which they have no adequate remedy at law; and it seems to follow that, such a condition being admitted, the" booksellers "are entitled to some relief," which the net price plan agreed upon by the American Publishers' Association and the American Booksellers' Association is now giving them.

"The judgment (of Judge Ingraham) should therefore be reversed."

EUGENE THWING.

A SCHOOL FOR ITALIAN BOOKSELLERS.

A SCHOOL for Italian booksellers has been established at Milan under the direction of Professor Giuseppe Fumagalli, with headquarters at No. 4 Via Kramer.

The school will be open to all who have passed through a public school. Those already engaged in the book business, either on their own account or as employees, are admitted only as hearers. Both classes—pupils and hearers—are required to pay a fee of five liras a year, which at the end of the course is returned to those who have been absent fewer than ten times.

At the end of the year the pupils are expected to present themselves for two oral and two written examinations. The oral examinations will be in practical bibliography and in the knowledge of matters relating to the book-trade, as well as of French; the written examinations will be in literary and trade history and in the preparing of catalogues.

The sessions for the present will be held each week, on Monday, Thursday and Friday evenings, from 8:30 to 9:30. The course will be extended from time to time, so as to include a fairly thorough knowledge of everything relating to the history of the book, its manufacture and sale, the laws governing commerce, the practical application of bibliography, etc., as well as a speaking acquaintance with French, German and English and the rudiments of Latin and Greek.

NEW YORK NEWSDEALERS MEET.

THROUGH a circular distributed among newsdealers of the upper west side of New York City a meeting was held in Colonial Hall, 101st Street and Columbus Avenue, on Sunday evening, July 12, to recruit the membership of the New York Newsdealers and Stationers' Protective and Benevolent Association. M. E. Golde, chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, presided, and addresses were made by Thomas F. Martin, president of the association; A. Lebein, secretary; Michael B. Feeney, counsel, and several others. It is the intention of the leaders to increase the membership and "to make the forces larger to fight for the rights of the newsdealers of New York." About fifty-five newsdealers attended.

THE GRAPHIC ARTS BUILDING.

THE dream of printers, engravers, lithographers, electrotypers and bookbinders for a building in which their trades might be housed under one roof is about to be realized. From the earliest times traders and merchants have recognized the advantage of being assembled in localities. Out of such close association grew the ancient guilds and trades companies that up to a certain period proved of such inestimable benefit to all concerned. Then came the reaction; the revolutionary periods of 1793 and 1848 broke down the restrictions of the trade guilds and "freedom of trade," (gewerbfreiheit), became the order of the day. While it may have been desirable to prune the old system of the trade guilds of many of its obnoxious excrescences, and to clear the road of commerce of many of the old-time obstructions—obstructions that often barred the way of the deserving young master to the advantage of a less-deserving monopolist—it was to be regretted that in the levelling process some of the advantages of these trade organizations should also have been swept away. Among these, as already mentioned, none was more benign in influence or more profitable, than the assembling of the factories or plants of a certain trade and its cognate businesses in one locality. While the retail trades have always recognized the advantage of nearness to their rivals in business, the manufacturer has tended in the other direction, often to the disadvantage of all with whom he dealt, as well as to his own loss. In the publishing business in New York City, a generation ago, for example, while the publisher and retailer were congregated in one section of the city, the paper dealer was in another section, the printer in still another and more remote section, the bookbinder anywhere out of sight, the typefounder very likely in Philadelphia, and the electrotyper and lithographer wherever they found inexpensive quarters. In almost every case all the interests concerned were miles from the post-office and railway termini.

In recent years the tendency fortunately is towards concentration, and trades are ever drawing nearer together. Already there are several large buildings in New York which house under one roof large printing and book-binding plants. But while most of these buildings fill one or two requirements, such as strength of structure and comparative proof against fire, they are defective in other particulars, and but few are convenient to shipping facilities.

To meet the requirements of the various trades engaged in the making of books, namely, strength of structure, freedom from vibration, perfect light, equable temperature, thorough ventilation, proof against fire, facilities for photographing, store room for plates, negatives, etc., ample facilities for trucking, elevators, and the expeditious handling of raw material and products, the Publishers' and Printers' Realty Company, in which the publishers of Town Topics, Smart Set, etc., and William Green, the printer, are interested, are erecting a fourteen story building in New York City, on the south side of Thirty-eighth Street, just west of Eighth Avenue, with a frontage of 250 feet. Running south the building will have a depth of about 100 feet. The power house, with a frontage of 50 feet, will stand on the north side of Thirty-seventh Street, detached from the main building. In determining the location consideration was given to the fact that the next few years will see the principal business and industrial centre of New York City fixed in the territory north of Twenty-third Street and south of Fifty-third Street, and between Fifth Avenue and the North River. This is so by reason of these determining factors: The coming of the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel and its terminal station at Thirty-first Street to Thirty-third Street and Seventh to Ninth Avenues; the development of the New York Central station, Forty-second Street to Forty-eighth Street; the subways and the new post-office, (from which must be handled 75 per cent. of all the mails of the metropolis,) west of Eighth Avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-third Streets.

The Graphic Arts Building will be so constructed that the nine upper stories will have windows on all sides, while the lower five stories will have ample light front and back. There will be seven large freight elevators and two continuous conveyors on endless chain for carrying mail sacks and small packages; also, four large high-speed passenger elevators. An eighty-foot platform will be provided for trucking to accommodate ten large wagons at once. Four large wastepaper chutes will carry off promptly all waste paper, binders' scraps, etc. Photographic galleries and dark rooms will be installed on the roof for the use of the tenants, and for the comfort of the principals and employees there will be several restaurants.

Barring strikes or unavoidable delays, the building will be ready for occupancy in about a year from the present time.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

COPYRIGHT CONGRESS.

THE twenty-fifth congress of the Association Litteraire et Artistique Internationale will be held this year in Weimar, Saxony, from the 24th to the 30th of September. Among the ten subjects that will be brought up for consideration that of the "Revision of the Berne Convention" will be of the greatest importance. Proposals will be submitted to the United States, Holland, Russia, Sweden and Roumania for better protection to foreign authors. Those wishing to attend the congress may communicate with the secretary of the association, Jean Lobel, 22 Rue de Châteaudun, Paris, France.

COPYRIGHT PROTECTION.

THORVALD SOLBERG, the Register of Copyrights, delivered an interesting address on "Copyright Protection and Statutory Formalities" before the recent convention of music publishers in New York. Those interested in the subject will find Mr. Solberg's remarks very fully reported in the July 4th issue of The Music Trades, published by J. C. Freund, of New York.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM ERNEST HENLEY, poet, critic and dramatist, died on the evening of July 12, at Woking, near London. Mr. Henley was born at Gloucester, August 23, 1849. He was educated at the Crypt Grammar School, Gloucester. As a medical student at Edinburgh in 1873 to 1875 he became a close friend of Robert Louis Stevenson. From 1882 to 1886 Mr. Henley was editor of The Magazine of Art and later was in charge of The National Observer and The New Review. His works were chiefly poems and essays. Among them were "A Book of Verses" (1888), "The Song of the Sword" (1892), "The Works of Lord Byron" (1897), "English Lyrics" (1897), "For England's Sake" (1900), and "Hawthorn and Lavender" (1901). He worked with Robert Louis Stevenson on the plays "Deacon Brodie," "Beau Austin," "Admiral Guinea" and "Macaire." An estimate of Stevenson, published in 1901, caused a furious controversy in England.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

A. T. QUILLER-COUCH's new novel, entitled "Fort Amity," will run as a serial in The Monthly Review.

SIR PHILIP BURNE-JONES has written his "Impressions of America." The book will be illustrated from his own sketches.

HERBERT SPENCER, now in his eighty-fourth year, is very feeble and able only occasionally to sit up. There is little hope of reviving strength.

GEORGE W. VANDERBILT is placing in All Soul's Church, at Biltmore, N. C., a window to the memory of his friend and companion, Paul Leicester Ford.

ROBERT J. BURDETTE, "the Burlington Hawk-eye man," who a few years ago retired from the newspaper field, has decided to settle down as a preacher. There having been a split in the First Baptist Church of Los Angeles, two hundred of the seceding members requested Mr. Burdette to become their pastor. After due deliberation Mr. Burdette consented, and one of the largest church edifices in Los Angeles has been leased by the new congregation. Mr. Burdette was licensed minister in the Baptist church in 1887, and for a time had charge of the Gladwyne (Pa.) Baptist Chapel.

NORMAN DUNCAN is about to sail for the Labrador coast to complete the collection of material for a novel dealing with the rugged life on those shores. Mr. Duncan has spent four seasons in that region and contributed to various magazines stories of the deep sea fisherman's life that will be published in book form this fall. This year Mr. Duncan and S. Edgar Briggs, of the Fleming H. Revell Company, are to be the guests of Dr. Wilfred Grenfell on his hospital ship Strathcona, on a cruise down the Labrador. An idea of the life to which Dr. Grenfell will introduce them may be gained from the fact that this is his third hospital ship, two previous ones having been wrecked in the ice.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—R. A. Glover & Co. have gone into involuntary bankruptcy.

CINCINNATI, O.—The J. F. McCurdy Company has assigned.

CLEVELAND, O.—George B. Rogers, of the Arcade News Company, has been succeeded by Edward Brown.

HARTFORD, CONN.—A. J. Shepard has sold out his book business.

HIGHTSTOWN, N. J.—W. D. Wear, bookseller, has sold out to Max Neuman.

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.—Robert W. Taber has received his discharge in bankruptcy and has resumed business at the old stand, 28 Pleasant Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—A petition in bankruptcy was filed on July 16 against Frank Tennyson Neely, publisher, of 40 West Thirty-fourth Street, who failed in October, 1899, with liabilities of $359,000, and small assets. The petitioning creditors are Charles D. Sibley, $3000; Frank W. Hickok, $79, and William U. Moore, $85. The petition states that Mr. Neely is doing business as Frank Neely, the Neely Company, the Home Savings Bank Company and the Anglo-American Press. His factory for making steel boxes for savings is at 68 Richardson Street, Brooklyn, where the landlord has threatened to dispossess him; but a restraining order was obtained to prevent the landlord from interfering with the assets. Judge Adams, of the United States District Court, has appointed Marshall S. Hagar receiver of the assets. Neely got a discharge in bankruptcy on January 29, 1901. He started the Home Savings Bank Company business about eighteen months ago.

RALEIGH, N. C.—C. D. Taylor has made an assignment.

WEST BEND, WIS.—Marcus Schwinn, bookseller, has been succeeded by Schwinn & Grace.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE CAMBRIDGEPORT (Mass.) DIARY COMPANY has purchased from the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Co., of Hartford, Conn., their diary business with copyrights and all other rights in the American Diaries.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish late in the Summer "The Silver Poppy," a new book by Arthur Stringer; also, "The Pool in the Desert," a volume of short stories by Sara Jeanette Duncan, author of "These Delightful Americans."

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready new editions of "Cooking in Old Creole Days," by Célestine Eustis; "Our Edible Toadstools and Mushrooms," by William Hamilton Gibson; also, of Constance Fennimore Woolson's well-known novel, "Anne."

JOHN LANE is about to publish the last, but one, of the books printed in the Vale Press type, by L. and E. Pissarro. It is "D'Aucassin and de Nicolette," with a colored frontispiece by Lucien Pissarro. The last Vale Press book will be a bibliography of the Vale Press publications, and will be brought out in the fall.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just arranged for an important work in three volumes, by S. P. Scott, to deal with the Moors in Spain. The volumes in an historical sense will supplement Prescott's works, and they will probably appear early in autumn. "At the Time Appointed," Mrs. A. Maynard Barbour's detective story, has gone into its fourth edition.

THE SMART SET PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, will publish next month "The Congressman's Wife," by John D. Barry, the dramatic critic, and author of "A Daughter of Thespis," a political story, the scenes of which are laid first in Washington and then in New York; "The Career of Mrs. Osborne," by Helen Milecete, an extravaganza in prose, sketching a certain side of London smart life; also, "Araby," a romantic as well as realistic story of modern life, by the Baroness von Hutten.

ON July 1 the law passed by the German Reichstag on March 22 to protect the Geneva symbol of neutrality went into effect. It is now illegal in Germany to employ the Geneva red cross on a white or other colored background, for any commercial purpose whatever, or to use the words "Red Cross" in connection with any firm name or title, excepting with the special permission of the authorities. Those who have hitherto used either the symbol or the words as a trademark must discontinue their use after July 1, 1906.

THE SOCIAL CIRCLE in Concord has in preparation at Hardy, Pratt & Co.'s, of Boston, a volume containing an account of the proceedings of the centenary of the birth of Ralph Waldo Emerson. The book will contain a portrait of Emerson and the addresses of Dean Briggs, of Harvard, Samuel Hoar, Charles Eliot Norton, William James, Thomas Wentworth Higginson and Senator Hoar. The book will be sold only by the Social Circle, in cloth and paper binding. It will be ready by the middle of this month.

JAMES POTT & Co. will publish on September 15 a volume on "Budapest, the City of Magyars," by F. Berkeley Smith, the author of "How Paris Amuses Itself," etc., with a number of illustrations from photographs taken by the author; "Count Falcon of the Eyrie," a stirring tale of Italy in the Middle Ages, by Clinton Scollard; "Paris in '48," by Baroness Bonde, the daughter of Sir Richard Robinson, of Rokeby, in Ireland, one of the most accomplished women of her time, who resided in Paris from 1819 to 1849, and was acquainted with most of the leading statesmen; also, "A Short History of the Ancient Greek Sculptors," by Helen Edith Legge, with introduction by Professor Percy Gardner, with illustrations.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation a new book by the Rev. Dr. Beverley Warner, author of "The Young Man in Modern Life," to be entitled "The Young Woman in Modern Life." The author, who believes that with women lie the weal and woe of to-morrow, sets forth some of the problems with which the young woman in modern life is bound to concern herself. They expect to publish in fall the third and concluding volume of Colonel T. Allston Brown's "History of the New York Stage," in which the author gives an account of the first performance given in America, a list of the playhouses opened in New York before 1901, tells about the careers of distinguished players, describes notable debuts, deaths, theatres destroyed by fire, etc. In short, he covers the rise and progress of the New York stage during a period of 169 years—from 1732 to the close of the season of 1900-1901. He has been collecting material for the work for over forty-five years.

THE third and concluding volume of "The Descriptive Atlas of the Cesnola Collection of Cypriote Antiquities," prepared by General Louis P. di Cesnola and published by the Metropolitan Museum, of New York City, has just been published. The first volume was issued by James R. Osgood & Co., of Boston, in 1885, and the second was published in 1894, bearing the museum's imprint. The work is a folio, each volume containing one hundred and fifty plates, with descriptive text, and will enable students to learn what is to be found in this new world museum. Excavation in Cyprus is now possible only under the auspices of the British Government, and, even so, next to none of the things discovered may be removed from the island. In New York is at hand one of the largest and most exhaustive collections to be found in any public museum. In the three volumes about one hundred and thirty plates are in colors, the remainder in black and white. The work is sold by subscription only, and the edition is limited to two hundred copies, fifty of which stand in the name of the museum.

THE delegates of the Clarendon Press propose to supplement their facsimile of the Shakespeare First Folio by publishing facsimile reproductions of the earliest accessible editions of that portion of Shakespeare's work which found no place in the First Folio. The excluded portion consists of the four poetical quarto volumes: "Venus and Adonis" (1593), "Lucrece" (1594), "The Passionate Pilgrim" (1599), and the Sonnets (1609), as well as the play of "Pericles," which was first published in quarto in 1609, but was not included in a collected edition of Shakespeare's plays before the third folio edition of 1664. The four volumes of the poems and the volume of "Pericles" will be reproduced by the collotype process, and will be similar in all respects—size only excepted—to the collotype reproduction of the First Folio edition of the plays, published by the delegates in December, 1902. This reprint will be executed under the direction of Mr. Sydney Lee, who will contribute full introductions containing the latest results of his researches with regard to the bibliography of Shakespeare's "Poems," and of the play of "Pericles." The delegates hope that these reproductions will be ready for publication in the autumn of 1904.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

[5] In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Housees that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

[5] Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A marvelous picture of the whole vivid, daring, picturesque, primitive life of the far north

MR. JACK LONDON'S new novel

The Call of the Wild

Through this story of the kidnapped "Buck" (mixed St. Bernard and Scotch Shepherd) and of the experiences which changed him from the pride of "Judge Miller's place" into the dreaded "Wolf Dog," of whom the Yeehats speak in whispers, is pictured all the relentless fascination of the wild Alaskan "toil of trace and trail."

Illustrated in colors. Cloth, $1.50

MR. HAMILTON MABIE calls it: "the best piece of work which this forcible writer has given the public, and likely to make a deep impression by reason of its power and its unusual theme."

All of the haunting charm and magnetic sweetness of "A Kentucky Cardinal" is renewed and perfected in

MR. JAMES LANE ALLEN'S new novel

The Mettle of the Pasture

"It is so far Mr. Allen's masterpiece; a work of beauty and finished art. There can be no question of its supreme place in our literature. More than any of his books it is destined to an enviable popularity. It does not take extraordinary prescience to predict an extraordinary circulation for it."

—JAMES MACARTHUR in the August READER. Cloth, $1.50

THE BOOK OPENS with a keenly absorbing scene between the heroine and her lover, who tells her a secret she has the right to know, but because of which she refuses without explanation the marriage with him on which the heads of both their families are determined. Isabel's grandmother, unaccustomed to be thwarted, sets all her unscrupulous diplomacy to work to piece out the secret, which the reader does not share until the end. The story is a rare mingling of fine and delicate, and virile qualities.

THE BENEVOLENT RAMBILICUS

The Child's Book of the Year

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

ON AUGUST FIRST "The One Woman," Thomas Dixon's tremendous novel of love and Socialism, starts on its first hundred thousand.

The author's book, "The Leopard's Spots," is now well launched in its second hundred thousand.

These stories appeal to the whole reading public.

3,000 copies of "The Leopard's Spots" were sold this week, although the book is more than a year old.

JEANNETTE L. GILDER, who has read the proofs of "The One Woman," says in a review of it:

"Mr. Dixon has written a powerful story. It will, I hope and believe, make people stop and think. Blows aimed at divorce and its accompanying evils should be strong, and we should not complain that Mr. Dixon has used a sledge-hammer. Do not make the mistake of thinking that his novel is merely a special plea against Socialism. It is a tremendous love story."

A Word to the Bookseller

*NOTE.—It isn't our business to teach you your business.
But we may be able to give you some pointers on selling our books. From time to time we shall make an attempt at it, on this page.*

AMONG your women customers, how many are there that do not love flowers? How many would not be instantly interested if you said to them, "You can have a flower garden of your own very easily and inexpensively," and then showed them a book that really tells how?

Very few, we think.

Such a book is The Flower Garden. It is written by a woman, particularly for women. There is not one of its 280 pages that does not tell you something valuable. There is not one of its 40 pictures and diagrams that does not illustrate some actual point. It will tell any woman who wants to make her home beautiful with flowers, just how to do it with the greatest measure of success for the least expense and effort.

But you may say that many of your customers have no space for the growing of flowers. If you will look into the book you will see your mistake; for you will learn that wherever there is a window there is a space for floriculture. And the author gives the same pains and attention to a window-box occupying three square feet as to an ornamental flower bed of a hundred times that size. The special value of the book lies in its practical thoroughness. Its keynote is that it shows you how.

"OF THE MANY SIMILAR BOOKS MISS BENNETT'S IS CERTAINLY THE MOST REALLY PRACTICAL AND INSTRUCTIVE."

The Hossfeld Series of Grammars, Text-Books, Dictionaries

OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES

For the Study of French, Italian, Spanish, German, Dutch, Russian, etc.

A DESCRIPTION OF THE HOSSFELD SERIES

There are many theories as to the best method of learning a foreign language. Some are severe, others are easy. One thing is certain, unless the method be interesting to the student, it is profitless.

The Hossfeld Series is probably as successful in its aim "to strike the happy mean" as an educational series can be. It neither promises accomplishment without effort nor does it expect drudgery of its students.

The Hossfeld Series is planned to lead the student by increasing interest from step to step in the mastery of languages, keeping in sight all the various points of interest in language-study—the fascination of pronunciation, of suggestive construction and phrasing, of telling idiom.

The Hossfeld Series is of equal value to those studying the written and the spoken language.

NEW EDUCATIONAL BOOKS

American Teachers Series

A Series of Books for the Guidance and Assistance of Teachers in Elementary and Secondary Schools, and Students in Normal Schools and Teachers' Colleges. Under the General Editorship of JAMES E. RUSSELL, Ph.D., Dean of Teachers College, Columbia University.

The "American Teachers Series" will review the principal subjects of the secondary school curriculum. The purpose is to discuss the educational value of each subject, the reasons for including it in the curriculum, the selection and arrangement of materials in the course, the essential features of class instruction and the various helps which are available for teachers' use. The books are not intended to correct the faults of ignorant teaching; they are not offered as manuals of infallible methods. They are designed as contributions to the professional knowledge necessary in secondary education, and are addressed to teachers of liberal culture and special scholarship who are seeking to make their knowledge more useful to their pupils, and their pupils more useful to the State.

(Local, State, and National)

Gordy's American Leaders and Heroes

Gordy's History of the United States

Ashton's Plane and Spherical Trigonometry

Miller's Elementary Physics

A Sufficient Reason in One Sentence

Gordy's Language Lessons are the simplest, straightest paths to writing, speaking, and knowing our English Language.

Burt's The Literary Primer is based upon word-getting, teaching of sounds, repetition of vocabulary, child's own activities, and contact with permanent literature.

James's Government in State and Nation brings pupils face to face with government AS IT REALLY OPERATES and conditions as they really exist.

James and Sanford's Our Government is just as good for elementary classes (either first year of High School or last year of Grammar School) as the larger book is for more advanced students.

[Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois, New York and Pennsylvania Supplements are in preparation.]

Gordy's American Leaders and Heroes makes the personal character of our great men stand out clear as crystal in an epoch or crises, and the beginning child learns that history is the record of human life.

Gordy's History of the United States was written by a GRAMMAR SCHOOL MASTER, and that is a great distinction nowadays.

Ashton's Trigonometry moves in a direct line to the solution of triangles.

Miller's Elementary Physics is elementary, and the experiments ARE the bases of the text.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE FOR 1903

[PUBLISHERS' PRICES.]

NOTICE.—In this Catalogue only prices made by publishers themselves are given—retail, if retail, in first column; "net" (wholesale), if "net," in second column; where a "mailing" percent age is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk (), in addition to the wholesale price. When price-columns are left blank, the publisher failed, on application, to furnish price. A double asterisk () in price-columns designates books forthcoming. New books, issued since the publication of the Catalogue of 1902, are designated by a single asterisk () before title.

In comparing prices or ordering at retail, private buyers should bear in mind that a percentage must be added to prices quoted at wholesale, to cover freight, handling, delivering, etc. Discounts on quantities vary on different lines, according to the kind of prices adopted by the respective publishers.

For subject classification (and for collective references to classic authors entered here under separate editors), see the second part of the Catalogue, following this main alphabet.

Literal and Interlinear Translations

LITERAL TRANSLATIONS OF THE CLASSICS.

These translations have been prepared with great care. They follow the original text literally, thus forming a valuable help to the student in his efforts to master the difficulties which beset him. Pleasing sketches of the authors appear in the form of an introduction to each of the volumes.

The books are in convenient form, being exceptionally handy for the pocket. They are printed from clear type, and are attractively and durably bound. Cloth binding, each 50 cents.

INTERLINEAR TRANSLATIONS. The Hamilton, Locke and Clark Series have long been the Standard and are now the Best Translated and Most Complete Series of Interlinears published.

12mo, well bound in half leather, each $1.50.

BOOKS OF ALL PUBLISHERS

OUR stock of all the leading books, of all publishers, American and English, on Medicine, Hygiene, Chemistry, Microscopy, Dentistry, Pharmacy, etc., is not only the largest, but the most complete in this country. It is classified by subjects, and we shall be pleased at any time to send you, free, complete details concerning any books on subjects allied to medicine you may be interested in. We are the only publishers of medical books in the country who render this sort of service, just as we are the only medical publishers who handle books other than our own publications.

IF In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [cash].

IF Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish guarantees of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

IN PREPARATION

Publishers' Trade List Annual

1903

Thirty-First Year of Publication

will comprise the lists of upwards of three hundred publishers—fully fifty lists more than the work has before contained—which will greatly enhance its value to the bookseller as an inexpensive work of reference for books in print. Notwithstanding the increase in size, the price will be as heretofore, $2, and to those subscribing and paying in advance, $1.50.

NEW SUPPLEMENTARY INDEX

We are preparing this year a supplement to the Index volume of last year, which will include (1) the titles of the books of those publishers who were not represented in last year's Catalogues volume ; (2) the titles of the new books published since the issue of last year's Trade List Annual by the publishers represented in the 1902 and 1903 volumes ; and (3) the titles which were reported too late for insertion in last year's Index volume, as well as corrections, etc. This Supplementary volume, of about 200 pages, will be priced at $2, which will probably be increased to $2.50 after publication.

Only enough copies of the Supplementary Index will be printed to supply the demand from those who purchased last year's INDEX, and to bind up with the small number of the remaining copies of last year's INDEX, into a comprehensive volume of about 1300 pages, which will be priced at $5 for copies paid for in advance of publication, or $6 thereafter.

The prices in every case are net, and do not include carriage. Orders, with remittance, should be placed now. Directions for enclosure delivery in New York should accompany the order, unless shipment is to be by express at the charge of the subscriber. Address

For all American books as they appear, take THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY; for an hour's glance each month at the important books and magazine papers, take LITERARY NEWS; for library matters take THE LIBRARY JOURNAL; for magazine articles in general, consult THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX; for books in print or issued of late years, see THE AMERICAN and ANNUAL CATALOGUES, also, the index to the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902 and the index thereto.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Established in 1872, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852.) Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly cumulative indexes, etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year, postpaid; to foreign countries, postpaid, $4.00 a year; single numbers, 10 cents, postpaid. Special Numbers: Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Number, 25 cents; the numbers containing the three, six and nine months' Cumulative Lists, 25 cents each. Extra copies of the Annual Summary Number, to subscribers only, $1.00.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL. Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription, $5.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 50 cents. Price to Europe, or other countries in the Union, $6 a year; single numbers, 25. (LITERARY NEWS is sent free to subscribers of THE LIBRARY JOURNAL.) Teachers may be interested in the "School Number" published in the spring of each year.

GENERAL INDEX TO THE LIBRARY JOURNAL. vols. 1-22, 1876-1897. Arranged to serve as an index to succeeding volumes or for other sources of professional information. 4°, in sheets, or paper binding, $2.50; A. L. A. half leather, $3.00.

LITERARY NEWS. A Monthly Journal of Current Literature. Contains the freshest news concerning books and authors; lists of new publications; reviews and critical comments; characteristic extracts; sketches and anecdotes of authors; bibliographical references; prominent topics of the magazines; portraits of authors, and illustrations from the newest books, etc., etc. Subscription, $1.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 10 cents.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books in print and for sale July 1, 1876, compiled under the direction of F. LEYBOLD, and its supplements, 1876-84, 1884-90, 1890-95, and 1895-1900, compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER, aims to present all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first part alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second part alphabetically by subjects.

The Catalogue and its supplementary volumes form the only approximately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consumer is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information by a convenient method.

The author-and-title volume of the 1876 volume is out of print. A limited number of the subject volume may be had in half leather binding at $15.

The volumes covering the periods 1876-84 and 1884-90 are also out of print.

—, 1890-95, 4°, hf. mor., $15.
—, 1895-1900, 4°, hf. mor., $15.

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, containing yearly the monthly lists in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, cumulated, giving in one alphabet, by author, title, and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by the latest volume. It also contains a directory of publishers with full street addresses. The current volume covering 1900 to 1902, inclusive. 8vo, cloth, net, $3.00.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL. Contains: The latest catalogues of upwards of 300 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names and smaller lists at the end of the volume. These lists, all bound in one volume arranged alphabetically for ready reference, with marginal index, guiding the finger at once to the right letter, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. Large 8vo, cloth, without index, net, $2.00; with index, 2 v., 8°, net, $7.00.

INDEX TO THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL. 1902, contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in the Catalogues volume of the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902, furnishing by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August of that year. 1 v., 8°, cl., net $5.00.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX, including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the cooperation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER. 8°, cloth, $3.50.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE. Contains a price-list of all the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE [Annual giving full titles classified under author and subject in one strict alphabet, with particulars of the size, price, month of publication, and name of publisher of the books issued in Great Britain and Ireland, in the calendar year, being a continuation of the "London" and "British" Catalogues. [London: Sampson Low, Marston & Co.] 8vo, cloth, net, $1.50. THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE and THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE bound in one volume, cloth, $4.50.

PUBLICATIONS OF SOCIETIES: a provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary, and other societies from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules over 1100 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 4°, paper, $2.50; cloth, $3.00.

STATE PUBLICATIONS: a provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Pt. 1: New England States—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut. Pt. 2: North Central States—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin. 4°. (For complete work, $5.00.)

THE PROFESSION OF BOOKSELLING: a handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLD, managing editor of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, and author of "A Bookseller's Library," "Book-trade Bibliography in the United States in the XIXth Century," etc. Pts. 1 and 2. 8°, bds., each, $2.00. Popular Editions of Rare and Famous Books

MESSRS. D. APPLETON AND COMPANY beg leave to announce for early publication a number of rare and famous illustrated books of fiction and general literature, faithfully reprinted, in small form, from the first or best editions with introduction or notes.

The particular and attractive feature of these books is the reproduction of all the illustrations which appeared in the original issues; illustrations which are part and parcel of the books, and which, from their beauty, or skill, or humor, had often as great a share in their success as the text itself. Most of these books had colored illustrations, and they are here similarly given.

This will be the first time that these famous books with their illustrations faithfully reproduced have been placed within easy reach of the public, and much interest in them is confidently anticipated.

Ready in August

MEMOIRS OF THE LIFE OF THE LATE JOHN MYTTON, ESQ., OF HALSTON, SHROPSHIRE, Etc., Etc., with Notices of his Hunting, Shooting, Driving, Racing, Eccentric and Extravagant Exploits. By Nimrod (C. J. Apperley). With Numerous Illustrations by Henry Alken and T. J. Rawlins. A New Edition founded on the Second Edition of 1837 from the New Sporting Magazine. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

THE TOUR OF DR. SYNTAX IN SEARCH OF THE PICTURESQUE. A Poem. By William Combe. With Thirty-one Colored Illustrations by Thomas Rowlandson. A New Edition founded on the Seventh Edition published 1817. 16mo, cloth, $1.50.

To Follow in a Few Weeks

WEBSTER'S UNABRIDGED DICTIONARY

New 1903 Edition

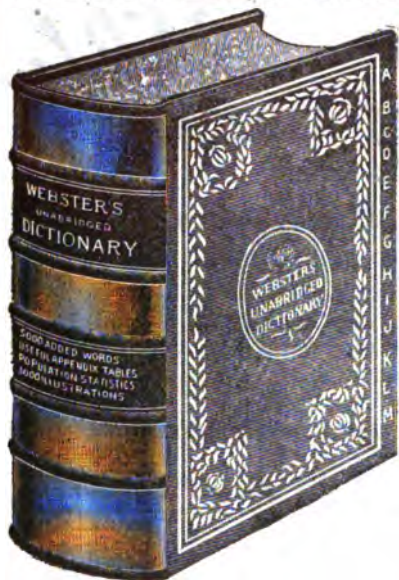

AUTHORIZED AND COPYRIGHTED

While Webster's International Dictionary is generally known as the leading authority in the English language, the publishers of the Webster series have recognized the necessity of popularizing the well-known Unabridged. This has now been modernized and enriched by a New Supplement (Copyright 1903), which brings the work well up to date and adapts it to the wants of those who require a Dictionary at once of high quality and low price.

THE NEW EDITION

published July, 1903, has an entirely new and very attractive cover design, and is handsomely bound in full tan sheep, with black and red labels printed in gold. Every book is Double Thumb-Indexed. The work is printed on good paper; has lithographed end-papers and marbled edges. It is printed throughout from type-set plates, and must not be confounded with the cheap reprints of the 1847 edition, which are printed from photograph plates that are so badly worn as to render the impressions therefrom almost unreadable.

This book is on the market at prices which will enable the retailer to sell at $3.00 or less and make a handsome profit. For full information, prices, etc., address the exclusive selling agents,

JIM RICKEY'S MONOLOGUES

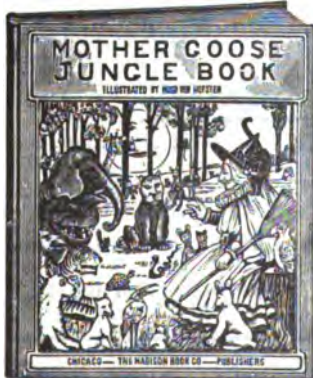

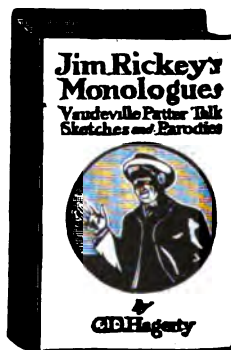

Some Rag-Time Observations on Persons and Events, with a few Flashes of Footlight Fun

By C. D. HAGERTY

This book contains the best of the sketches by Mr. C. D. Hagerty, which have been printed from time to time in The Chicago Daily News, under the heading, "Ten, Twent' Thirt'—Jim Rickey in Monologue." These articles have attracted great attention from newspaper readers all over the country. They are in an entirely new vein of humor, bright, sharp and keenly sarcastic. The book has been attractively illustrated, and both the cloth and paper bindings are models of the kind. The paper covers are of heavy stock, printed with special design in colors. The cloth covers are of extra fine linen, with design in two inks.

Aside from being an entertaining book to read, "Jim Rickey's Monologues" are just the thing for amateur entertainers in the parlor, lodge-room, etc.

Cloth, 60 cents; Paper, 30 cents

Mother Goose Jungle Book

Illustrated by HUGH VON HOFSTEN. The best animal book for children ever published, combining a choice selection of the original Mother Goose Rhymes with Von Hofsten's inimitable pictures of animals impersonating various characters.

Mother Goose Jungle Book is made up of thirty full-page illustrations in gay colors. Underneath the pictures are printed the rhymes in large type. The opposite pages are filled with carefully chosen selections from the original Mother Goose.

Illuminated board covers. Size, 10 1/2 x 9 inches

EVERY LIST OF SIX BEST SELLING BOOKS

CONTAINS AT LEAST TWO OF THESE TITLES

Under the Rose—This delightful romance was a success from the day of publication. The illustrations by Christy, reproduced in color, have helped to make it attractive.

So fraught with magic and phantasy that we forget it has no reality and succumb to the author's spell.
—Harper's Weekly.

The Filigree Ball—This is a great detective story. Many readers say it is the best they have ever read. A good story of mystery is appreciated by every wise reader.

There has been nothing equal to it since The Leavenworth Case made her famous among the wise readers who enjoy a good detective story.
—The Independent.

The Grey Cloak—A critic whose judgment carries much weight said: "There have been many excellent stories of love and intrigue, but no one of them all equals this in depth of fascination.

Harold MacGrath wrote in The Grey Cloak a book which the reader could not lay down till he finished.
—Chicago Tribune.

The Main Chance—Issued last of our Spring novels, it is already reaching a place in the affection of the public which promises to make it the best seller of them all. It is a romance of youth, of love and of achievement, told with charm and force.

"The Main Chance" is a wonderful piece of work, full of life and the wisdom of life. It is the novel of the year.

A NEW LINE OF TOY BOOKS

†Denslow's Picture Books for Children

For these books W. W. Denslow has revised and adapted several of the best classical fairy tales. He has improved these stories by elimination of all coarseness, cruelty, and everything that might frighten children. They are new; more beautiful and striking in both text and picture than any children's books heretofore published. Each book is filled with pictures of action and fun in brilliant colors.

NOTES IN SEASON.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. have in press a book by Julian S. Corbett, entitled "England in the Mediterranean;" "The Valet's Tragedy, and Other Studies in Secret History," by Andrew Lang; also, "A Queen of Tears: Caroline Matilda," an examination of the short life of the younger sister of George III, by W. H. Wilkins.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY, Philadelphia, announce an authorized "Life of Pope Leo XIII," by the Right Rev. Bernard O'Reilly, who wrote the work with the encouragement and approbation of the Pope himself. The American edition contains an introduction by Cardinal Gibbons, and will be published by subscription in two volumes. There will also be a very complete single volume trade edition.

G. W. DILLINGHAM Co. have added to their attractive series of Denslow's Picture Books for Children "Jack and the Bean-Stalk," adapted and illustrated by W. W. Denslow. This completes a dozen of Denslow's adaptation of the best classical fairy tales illustrated in his characteristic manner. The artist has eliminated all coarseness, cruelty and everything that might frighten children. The books are printed on good paper, the illustrations in color and the text in large type.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have just ready the Biographical edition of the novels of Charles Dickens in twenty volumes. Each volume in the edition is supplied with a biographical introduction, giving a history of the book and its place in Dickens's life. The edition also includes Forster's "Life of Dickens," edited and revised by the English novelist and critic, George Gissing, and is notable especially for the inclusion of all the illustrations from the originals by Cruikshank, Walker, Landseer, Leech, Luke Fildes, Seymour and "Phiz."

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & Co. have in preparation "Barlasch of the Guard," a historical novel, by Henry Seton Merriman; "The Adventure of Gerard," by A. Conan Doyle, who is said to have created a military hero as notable in his way as "Sherlock Holmes;" "Folk, and Two Other Stories," by Joseph Conrad; "My Friend Prospero," a delightful romance, by Henry Harland; "In Babel," charming stories of Chicago life, by George Ade; "Wally Wanderoon," tales of fairy and folk-lore, by Joel Chandler Harris; also, "The Master-Rogue," the confessions of a modern Croesus, by David Graham Phillips.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish within the fortnight Justus Miles Forman's new novel, "Monsigny." Mr. Forman's successful novel, "Journeys End," was issued in a very attractive form by the same publishers and gained a place on the list of best-selling books the past season. The former was a story of a young English lord who won his way alone in America as playwright, while the new novel deals with the beautiful descendant of a famous French family and granddaughter of an English earl, and the complications following the false accusation by the man she loves. It is said to be a much more ambitious work than the author's other story, combining with the same light touch and deft grace a forcefulness and reality of passion that hold the reader from the start. They will publish next month three new volumes—on Glaciers, Botany and Geology—of the work on the Harriman Alaska Expedition, of which two volumes have already been issued. The work will be complete in twelve volumes, and will in all make a marvellous record of one of the most important and interesting expeditions of the kind.

Allen, Ja. Lane. The mettle of the pasture. N. Y., Macmillan, 1903. [J110.] c. 448 p. 12°, $1.50.

Kentucky is the scene; character sketching the strong point. The point at issue is "What should be the mettle of this great American pasture?" The story seems to dwell upon truthfulness as the virtue which should mark the American throughout the world. The hero tells the whole truth to the girl who has promised to marry him. She recoils and leaves him. After experience has done its work she comes back to the old truth that love can condone all past sin provided the sinner is now influenced by high aims and purposes. A grandmother, an old judge and an "old maid" play important parts.

The present edition is a revision of the entire work. The first part, which is historical, contains much new material on the early history of the park, with many additions to the geographical names and a new account of the Nez Percé campaign, 1877. The second part, which is descriptive, is greatly enlarged in the chapters on topography, geology, thermal springs, fauna and flora, roadways and their administration. The tour of the Park has been entirely recast to conform to the completed road system which opened up new sections of the Park. The illustrations are nearly all original.

- The Wilderness Road to Kentucky from Virginia and Tennessee, was, according to the author, the longest, blackest, hardest road of pioneer days in America. It was broken open for the white man's use by Daniel Boone, and therefore originally called Boone's trail. It was also known as the "Kentucky Road," "The Road to Caintuck," and "The Virginia Road," but the "Wilderness Road" has for years been the commonest name. As in the case of other highways dealt with in these monographs, the history of the roadway is of minor importance to the phases of history which it suggests.

- John Counsellor's evolution began in 1856. Through the unjust persecution of a Methodist minister and the unchristianlike behavior of his fellow townsmen, John grows to regard his former beliefs as heresies. In time, however, he becomes a Methodist preacher. While preaching doctrines that are unsatisfying to him, a spiritual light is cast upon him and believing that he has received Christ into his life anew John accepts and preaches a belief similar to that of Alexander Campbell.

- A story of wild life in the Klondike, in which human nature as well as animal life are seen at both their best and their worst. The hero, "Buck," is a magnificent dog, who was stolen from a luxurious home in southern California and trained for a sledge dog in Alaska. The training process and the hardships he endures develop his dominant traits, and "Buck" becomes master of the pack. The first strong note in the book is the coming out of the dog's good blood through infinite hardship; the last, when he finally obeys "the call of the wild," and relapses into savagery, because his last and best friend was killed by Indians.

Sinclair, S.: Bower. The possibility of a science of education. Chic., University of Chicago Press, 1903. 4+126 p. O. cl., *$1 net.

A general defense of the theory that "educational science is not only possible, but that it is in fact, an independent science, with a technique of its own, developed by an investigation of problems made from a purely educational standpoint." The aims of this science, according to the author, are formulated upon an ethical basis as the means are on a psychological one. The author further contends that all teachers should receive professional training, and that a good physique, natural aptitude, scholarship, and culture should be demanded as prerequisites.

John T. Flint, known in Chicago as the "flour Baron," relies upon the Duke of Hastings, an English peer, to place him on a solid social basis in New York. The Duke failing him, he engages the services of a man who resembles the peer to personate that nobleman. The Duke's double is seen in some striking situations in which an American heiress likewise figures.

"In translating Professor Weissenborn's 'Leben und Sitte bei Homer' we have endeavored as far as possible to adapt it to the needs of American students. Consequently some sections which are of interest chiefly to German readers have been omitted while others have been amplified. For a complete discussion of some of the subjects treated references have been given to Harrington and Tollman's 'Greek and Roman mythology,' and other authorities. For illustrative material we are indebted to Baumeister's 'Denkmäler,' Brunn's 'Griechische Götteridealle' and other noted works."—Preface. Bibliography.

Wheeler, Marianna. Plain hints for busy mothers; il. by F. M. Miller. N. Y., E. B. Treat & Co., 1903. c. 3-54+4 p. D. leatherette, 35 c.

Simple and practical suggestions for feeding, bathing, dressing, and the general care of babies. Intended for mothers of limited means. The author, who is a graduate of the training schools of the New York Hospital and Sloane Maternity Hospital, has been superintendent of the Babies Hospital since 1891.

The scene of the novel is Washington. The principal characters are Senator Cushman and his wife.

Although the Senator's love story takes up most of the space, other romantic episodes of social life and diplomatic circles are introduced. The incidents are evidently those of real life. In some instances real names are given, in other cases they are fictitious. Many prominent persons figure in the story.

Some American soldiers striving to live up to an ideal, are mockingly referred to as "Bible punchers" by their British comrades. The trials of these soldiers are described in a story which deals also with women's temperance work among English soldiers.

Wooldridge, Clinton R. The detective's guide to success. Chic., Thompson & Thomas, 1903. c. 3-112 p. il. por. D. pap., 25 c.

Defines the requisites of a detective and what constitutes a modern up-to-date police department; also gives instructions for police officers on or off guard, and describes the Bertillon system of identification. The author is connected with the Chicago Police Department. Some of the testimonials offered him, and a brief biography are included.

Yoxall, J. H. Alain Tanager's wife. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1903. [Jl.] c. 2+316 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Alain Tanager, born in England, was a direct descendant of Charles Marie de Thanneuguy, who was exiled from France on account of an appeal made by Marquis de la tour du Pin after the restoration of Louis XVIII. Alain's wife was a cousin, who, believing herself heiress to the Duchy of Thanneuguy, assumed the title until she was confronted with documentary evidence which disproved her rights. She then schemes to bring about a marriage, and Alain becomes her husband, as such he figures in a story of sensational and romantic incidents.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

AUGUST 1, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

DOG-DAY BOOKSELLING.

THOUGH the first half of the present year may in many respects be set down among the "anni mirabiles," the retail booktrade, so far as we have reports of it, has had little reason to complain. With the exception of the dealers in expensive rare books, whose trade has been affected to a certain extent by the uncertain conditions in the stock markets, trade in the bookstores generally has been surprisingly good. It is only within a few weeks that business has slowed down, owing, no doubt, to the advent of the warmer weather that has started people on their vacations. Yet the bookseller need not despair. The summer vacations which have become the rule instead of the exception, and in which the busiest man indulges himself even against his inclination, simply invite to reading, and the bookseller who applies himself to cultivating the summer business, and who zealously follows it up, will be surprised at the profitable results.

The time is at hand when the bookseller—those in the city and town as well as those at the so-called country resorts—must prepare for the summer campaign, which almost touches the month of October. The city store during summer should be kept cool and airy. This may be done by means of awnings and by keeping closed those doors that face the sun. There are a number of stores in New York City located on the side of the street that has the afternoon sun that are kept as cool in summer with closed doors as those on the shady side are kept with doors wide open. Much may also be done with electric fans if properly placed; otherwise they are a nuisance.

Summer effects should be studied in dressing the windows and store. All unnecessary stock should be moved out of sight, so as to give the store an air of freedom. Novels and light literature generally are put up in bright and attractive covers that lend themselves easily to cheerful combinations and tempting display. The later styles of stationery and the many varieties of leather goods for the traveller also may be effectively employed to add to the attractions which a well-aired, cool store may be made to present even on a warm day.

The store details provided for, the next and perhaps the most important thing is to keep in touch with the customer himself. Warm weather is not conducive to effort, and the bookseller must study to relieve his customer at least of the exertion of thinking about what he should read. The business in summer is largely accomplished by suggestion. The dealer must create a demand in the customer. During the other seasons of the year there are demands experienced by the public which arise from their own necessities, hence they come to the store to have these demands supplied. But in summer it is otherwise. The demand is not pressing; it is dormant, and requires to be stimulated by the dealer. His stock must be tempting and he must let his public know that they are tempting.

How the bookseller may best keep in touch with his customer depends largely upon circumstances. In some cases this may be accomplished by advertising, in other cases it may have to be done by personal application. One or the other of these must be resorted to, because it is a dangerous mistake for a bookseller to permit his customers to get out of the habit of reading during the summer months. The intelligent man and woman of the present day reads all the year around. They read in summer just as they dress and eat in summer—not quite so solidly, perhaps, but enough to keep them in touch with the latest thought or conceit. And the bookseller's part is to keep them posted in one way or another and by all the arts of which he is master.

MESSAGES AND PAPERS OF THE PRESIDENTS REDIVIVUS.

THE Richardson-Barcus "Messages and Papers of the Presidents" are now being put out in a "restricted edition" to a limited number of subscribers by the "Bureau of National Literature and Art (Chartered)," of Washington, D. C., and by the "Publishers' Clearing House, per H. Lamson," Jenifer Building, Washington, D. C. There are 6000 sets at $36 the set.

THE PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA.

THE PERIODICAL PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION OF AMERICA, composed of the publishers and managers of leading monthly magazines and weekly papers, was incorporated in Albany on July 20. The objects of the association are to promote the interests of its members and to stimulate social and friendly relations.

The officers and board of directors are: W. B. Howland, Outlook, president; F. N. Doubleday, World's Work, vice-president; F. L. Colver, Leslie's Monthly, secretary; O. W. Brady, McClure's Magazine, treasurer, and J. B. Walker, Cosmopolitan Magazine, chairman executive committee. Board of directors: W. B. Howland, Outlook; F. N. Doubleday, World's Work; O. W. Brady, McClure's Magazine; R. J. Cudihy, Literary Digest; Frank A. Munsey, Munsey's Magazine; Lewis Klopsch, Christian Herald; J. B. Walker, Cosmopolitan Magazine; F. L. Colver, Leslie's Monthly; J. A. Thayer, Everybody's Magazine; C. N. Lanier, Review of Reviews; E. E. Higgins, Success; Condé Nast, Collier's Weekly; Theron McCampbell, Metropolitan Magazine; E. W. Spalding, Ladies' Home Journal, and A. P. Vance, Woman's Home Companion.

The association will hold monthly meetings at the Aldine Association in New York. It is expected that the association will find no dearth of business to attend to when once it gets into working shape.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE, THE PUBLISHER.

"SCOTT in his time," according to Chambers's Journal, "said many hard things of Constable; but he also said that 'never did there exist so liberal and intelligent an establishment.' To him more than any member of the trade J. G. Lockhart ascribed the fact that no new book then published in Edinburgh could be entirely neglected. Lord Cockburn termed him the most spirited bookseller in Scotland, who, abandoning the timid and grudging system of Creech and others, became a patron to rising talent, and 'confounded not merely his rivals in trade, but his very authors, by his unheard of prices.' When Hogg the Ettrick Shepherd brought a fresh manuscript to Constable one day he said, 'What skill have you about the merit of a book?' Constable replied: 'It may be so, Hogg; but I know as well how to sell a book as any man, which should be some concern of yours; and I know how to buy one, too.' This was quite true, and Lockhart, who never errs in overpraise, while condemning him for being careless in the examination of balance sheets, gave his verdict that 'for anticipating the chances of success and failure in any given variety of adventure—for the planning and invention of his calling—he was not, in his own day at least, surpassed; and among all his myriad of undertakings I question if any one that really originated with himself and continued to be superintended by his own care, ever did fail.'"

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION WILL CONTINUE REFORM MEASURES.

THE following circular letter has been addressed to the trade by the American Publishers' Association:

Many inquiries having been received as to the effect of the recent decision in the Macy case, the directors of the American Publishers' Association wish to assure members and others interested that this decision is not final and does not necessitate any change in the position of the Association toward undersellers.

It is proposed to carry forward the litigation as rapidly as possible, and we have every reason to expect a favorable issue in the end. In the meantime all the rules will be enforced as usual.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION,
EDWIN H. LOVELESS, Manager.

SHORTENING DISCOUNTS ON BOOKS IN GERMANY.

THE board of directors of the German booksellers' society on July 1 announced that it had been agreed throughout the German empire that according to section 1 no discount was to be allowed on retail purchases of periodicals, text-books and school supplies, or on any purchases under 10 marks. In Saxony the limit is 3 marks, in Silicia 5 marks, and in Berlin and Leipsic 3 marks. In the jurisdiction of the Bavarian booksellers' society no discount may be given under any circumstances.

Section 2 provides that on all purchases that do not come under the provision of section 1 a discount of two per cent. may be allowed for cash or upon a six-months' settlement. In Brandenburg, Berlin and Leipsic a discount of five per cent. may be given.

Section 3 provides that a discount of five per cent. may hereafter be allowed to government officials, public libraries and those connected with public or educational institutions on all purchases that are not governed by section 1. Special exceptions may be made with the concurrence of the local societies and the board of directors of the German booksellers' society. On quantities of school books of all kinds the government officials and institutions may be granted a discount of five per cent. In Brandenburg and Berlin the officials, public libraries and those connected with public institutions, and in Leipsic, all such officers and institutions whose accounts are paid out of public funds may receive a discount of ten per cent. on all purchases that are not governed by section 1.

A NEW BUILDING FOR DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

A NEW six-story building is going up on East Sixteenth Street, near Union Square, which, when completed, will be occupied by Doubleday, Page & Co. The building will occupy the site of three city houses, one of which, No. 137, was the residence of David Dudley Field, when his influence in New York was at its highest. While the six-story building will not be large, compared to a skyscraper, it will be a thing of beauty and a contribution to the architectural attractions of its neighborhood. The two magazines, The World's Work and Country Life in America, will be printed from new modern machines, constructed especially for the purpose, and electricity will be used throughout for all purposes; but the firm will not attempt to print its own books, bind them, or do other manufacturing in the new quarters beyond the printing of the magazines and the setting of the type for all of its publications and the electrotyping.

COMMUNICATIONS.

LAMB'S "ESSAY ON CHRIST'S HOSPITAL."
To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

SIR: I have a copy of Lamb's "Essay on Christ's Hospital," dated, London, 1813, the text of which appears to be very curiously different from that of the subsequent reprints.

Imprimis: SEVENTY-FIVE sentences at the beginning of the "Essay," and a NOTE relating to Bishop Ridley and King Edward the Sixth, are entirely omitted in all the various reprints that I have collated.

The exact title of the original essay is:

"ON CHRIST'S HOSPITAL, AND THE CHARACTER OF THE CHRIST'S HOSPITAL BOYS," which in the reprints is changed to:

"Recollections of Christ's Hospital."

The original essay begins:

"A GREAT deal has been said about the Governors of this Hospital abusing their right of presentation," etc.

All the reprints that I have examined begin:

"To comfort the desponding parent with the thought that, without diminishing the stock," etc.

The peculiar typographical physiognomy, orthography, and capitalization of nouns, of the original text, have entirely disappeared in the later reprints.

It also contains a curious "View of the Grey Friars Monastery, now Christ's Hospital, London," and Lamb's eccentric friend, GEORGE DYER's "ODE meditated in the Cloisters of Christ's Hospital," of which the seventh, and last stanza, was quoted by Lamb at the end of his "Essay."

I will be greatly obliged for any information regarding the existence or sale in this country of a copy of this "pet Lamb."

P. S.—I should perhaps state that I have seen six or seven copies of this edition of the "Recollections," etc., printed by E. J. Sterling, London, 1835, 8°, which is now undoubtedly scarce, but it is not so "almighty rare" as various windy booksellers and exalté Lamb collectors intrepidly assert.

"It is naught, it is naught, saith the buyer: but when he is gone his way, then he boasteth." (Proverbs, xx. 14.)

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

THE COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS MUST DETERMINE WHAT IS A PRINT.

THE Court of Appeals, in the case of Frederick I. Allen, the Commissioner of Patents, versus the Regina Music Box Company, rules that the Commissioner of Patents does not act as a purely ministerial officer in recording prints and labels under the copyright law, but is required to determine whether the thing presented for registration is a print within the meaning of the statutes.

The court held that the decision of the Commissioner of Patents concerning prints and labels is final. This sustains the position taken by the Commissioner of Patents, and is the first ruling had by the courts on this question.

An application was made by the Regina Music Box Company for the registration of an alleged label. Upon the commissioner's refusal to register the label, application was made to the District Supreme Court for a mandamus to compel Mr. Allen to act.

The lower court granted the petition for mandamus, but the District Court of Appeals reversed the decision.

OBITUARY NOTES.

HOWARD CHALLEN, the publisher and bookseller, died at 436 West Thirty-fourth Street, New York, on July 17. Mr. Challen was born in Lexington, Ky., June 15, 1836. He was educated at Woodward College, Cincinnati, and at Bethany College, Virginia. In 1854 he went into the book business in Philadelphia with his father, the Rev. James Challen, the firm name being James Challen & Son. They published "The City of the Great King," for years a standard work on Jerusalem, Bell's "Carpentry Made Easy," and many other popular technical books. In 1867, at which time he was conducting the business alone at 1308 Chestnut Street, under his own name. Mr. Challen took up Mr. Lemuel Ide's idea of publishing in uniform shape the trade lists of publishers, stationers and manufacturers of goods handled by booksellers and stationers.

He called his publication "The Uniform Trade List Circular." Owing, probably, to the fact that Mr. Challen undertook to set up each publisher's list in order to insure uniformity, the undertaking, and that this process was expensive, it was expensive, it lacked the necessary support from the publisher and manufacturer, and so the enterprise did not extend beyond the first effort. Shortly after he published his "Trade List Circular," Mr. Challen removed to New York, where in addition to his regular list he began the publication of a number of labor-saving records for use in publishing houses, bookstores, banks and commercial institutions. For a number of years Mr. Challen had been unable, through ill health, to give much attention to his business, which gradually had become limited to his records. He was of a generous disposition, a faithful friend, and a hard worker who deserved a better fate than fell to his share. His remains were taken to Cincinnati for interment.

JAMES ABBOTT MCNEIL WHISTLER, perhaps the most typical painter, and the most interesting personage of his time, died suddenly on July 17 at his residence, Cheyne Walk, Chelsea, England. Whistler was born, according to his own statement, in St. Petersburg, Russia, of American parents; according to several biographical dictionaries and cyclopedias in Lowell, Mass., in 1834. Theodore Child, in his article in Harper's Magazine of September, 1889, gives the artist's birthplace as Baltimore, and a close personal friend declares that he was born in Stonington, Conn. Whistler himself delighted in keeping up the mystery of his nativity. The fact is that Whistler spent seven years of his life in Russia. (1842-1849,) returning to America shortly after his father's death in St. Petersburg. In 1851 he entered the United States Military Academy at West Point, from which he was dismissed in 1854 on the technical charge of deficiency. In 1856 he was settled in Paris in Gleyre's studio, where he had as fellow students George Du Maurier, Armstrong and Poynter. Du Maurier in his "Trilby" caricatured Whistler in "Joe Sibley," which character he was obliged to cut out of the book. In 1863 Whistler settled in London, which he deserted in 1892, after which he spent most of his time in Paris. In 1878 Whistler sued Ruskin for libel for disparaging his art. The jury rendered a verdict against Ruskin, and placed the damages at one farthing. Whistler's diversion was in lawsuits, and he never failed to get some fun out of them. He wrote three books: "Ten O'Clock," Boston, 1888; "The Gentle Art of Making Enemies," New York, 1890; also "Eden versus Whistler: the Baronet and the Butterfly," New York, 1899. As an etcher Whistler's fame was also high.

BENJAMIN LEOPOLD FARJEON, journalist, novelist and playwright, died suddenly July 23 at his residence at Hampstead, Eng. Farjeon was of Hebrew descent and was born in London, May 12, 1833. Early in life he went to Australia to seek his fortune in the gold mines; unsuccessful in this he went to New Zealand, where he became a newspaper editor and theatrical manager. While editing The Otago Daily Times, the first daily newspaper in New Zealand, he wrote his story of an Australian waif, entitled "Grif," which was so highly praised by Charles Dickens that Farjeon went to London to arrange for its publication in 1870. In 1877 he came to the United States and gave public readings from his "Blade-o'-Grass" and other works. "Blade-o'-Grass," which followed "Grif," had a wide sale in both England and America, as did "Joshua Marvel" and "Bread and Cheese and Kisses." His other works were "London's Heart," "Great Porter Square," "Set in a Silver Sea," "The Sacred Nugget," "The King of Noland," "Something Occurred," "Aaron, the Jew," "A Secret Inheritance," "The House of White Shadows," "The Betrayal of John Fordham," "Miriam Rozella," "Samuel Boyd of Catchpole Square," "The Mesmerists," "Pride of Race," and "The Mystery of the Royal Mail," the last appearing last year. Shortly before his death the St. Nicholas magazine secured from him a new story for children, which will form the chief serial during the coming year. While in this country he married Margaret, daughter of Joseph Jefferson, the actor.

THE REV. DR. GEORGE LANSING TAYLOR, "the poet of Methodism," died on July 26, at the Seney Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., 68 years of age. He wrote a number of poems, collected together in a volume entitled "Elijah, and Other Poems." One of his best-known hymns is "Dare to Do Right."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY deny explicitly that J. P. Mobraay wrote "People of the Whirlpool."

MISS JOSEPHINE DODGE DASKAM, author of "Smith College Stories," "Fables from the Fair," "The Madness of Philip," "An Autobiography of a Baby," etc., and Selden Bacon were married on July 25 at Stamford, Conn.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

DODD, MEAD & Co. expect to have ready for delivery to subscribers in October the 1903 volume of "American Book Prices Current," recording the sales that took place from September 1, 1902, to September 1, 1903. The forthcoming volume promises to be considerably larger than even the 1902 volume, which recorded upwards of 10,000 lots, filling nearly 700 pages. The edition will be limited to the number called for, only 116 copies being printed in excess of the actual number subscribed for by September 15, 1902.

L. S. OLSCHKI, of Florence, has gathered together his announcements of incunabula printed from time to time in La Bibliotheca into one volume, which is entitled "Monumenta Typographica." The volume, which contains a number of facsimile title-pages and illustrations, is a valuable work of reference that takes rank with Quaritch's "Monuments of Printing," published in 1897. The arrangement is alphabetical according to the towns and cities in which the various books were printed. The text of the book is followed by various tables, such as names of authors and of printers, with a table containing a chronological arrangement of the numbers of the books catalogued. (No. 53, 1385 titles.)

THE trustees of the British Museum have published the third volume of the "Subject Index of the Modern Works added to the Library of the British Museum in the Years 1881-1900," edited by G. K. Fortescue, Keeper of Printed Books. This volume carries the work through the letter M. The third and concluding volume will be published late this year or early in 1904. This work, when complete, will contain about 155,000 entries. It has been formed by incorporating the three Subject Indexes published by the trustees in 1886, 1891 and 1897, and by adding to them the titles of the books issued during the years 1896 to 1900, as well as those of the Slavonic, Hungarian and Finnish books published between 1881 and 1900, which were not included in the former Indexes. (1010 p. roy. 8°, cl., £1 10s.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

BALTIMORE, MD.—I. & M. Ottenheimer, publishers, booksellers and newsdealers, have moved from 661 W. Baltimore Street to 321 W. Baltimore Street, where they have quarters sufficiently large to accommodate their entire business in one building.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Western Book Company has been incorporated with a capital of $25,000 to do a printing and publishing business. The incorporators are W. M. Fletcher, G. M. Hofheimer and M. I. Rosenbaum.

GENEVA, N. Y.—Anna L. Scott will continue the book and stationery business established by her father, under the name of the B. W. Scott Book and Art Store.

MANGUM, OKLA.—McCollister & Shadden, booksellers, have been succeeded by Price & Shadden.

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—The outstanding debts of the Wood Book and Stationery Company, which recently went into a receiver's hands, were sold at auction to P. J. Loughlin for $148. The debts amount to about $700 and are in the main against residents of Selma.

NEW YORK CITY.—D. Appleton & Co., on July 27, filed a certificate of an increase of capital stock from $3,000,000 to $3,500,000. The certificate is signed for the company by President William W. Appleton and Robert Dickson.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles Dexter Allen, author of "American Book Plates," is now general manager of the Cosmos Pictures Company, of 296 Broadway.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Harvard Text Book Corporation has been incorporated to print and publish books, magazines, etc. The incorporators are Chas. E. Turner, Chas. H. Provost, and Howard A. Cory, all of New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Holiday Publishing Company has been incorporated to conduct a general publishing business, with a capital of $70,000. The incorporators are Katharine N. Birdsall, Walter W. Storms and Stallo Vinton, all of New York City.

NEW YORK CITY.—William Launder has resigned as president and director of, and severed his connection with, the Launder & Pfister Bookbinding Co., Inc., 141 East Twenty-fifth Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—The News of the World Company has been incorporated to publish books, etc., with a capital of $275,000. The incorporators are N. F. Griffin, Verona, N. J.; Edward Becker, Williamsbridge, New York City, and E. I. McCarthy, White Plains, N. Y.

OAKLAND, CAL.—Smith Brothers, whose entire stock of books, etc., was destroyed December 30, 1902, announce that their differences with the insurance adjusters have finally been settled in their favor, and that, when all accounts are satisfactorily adjusted, they will commence business at 462-464 Thirteenth Street.

OTTUMWA, IA.—Since July, 1897, the Mowatt Bookstore has transacted a successful business here, first under the name of Mowatt & Bowker, later under the name by which it is now known. The business has recently been moved into new quarters, and the stock now constitutes one of the largest of its kind in the city.

PASO ROBLES, CAL.—C. A. Farnum, bookseller, has sold out to Mrs. Farnlove.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—R. B. Berryhill, of the R. B. Berryhill Company, of Fort Dodge, Ia., has so much faith in the future of Phoenix that he has rented a large store room here, and as soon as he can purchase his stock and fixtures will open a large book and stationery store. He will also carry a full line of office supplies, sporting goods, etc. He will probably make Fort Dodge his headquarters until about September 1 while he is arranging for his stock and fixtures.

SHENANDOAH, IA.—F. R. Harrison has sold out.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

METHUEN & Co. have in preparation the "Reminiscences of Sir Frank C. Burnand," editor of Punch.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS, Limited, have purchased the entire stock and copyrights of J. C. Nimmo's, Limited.

WILLIAM LE QUEUX's new story will be entitled "The Twickencote Treasure." George Newnes, Limited, will publish the book this month.

THOMAS DIXON, JR.'s "The Leopard's Spots" is to appear in a German translation with the imprint of Friedrich Rothbart in Munich.

WILLIAM B. ROPES, Mount Vernon, Washington, has published "Sebring's Skagit County Illustrated," with maps and seventy-five illustrations.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. will publish in the fall Dent's edition of "Shakespeare's Homeland," by W. H. Braggington, of the Shakespeare Memorial at Stratford-on-Avon.

A. TREHERNE & Co., Limited, 3 Agar Street, Charing Cross, London, announce a biography of Charles Reade, by John Coleman, who was intimately acquainted with Reade.

WYCL & Co., New York, will publish early next month "The Misrule of Three," a new novel by Florence Warden, author of "The House on the Marsh." The book will be attractively gotten up.

BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY have in preparation a fantastic story for young children, entitled "Phantasmaland," with text by John Kendrick Bangs and pictures by Charles Raymond Macauley, the cartoonist.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will publish shortly "The Interior of the Kingdom," another volume of spiritual studies by the Rev. D. V. Gwilym, similar to his volume on the "Spirit in the Body Mystical," which was published two years ago.

BENZIGER BROTHERS, New York, are about to publish "The Great Encyclical Letters of Pope Leo XIII," in English translation, compiled by the Rev. John J. Wynne, editor of The Messenger, who has also written a preface for the volume.

LAIRD & LEE have published another novel by Opie Read, entitled "The Harkriders," a triple love story, the scene of which is laid in the South shortly after the war between the States. The volume contains nine illustrations printed in colors.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have just brought out a Lectern edition of the Bible, with apocrypha and the marginal readings adopted by General Convention. There is also an edition in bourgeois type, in various styles of binding, ranging in price from $1.75 to $22.

JAMES POTT & Co. have in preparation a timely book to be entitled "The Negro Problem," made up of original articles by Booker T. Washington, Professor W. E. B. Du Bois, Charles W. Chesnutt, T. Thomas Fortune, and other prominent negro educators.

AMONG the summer books announced for publication by the New Amsterdam Book Company is a new bird book entitled "With the Birds," by Oliver G. Pike, the well-known naturalist. The volume is illustrated with 110 photographs taken direct from nature by the author.

OSCAR JEWELL HARVEY, Wilkesbarre, Pa., will publish in January next his "History of Wilkesbarre, Luzerne County, Pa.," upon which he has been at work for several years. The author has treated the Colonial and Revolutionary periods of the Wyoming valley very fully.

A. WESSELS COMPANY will publish shortly an edition, limited to 200 copies, of Thackeray's characteristic sketch, "Reading a Poem," which was first published in The Britannica, in May, 1841, under the title of "Loose Sketches." A portrait of Thackeray, in photogravure, will form the frontispiece.

JOHN MURRAY, London, has in preparation "The Personal Reminiscences of the Duke of Wellington," by Francis, first Earl of Ellesmere, edited by his daughter, the Countess of Stafford; also, "Sixteen Years in Siberia," a narrative of personal experience, by Leo Deutsch, translated by Helen Chisholm.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY, Akron, O., have just ready a new goat story by Frances Trego Montgomery, entitled "Billy Whisker's Kids," which will no doubt appeal to the many readers of the author's first book, "Billy Whiskers." The book contains six colored plates and is bound uniform in style with its predecessor.

THE LIBRARY OF CONGRESS has issued a "Calendar of the John Paul Jones Manuscripts," which came to it in the collections of Peter Force. This calendar, prepared by Charles H. Lincoln, is extremely full, and pays particular attention to names and places. The volume contains an excellent reproduction of the Houdon bust of Jones.

THE BURNS MONUMENT AND COTTAGES TRUSTEES recently purchased from G. S. Veitch, of Paisley, for $5000, a copy in the best state known of the Kilmarnock Burns. The copy still has the label on the back and is said to be in every way faultless. Mr. Veitch paid $50 for it at a time when copies were reported at from one shilling to £5.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have just ready "Alain Tanger's Wife, a Romance of 1899," by J. H. Yoxall, author of "The Romany Stone," also, two volumes in the Cosy Corner Series—"The Little Professor," by Ida Horton Cash, with illustrations by Etheldred B. Barry, and "A Seventh Daughter," by Grace Wickham Curran, with illustrations by Diantha W. Horne.

MRS. H. D. PITMAN, of St. Louis, Mo., has written and published the first volume of a work entitled "Americans of Gentle Birth and Their Ancestry," in which the author points out that no matter how great the honors that come to American women who marry foreign noblemen, they are in most cases equal to the demands that such honors impose.

SMITH, ELDER & Co. have in press a work entitled "The Honorable Artillery Company in South Africa," edited by Basil Williams and Erskine Childers, which contains a record of the recent services rendered by this venerable organization. They will publish in the fall a new volume of sketches by Frank T. Bullen, and a new novel by Mrs. Fuller Maitland, entitled "Prior's Roothing."

JOHN LANE will publish "The House on the Sands," a new novel by Charles Marriott, author of "The Column." It is a political novel, and the hero is a cabinet minister. The scene is laid in Cornwall, and the story is said to have strong "local color." In it the author gives expression to his idea that instead of subsidizing the government should take possession of the British Mercantile Marine.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION, (Bureau of American Ethnology,) Washington, D. C., has just published a "Natick Dictionary," prepared by the late Dr. James Hammond Trumbull, whose manuscript was edited by Dr. Albert S. Gatschet. The volume contains an introduction by Edward Everett Hale, written, however, from the standpoint of the general literary student rather than the specialist in Indian languages and characteristics.

LEE & SHEPARD will publish early in September a new book by Charles Clark Munn, author of "Uncle Terry," etc. The new book will be entitled "The Hermit, a Story of the Wilderness," the wilderness being the unbroken forests of upper Maine. Mr. Munn has written a delightful old-fashioned love story that will appeal strongly to those who love strong manhood and womanhood, the sparkle of the lakes and the mystery of the woods.

THE MADISON BOOK Co., Chicago, announce "Jim Rickey's Monologues—Some Ragtime Observations on Persons and Events, with a few Flashes of Footlight Fun," by C. D. Hagerty, which contains the best of the sketches contributed by the author to the Chicago Daily News. The book contains a number of illustrations and is put up in cloth and paper covers, with designs in two colors. They have also just ready a "Mother Goose Jungle Book," an attractive animal book for children, with illustrations in color by Hugh von Hofsten.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have in preparation an account of the life of John Peter Zenger, containing an account of his press and a bibliography of his imprints, by Livingston Rathenford; also, four volumes in a series of Bibliographer Reprints, viz.: Hariot's "Virginia," a facsimile reprint of the first edition of the work, published in 1588; Milton's "Comus," a facsimile reprint of the first edition; Brereton's "Virginia," also a facsimile reprint of the first edition, and a facsimile reprint of the first edition of Bacon's "Essays." They have also in preparation a new "Elsie" book, which will follow "Elsie's Winter Trip."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish in September "Literary Landmarks of New York," by Charles Hemstreet, some chapters of which have appeared in The Critic. The volume will be adequately illustrated. They have in preparation a volume entitled "Arnold's March from Cambridge to Quebec," by Professor Justin H. Smith, of Dartmouth, which treats of a phase of the American Revolution of which little is known; also, "Francis Adrian van der Kemp, 1752-1829," an autobiography, with extracts from his correspondence, edited, with a historical sketch, by Helen Lincklaen Fairchild, author of "Journals of Explorations by John Lincklaen."

REILLY & BRITTON, 84 Adams Street, Chicago, have brought out a new authorized and copyrighted edition of "Webster's Unabridged Dictionary," with a new supplement which brings the work up to date and adapts it to the wants of those who require a dictionary of high quality and low price. The book is printed from type-set pates, on good paper, and is double thumb-indexed and bound in full tan sheep. The book is issued by an arrangement with the publishers of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary, and must not be confused with the cheap reprints of the 1847 edition. Cupples & Leon, 156 Fifth Avenue, New York, are the eastern agents for the work.

THE OUTLOOK COMPANY have in preparation a "Book of Trees," by J. Horace McFarland, with illustrations; "Backgrounds of Literature," by Hamilton W. Mabie, chapters on Wordsworth, Emerson, Goethe, Scott, Shakespeare and other poets and prose writers, with illustrations; "Tolstoy the Man," by Professor Steiner, of Grinnell College, who has lived and talked with Tolstoy's peasants, conversed with Tolstoy about his life and was intimate in the Tolstoy circle in Moscow, with illustrations; "The New American Navy," a notable work by John D. Long, ex-Secretary of the Navy; also, "The Story of a Labor Agitator," by Joseph R. Buchanan, who presents the vital side of trade-union activities.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish in September a lively story of the new navy, entitled "The Spirit of the Service," by Edith Elmer Wood, for which Rufus F. Zogbaum has made a number of his characteristic illustrations. They have in preparation in their series of English Men of Letters a volume on Thomas Moore, by a brother Irishman, Stephen Gwynn, author of "John Maxwell's Marriage." Other volumes in this series nearly ready are a biography of Crabbe by Alfred Ainger and Dr. Van Dyke's life of Lowell. They will publish later in the year an intimate biography and critical estimate of the artist Whistler, entitled "J. McNeill Whistler and His Work," by Arthur G. and Nancy Bell, with forty reproductions in halftones of Whistler's best work.

HARPER & BROTHERS will publish in the autumn a new novel by J. Storer Clouston, whose "Adventures of M. D'Haricot" was successfully issued by the same firm last year. It has been recently stated that Mr. Clouston's name is only a pseudonym of George Gissing's, adopted by the latter "to father the products" of his more humorous moods. This is not true. Mr. Clouston is the son of an eminent Scottish physician, who is the author of several scientific works. Mr. Clouston's new story is not quite so broadly farcical as the D'Haricot book, which, it will be recalled, recounts the ludicrous adventures of a Frenchman in England. They will also publish in the fall Booth Tarkington's new story, "Cherry." The story is told by a man who believes himself to be irresistibly entertaining. He falls in love with a beautiful girl, but he bores her and her father. Finally the girl elopes, and the young man tries to rescue her. He is dumbfounded when he learns that she has gone with the man she loves. But he is not heartbroken, and turns to another girl. The scenes are laid in old New York.

THE BURROWS BROTHERS COMPANY will publish in September a reprint of Gabriel Thomas's "Historical and Geographical Account of the Province and County of Pennsylvania, and of West New Jersey in America," with an introduction by the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady. The work will be printed on a special paper and will contain a map and facsimile title-pages. The edition will be limited to 250 copies. They also announce a reprint of John Miller's "New Yorke Considered and Improved, 1695," edited, with introduction and notes, by Victor Hugo Paltsits, of the New York Public Library, well known for his careful and exhaustive bibliographic work in connection with "The Jesuit Relations," Freneau, etc. This edition will practically be a new book, as it will present for the first time, in literal form, the original manuscript—Gowan's reprint having followed Rodd's edition, which being "improved" varied considerably from the original manuscript. Miller's composition, though written in the seventeenth century, was not printed until 1843, when it was brought out by Thomas Rodd, a London bookseller.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have just brought out the second instalment of "The Poultry Book," the most ambitious and complete book on the subject. The third part will be almost entirely taken up with eggs. All phases of producing them, either for the market or for hatching, will be fully treated, including even the best methods for commercial handling that now give us the "fancy fresh eggs" the year round. The work has many illustrations and colored plates, and it is intended to be almost an encyclopedia in extent, though it is above all a practical guide for anybody who owns any sort of poultry whatever, from the more common varieties to the rarest breeds. They will publish in a month or two "The Tempest," the second volume in the Elizabethan Shakespeare, edited by Professor Mark Harvey Liddell; also, a new, revised and cheap edition of Henry Demarest Lloyd's "Newest England." They report that they have sold over a million volumes of their Little Masterpieces of Literature, and that they will soon publish some Little Masterpieces of Science, edited by George Iles, of which over 120,000 volumes are now being printed in anticipation of their success.

D. APPLETON & Co. are preparing popular editions of a number of rare and famous books, faithfully reprinted in small form, from the first or best editions, with introductions or notes. The particular and attractive features will be the reproduction of the illustrations which appeared in the original issues—illustrations which are part and parcel of the books and which, from their beauty, or skill, or humor, had often as great a share in their success as the text itself. The following volumes are promised for this month: "Memoirs of the Life of the late John Mytton, Esq., of Halston, Shropshire," by Nimrod, (C. J. Apperley,) with illustrations by Henry Alken and T. J. Rawlins; "The Tour of Doctor Syntax in Search of the Picturesque," and "The History of Johnny Quae Genus, the Little Foundling of the late Doctor Syntax," with illustrations by Rowlandson; Illustrations of the Book of Job, invented and engraved by William Blake; "Windsor Castle," by W. Harrison Ainsworth, with illustrations by Cruikshank and Johannot; also, "The Fables of Æsop and Others," with illustrations by Bewick. They have made arrangements to publish in the fall a new novel by Frank Frankfort Moore, entitled "Shipmates and Sunlight," a story of the West Indies; also, a novel of the eighteenth century by Albert Lee, entitled "A Baronet in Corduroy."

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

EW In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

EW Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

"A book to be read, and then read a second time, alike for its beauty and for its thought."

MR. JAMES LANE ALLEN'S new novel

Cloth, $1.50

The Mettle of the Pasture

"Has a heartbreak in it, because it is the story of life. Its dominant note is its intense vitality and humanitarianism. The tragedy of life, its failures, its weaknesses; the loneliness and isolation in the life of every soul that is born into the world; the pitifulness of life in its meannesses; the greatness of life in its hopes and ambitions; the austereness of life in its answer to duty; the sacrifice of life in its service to love are played upon, evoking some discord, but striking chords that lift the mind above the slough and strife of the coarse and ignoble, while the strains echo in the ear."

—The Times-Dispatch, Richmond, Va.

MR. JACK LONDON'S new novel

Cloth, $1.50

The Call of the Wild

"The story is one that will stir the blood of every lover of a life in its closest relation to nature. Whoever loves the open or adventure for its own sake will find 'The Call of the Wild' a most fascinating book."

—The Brooklyn Eagle.

"Even the most listless reader will be stirred by the virile force of the story, the strong sweeping strokes with which the pictures of the northern wilds and the life therein are painted by the narrator, and the insight given into the soul of the primitive in nature. . . . More than that, it is one of the very best stories of the year, and one that will not be forgotten."

—The Plain Dealer, Cleveland.

MRS. BANKS' new novel

By the Author of "Oldfield"

Round Anvil Rock

"The heroine will rank among the rare creations of fiction. The love story which runs through the novel is extremely well told and is idyllic in its purity and grace."

—The Outlook.

"To the many who read a story for the sake of a strong, vigorous plot it will come as a welcome surprise, an evidence of hitherto unguessed dramatic power. A piece of fiction of uncommon ability."

—Commercial Advertiser, New York.

TO BOOKSELLERS:

This may be very early to discuss the matter, but we would like to call your attention to the fact that not only are our books for the fall of 1903 the best we ever had, but our two magazines, The World's Work and Country Life in America, are advertising factors which will very much enlarge the sale of the books. The circulation of our magazines has not only very much increased this year over last, but they go to a book-buying class.

The Great Encyclical Letters of Pope Leo XIII.

With Preface by Rev. JOHN J. WYNNE, S.J.

8vo, substantially bound in cloth, net $2.00

(Postage, 20 cents extra)

It is the merit of the Letters of Pope LEO XIII., that no matter when they were written, or to whom they were addressed, they are of actual or universal interest, as intelligible to the layman and uneducated, as to the theologian and scholar, and as urgent in their appeals to those who are not within the fold, as to the children of the household. His arguments could not but command attention, drawn as they are from history, experience, and reason, as well as from Scripture and Tradition; and his sincere interest in the civil and social improvement of every nation, whether Catholic or not, make all men harken to his plea for religion as the chief factor of true progress. The letters here presented are all characteristic of Leo. Taken together they express his sentiments on the great questions of an age which, owing to its great influence in ecclesiastical and civil matters, marks an epoch in the history of men.

"We possess no Life of the great Pope that can compare with this one."—Archbishop Keane, Dubuque, Iowa.

The Authorized and Official LIFE OF LEO XIII

By Monsignor Bernard O'Reilly, D.D., Lit.D.,

Domestic Prelate and Private Secretary to His Holiness, and Prothonotary Apostolic.

With an Introduction by Cardinal Gibbons.

THIS POPULAR LIFE OF LEO XIII, including his Personal Memoirs, is also the only Authorized "Life" of the Pope. The Author was summoned to Rome by command of the Pope and appointed his Official Biographer, and given access to public and private papers. He lived eight years in the Vatican, writing this great work. The story of the long and eventful career is told sympathetically and in a most interesting way.

Endorsed and Approved by the Highest Church Authorities.

Cardinal Gibbons: "I am happy to know that the Holy Father was graciously pleased to bestow his approbation upon the work."

Archbishop Ryan, Philadelphia: "Entirely worthy of the great subject, and interesting to Catholic and Non-Catholic."

Archbishop Elder, Cincinnati: "A valuable monument to this most important Pontificate."

Catholic Standard and Times: "It is the only authorized story of a life the most remarkable of modern times."

St. Paul Globe: "The author has added that personal touch only possible to those who come in actual contact with him."

Complete Single Volume Edition, with 48 full-page illustrations. A large octavo, over 800 pages, handsomely bound in Red Cloth, and stamped in gold with Coat-of-Arms. Price, $3.50 net; Half Leather, $3.50 net; Full Leather, Gilt Edges, $5.00 net. Published in English, French and German.

NOTES IN SEASON.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have in preparation W. Clark Russell's new book, "The Captain's Wife," also, "The Red Triangle," a story of one of the poorest districts of London, by Arthur Morrison, author of "Tales of Mean Streets," etc.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. will bring out before the end of the month a new book by Mary MacLane, entitled "My Friend, Annabel Lee." Contrary to report, Miss MacLane has been living quietly in Boston and working steadily for some time upon this book. She made no effort to enter Radcliffe College last fall, and since September she has written nothing but the forthcoming book.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS are preparing three series, one of fiction, including fifteen titles by the best authors, a popular edition of the celebrated Henty books in thirty volumes, of which twenty are copyright, and a popular series for young people, including nineteen titles by such authors as Mrs. Burnett, Robert Grant, Kirk Munroe and others equally well known. These series will be attractively gotten up and made to sell at popular prices, and are offered to the trade at special prices, which will be quoted upon application.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. are about to issue an illustrated edition of "The Light That Failed," with scenes from the dramatic version that will be produced in the New Amsterdam Theatre, to be opened in New York City next month. Mr. Forbes Robertson and Miss Gertrude Elliott, who have created the rôles of Dick Heldar and Maisie in England, will continue them in this country. Doubleday, Page & Co. announce a complete memorial edition of the late Frank Norris's works, to appear coincident with the production of the dramatized version of "The Pit" this fall.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready "The Saint of the Dragon's Tale," by William Stearns Davis, a new volume in the series of Little Novels by Favorite Authors; "Studies in Physiology, Anatomy, and Hygiene," by James Edward Peabody, instructor in biology in the Morris High School, New York City; also, "Special Method in Primary Reading and Story," by Dr. Charles McMurry, author of "Pioneer History Stories of the Mississippi Valley." They will publish in the fall the long-expected life of Gladstone, by John Morley. To a considerable extent, the two volumes will form a history of England throughout the greater part of the Victorian era.

JOHN LANE will publish about the middle of this month a new contribution to the Carlyle controversy. The title of the forthcoming book, "The Nemesis of Froude," explains its scope, and when it is remembered that last month saw the publication of Froude's posthumous pamphlet, "My Relations with Carlyle," the subject matter is scarcely open to speculation. Sir James Crichton Browne and Mr. Alexander Carlyle look to this volume to clear Thomas Carlyle's memory of the imputations retailed by Geraldine Jewsbury and utilized by his biographer. Whether Miss Jewsbury looked "a flimsy tatter of a creature," as Mrs. Carlyle called her, readers of "The Nemesis of Froude" will have an opportunity of judging for themselves from the portrait which appears as frontispiece.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

☞ The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk *, and the word net follows the price. ☞

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. "The birthe of Hercules' which is preserved in a single manuscript—British Museum MS., Add. 38722—is now published for the first time. I have attempted to follow the manuscript copy accurately except in two particulars: the punctuation has been modernized, and contracted words have been written in full. Practically all cases of contracted words occurring in the play with their expanded forms are given in a list."—Preface. The author of the ms. is unknown, as is also the exact date of its composition. Experts conjecture that it belongs to a period between the years 1610 and 1620.

The statement of a theory based upon investigations during several years by various members of the department of botany. The common or independent origin of monocotyledons and dicotyledons is discussed, the conclusion being reached that they are independent lines. The general conclusion is reached that the angiosperms have been directly derived from the eusporangiate ferns, the transition forms to the monocotyledons being unknown; but the transition forms to dicotyledons being represented by the abundant and problematical "proangiosperms" of the early cretaceous.
- Dana, Harley Tuttle. Stray poems and early history of the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad. York, Pa., P. Anstadt & Sons, 1903. c. 17+232 p. il. 4°, cl., 75 c.
- Deitch, Guilford A. Digest of insurance cases, embracing all decisions in any manner affecting insurance companies or their contracts, [etc.] v. 15, for the year ending Oct. 31, 1902. Indianapolis, Rough Notes Co., 1903. c. O. hf. shp., $3.

The first paper is an investigation for an arbitrary field (realm of rationality) of a subject previously treated for a continuous field by Weber, and for a Galois field by the writer; and the second is a contribution to the theory of group-determinants and group-characters due to Frobenius and Burnside for continuous fields, and to the writer for arbitrary fields.
- Dixon, T. J., jr. The one woman: a story of modern Utopia; il. by B. West Clinedinst. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1903. c. 10+350 p. D. cl., †$1.50.
A New York clergyman, full of ideals for the good of mankind, tending strongly towards socialism, by his personal magnetism attracts a vast congregation. His conservative vestry object to many of the throng. One woman gives great sums of money and finally leads the preacher to believe he loves her and needs her for his great work. His wife, who has felt jealousy of the work that so totally absorbs him, awakes to her responsibility and appeals for her rights. But he believes in perfect liberty and marries the enthusiastic worker according to socialistic rites. An old friend, a pessimist always in the socialistic work, also succumbs to the fascination of the enthusiastic "wife." At last the "one woman" solves many problems.

- Hitt, Rodney, comp., and Waitt, A. M., and others. The car builders' dictionary: an illustrated vocabulary of terms which designate American railroad cars, their parts, attachments, and details of construction; comp. for the Master Car Builders' Association, by Rodney Hitt, assisted by A. M. Waitt and others. [1903 ed.] N. Y., The Railroad Gazette, 1903. c. 6+374 p. il. O. plans, diagrams, cl., $5.
"The original idea of the Car Builders' Association in 1872 was to standardize car building language. The first edition published, 1879, and successive editions have accomplished this and more. The book has been a most efficient single force of securing standardizations of cars and parts of cars. Since the enlargement of the scope of the 1895 edition, however, a new and more important use has been found for the book. In every country on the globe where there are railroads it is now used for a guide for ordering, designing and specifying cars and parts of cars."—Preface.

- Ariosto's story of Giocondo and Astolfo is found also in the Pali Jataka. A translation of the Buddhist form is given, which shows that Ariosto did not take his "novella" from the Arabian Nights. He may have got it through some Slavic channel. Also another very important part of the introduction to the Nights, Sheherazade herself, and the breaking off at the interesting point of her tale in order to trick the king, goes back to India. Translation is offered of the Hindu version.

- The circulation in the labyrinth is worked out for the ear of the pig by using Eichler's method of making celloidin casts of the labyrinth. A large series of embryos was injected, of sizes measuring from 2½ cm. in length to the embryo at full term, measuring about 30 cm. The simpler scheme for the distribution of vessels found in the younger embryos was utilized in interpreting the complicated system of vessels found in the labyrinth at full term. Eight drawings in colors illustrate the articles.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYFOLDT.

AUGUST 8, 1903.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FUTURE OF BOOKSELLING.

THE editor of World's Work, following up his remarks on the possibilities of bookselling in the future, to which we referred last April, in the current issue of World's Work again dwells upon the reasons "Why more books are not sold," which we reprint in full elsewhere in this issue.

Admitting all the difficulties in the way of creating adequate bookselling machinery, and in the building up of profitable bookstores, the editor of World's Work returns to the position maintained in his first contribution, namely, "why the bookseller does not do the business that the book agent now does," a subject that has been frequently discussed in the columns of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. We have never been able to understand why a bookseller should not be able to bring his ability of selling books to the level of that of the canvasser for books published on the subscription plan, unless it is that the regular booktrade has much too long been content to remain indoors and so has lost its vim. With few notable exceptions, the average bookseller is quite content to lay in as few of the better books as he can possibly afford to get along with, and to trust to luck to get rid of them to such customers as may stray into his store, while his more aggressive competitor, the canvasser, or peripatetic bookseller, plies his possible customers and fishes away the dollars they have to spend for good books on such monstrosities as only the professional subscription-book publisher is capable of grinding out of his mill.

We admit, with our contemporary, that it is easier to criticise than to do, and that, until the inauguration of the book trade reform, there has been little inducement for the bookseller to exert himself in pushing books on which the returns were uncertain; but under improved circumstances, unless the book-seller awakens to the absolute necessity of pushing his business beyond the door of his shop into the houses of his customers, or of those who should become his customers, he will in time find himself relegated to the lumber room along with the stage-coach and other relics of the easy-going times. The more wide-awake bookseller has long ago recognized the necessity of canvassing his constituency either in person or through agents, or through the mail, or by means of newspaper advertising, and is reaping his reward.

The one secret of agency business is—push. It is merely a question of men and means. A trained bookseller, knowing his neighborhood, certainly should have the advantage of the subscription-book agent who must first create his constituency. By proper methods the proper men should be able not only to enlarge their circle of customers, but also to enlarge greatly the book buying capacity of the customers they already have. It is for the bookseller to disabuse the minds of the public of the notion that books are luxuries and to impress them with the fact that in these days they are, actually, necessities.

As we have said before, we believe that we are only on the threshold of publishing and bookselling in this country, and that the present output and distribution of books will appear insignificant to the bookseller of the future. Fifty years ago, when the population of the United States was less than 24,000,000, the book trade of this country in a comparatively short time distributed 104,000 copies of "Queechy" and "The Wide, Wide World"; 200,000 of Headley's "Napoleon and His Generals" and "Washington and His Generals"; 140,000 of Stephens' "Travels in Egypt and Greece" and "Travels in Yucatan and Central America"; 300,000 of Griswold's "Poets and Prose-Writers of America"; 84,000 of Kent's Commentaries; and, in five months' time, 5,000 of "Salad for the Solitary," by Frederick Saunders, then an unknown author. We have not quite kept pace with the performances of our forefathers, at least so far as more solid books are concerned; but, unless all signs fail, in 1950, when the population of this country is expected to reach the 125,000,000 mark, the book-distributing machinery will have increased its energies twofold if not threefold. We say book-distributing machinery, because if the bookseller will not qualify himself for the task, some one else will.

WHY MORE BOOKS ARE NOT SOLD.

"THE belief was recently expressed in these pages," says the editor of The World's Work for August, "that a book which finds 100,000 buyers might find twice or thrice or four or five times as many if the machinery for distributing and selling books could be made as extensive and as efficient as the machinery for distributing and selling groceries, for example. A book that has qualities to commend it to 100,000 persons obviously has qualities to commend it to many more if they could be found and reached economically. Naturally the booksellers and their journals have asked how such adequate bookselling machinery can be created.

"If it were an easy task the question would not have been raised—the task would have been done long ago. Inherent difficulties are the cost of transporting books, the small profit on them, the reduction even of this small profit by the cutting of prices on many books by the department stores and other retail dealers, and the consequent inability of capable men to make a living by keeping bookstores in the smaller cities. The ability required to build up and to maintain a good bookstore under these conditions will build up and maintain some other business more profitable.

"Yet there is a large book-buying public and a still larger public that might become bookbuyers if the trade were more fortunately and more energetically managed. Throughout the land the houses of many well-to-do people are yet almost barren of books; and those who buy books would, under more tempting and convenient conditions, buy many more. Nobody who knows the book trade and the people doubts this. If we have ten more prosperous years perhaps twice as many books will be bought as have been bought these last ten years. The publishers and agents of subscription books profit to an increasing degree by the willingness of the people to buy.

"It may very properly be asked, then, why the bookseller does not do the business in his community that the book agent, (many of whom are non-residents) now does? Why does he not control the book agents of his community and have them sell for him? There are publishers who fill small orders from small bookstores in many towns and at the same time fill larger orders for less valuable books from book agents in these same towns.

"Or to make another comparison—more persons will buy books than will buy life insurance. Yet in many a town the life insurance agents have at least as many patrons as the booksellers. But, if the life insurance agents waited in their offices for their patrons to call and to order policies, they would soon retire from business.

"It is easier to criticise than to do, but it seems plain that publishers and booksellers have not yet learned the art of finding book-buyers as well as men who sell most other things have learned the art of finding the buyers that they seek. By proper methods there is little doubt that the proper men could find "consumers" for twice as many books as are now sold. But the same thing could hardly be said of shoes or hats. Shoes and hats may be regarded as necessities, and books as luxuries; but, since the first generation that had the full advantage of public schools in almost every part of the country is just now making homes for itself and beginning to rear children, in these prosperous times books also have become a necessity. At any rate, they will be so regarded by an increasing public as fast as they are put within tempting reach. It yet requires a more definite effort to buy a book than it does to buy almost anything else that is nowadays to be found in common use."

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

WILL NOT ENJOIN THE THOMPSON LAW PUB. CO.

INFORMATION has been received at Northport, L. I., that Judge Thomas, of the United States District Court, has denied the application of the West Publishing Company, of St. Paul, Minn., for a temporary injunction to restrain the Edward Thompson Law Publishing Company of Northport from selling certain books. The West Company also asked for an accounting of all books of the kind in question sold for several years by the defendant.

The case was argued before Judge Thomas in New York on July 1. The complainant alleged that the Thompson Company in its law books used citations from the complainant's copyrighted books without having acquired such privilege. The defense was that the copyright was faulty. Many thousands of dollars is said to be involved in the suit.

OBITUARY NOTES.

PHIL MAY, the famous pen and ink delineator of London's rag-and-tatterdom, died in London, August 5. He was born at Leeds in 1864, and was the son of an engineer. When twelve years old he was obliged to leave school and shift for himself. He joined a barnstorming company. Unsuccessful in the dramatic line, he went to Australia and became draughtsman on the Bulletin. His work attracted attention in London, and when he returned his pencil was in great demand, and he was almost immediately admitted to that Olympus of the English illustrator, the round table of Punch, taking the place of Du Maurier. It was about this time that Whistler said of him, "Black and white art summed up in two words—Phil May." During the Chicago exhibition he came to the United States for the London Graphic. Since 1892 he had published "Phil May's Annual," "The Parson and the Painter," "Phil May's Guttersnipes" and "Phil May's Sketchbook."

Mlle. MAIRE-NYON, who died recently in Paris, was the dean of the French booktrade, and the last of the three women who conducted the publishing and bookselling business of Nyon, established about a hundred years ago, her predecessors being her grandmother, Mme. Nyon, and her mother, Mme. Veuve Maire-Nyon. Mlle. Maire-Nyon was born in 1815, in the house on the Quai Conti, No. 13, in which the business was founded and is still conducted by Charles Alphonse Pigoreau. The house is one of those comfortable hôtels, of the period of the Régence, that was the home at one time or another of a number of women famous in French history, namely, Madame de Genlis, the Duchess d'Abrantès, Madame Lenormand, the niece of Madame Récamier, and Madame Dieulafoy. Mlle. Maire-Nyon was one of a type frequently met with among French women—an indefatigable worker and punctilious in all her business arrangements. She rose at five in the morning to attend mass, and then proceeded to her work, to which she devoted herself with restless activity until late in the evening. Her firm made a specialty of school and text-books. Among their more notable publications were the early works of the lexicographer, P. Larousse, and the well-known French grammar of Noel et Chapsal.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

JUSTIN MCCARTHY, author of "A History of Our Own Times," and a number of other popular books, has been granted by the British Government a pension of £250 a year.

MRS. JOSEPH PENNELL will write the authorized biography of Whistler. The dead artist's executors will turn over to Mrs. Pennell all family papers, letters and other data.

RUDYARD KIPLING has written for the current issue of Collier's a naval story entitled "The Bonds of Discipline," for which A. L. Keller has made the illustrations. Collier's has also secured another story by Kipling entitled "A Fabu Tale," which will have pictures by Arthur Heming.

It has been known for some time that Mr. F. Marion Crawford had in preparation a biography of the late Pope, but till now there has been no definite information on the subject. It appears now, however, that the late Pope charged Conte Soderini in 1897 that the "life" of him which should be set forth as the official and intimate one should be a history, not a panegyric. At that time Pope Leo XIII. gave him a number of documents hitherto kept secret, and dictated much personal matter; but he left Soderini free to use his own judgment about the biography. It now appears that Mr. Crawford has written nearly all of his biography of the Pope, with the collaboration of the Conte Soderini, and with the use of all the documents which the Pope gave the latter for the purpose. The English and American editions of the book will be published early next year by the Macmillan Company, simultaneously with the editions in Continental tongues.

WORD has just reached this country that Hall Caine, after having been occupied for several months with the dramatizations of his works and the production of the plays, has begun to write a new novel, which he expects to have published in the autumn of next year. The scene will be laid partly in London and partly in Iceland. Mr. Caine has just set out for the latter country for a month's sojourn, accompanied by his son, Derwent. It is understood that this story is somewhat like that of the Prodigal Son, with the striking difference that when the prodigal returns, instead of being fed on the tatted calf he is outrageously treated by a brother whom he has wronged in the past. The work does not deal with religious, social or labor questions, but with the primitive instincts and passions of mankind, and is devoid of philosophical dissertations. It will be serialized both in this country and in England, but no arrangements have as yet been made for the serial rights in the United States, the matter being still in the hands of his publishers, D. Appleton & Company.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Contemporary Review, (Leonard Scott Pub. Co.) for July contains an article on "Carlyle and Froude," by Sir James Crichton-Brown, in which he criticises an article of Ronald McNeill's which appeared in the Contemporary Review for June filling eighteen pages. McNeill defends Froude, whom Sir James Crichton-Brown had severely criticised in his introduction to "New Letters and Memorials of Jane Welsh Carlyle." The Fortnightly Review for July also has an article on "The Secret of Carlyle's Life," by W. H. Mallock.

The Holiday Magazine is the title of a new periodical for boys and girls published by the Holiday Publishing Company, 34 Union Square, New York. The magazine is made up of original text, cleverly written and illustrated. While planned primarily for the children's enjoyment, the magazine will be found helpful by enterprising teachers and parents in their educational work. If we mistake not Miss Katherine N. Birdsall is responsible for the editorial management. The "Midsummer Number," dated August, is the first issue. The subscription price is 50 cents the year, five cents for single numbers.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ALBERT LEA, MINN.—Gillrupp & Skinner have been succeeded by R. F. Beebe.

LEXINGTON, NEB.—H. Holmes has succeeded Fred C. Hyde.

MARINER'S HARBOR, N. Y.—Edward Henry has sold out.

OWENSBORO, KY.—The George H. Cox Company has been incorporated to deal in books and stationery. Capital stock $10,000.

PARIS, TEX.—N. H. Ragland has incorporated his book and stationery business under the name of The Paris Book Company. Capital stock $10,000.

TELLURIDE, COLO.—Endrick & Trout have been succeeded by Endrick & Davis.

URBANA, O.—Harry H. Banta has sold his book business to his brother, John Banta.

WHITMAN, N. H.—Walter J. A. Ward, formerly of Hillsborough, has bought C. E. Ewell's book business.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will publish in the fall two new volumes of Sir George Trevelyan's "The American Revolution."

ISHSTER & Co. will publish at once an abridgment of George Fox's journal, edited by Percy L. Parker, with an introduction by Dr. Robertson Nicoll.

JAMES POTT & Co. announce a new volume by Elliott Flower, author of "Policeman Flynn," entitled "Nurse Norah," with illustrations by Fanny Y. Cory.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will publish on the 12th inst. a work on "Lawn Tennis," by R. F. and H. L. Doherty, who are contesting the national championship at Newport.

ARCHIBALD CONSTABLE & Co. will publish in the fall the long-promised memoirs of Lord Wolseley, to be entitled "The Story of a Soldier's Life." They will publish shortly a new play by Bernard Shaw.

ROBERT HART LEWIS, the secretary of The Pease-Lewis Co., of New Haven, Conn., and Miss Caroline Elizabeth Merrow, were married last week at the home of the bride's mother. Mr. Lewis is a graduate of Yale, class of '87, and a son of John G. Lewis, principal of the Webster school.

THE thirteenth and last volume of the definitive Murray edition of Byron, published in this country by the Scribners, is nearly all in print. Like its predecessors in this edition, it will bring forward some new material. It will be devoted largely to verse, but will embrace also a bibliography and a very full index.

DREXEL BIDDLE, Philadelphia, will publish at once "Bears I Have Met—and Others," by Captain Allen Kelly, famous in the West as a hunter, sharpshooter, Indian war correspondent and captor of grizzly monarchs. The book will contain illustrations by Ernest Thompson Seton, Homer Davenport, Nelan, McDougall and other artist friends of the author.

THE NATIONAL PUBLISHING COMPANY, Philadelphia, announce a Memorial edition of J. Martin Miller's "Life of Pope Leo XIII.," brought down to date, including a description of St. Peter's and the Vatican, achievements in science and literature of his holiness, historic events during his pontificate, political, social and doctrinal encyclicals, etc., with numerous illustrations.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation for their Young Heroes of Our Navy series a sea story by the Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, entitled "Reuben James: a Hero of the Fore-castle." The hero is described as one "who was only a common sailor, just a type of the plain American bluejacket at the beginning of our navy." The volume will contain illustrations by George Gibbs and others.

THOMAS Y. CROWELL & Co. announce a new poetic English version of Wagner's "Parsifal," which, in view of the discussion of the project of producing the music drama here next season, will be particularly timely. The translation has been made by Oliver Huckel, of Baltimore, who has had special advantages in studying the work at Bayreuth. The volume will have illustrations by Stassen.

ROBERT GRIER COOKE, New York, will publish in October an edition of 126 copies of "Three Masques," by Ben Jonson, including "The Masque of Oberon," "The Masque of Blackness" and "The Masque of Beauty." There will also be a special edition of 26 copies with initials by William Cushing Bam-burgh, who has also supplied a foreword. A photogravure portrait of Jonson by Hou-braken will form the frontispiece.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out new editions of Charles Morris's "Half Hours with the Best Humorous Authors" and "Half Hours with the Best American Authors," each in four volumes; also, a new edition of "Isn't It So?" a collection of original witty and cynical retorts, by Nettie Seeley Murphy. They expect to publish late next month the third and concluding volume of "Chambers's Cyclopædia of English Literature."

THE CENTURY COMPANY have in preparation a collection of short stories by John Luther Long, which will take its title from the initial story, "Sixty Jane." Like the author's "Madame Butterfly," the new volume will be presented in Japanese dress. They also announce special editions of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Lovey Mary," for which Mrs. Florence Scovel Shinn has made twenty-four illustrations, half of which will be reproduced in color.

KARL FR. PFAU, Leipzig, author of a number of handbooks for the young bookseller, has just brought out the first part of a serial work entitled "Der Buchhändler, eine Encyclopädie des buchhändlerischen Wissens." The work in concise form will contain suggestions for conducting a bookselling and publishing business in every department. The work promises to be helpful to those who are ambitious to become competent publishers and booksellers. The work will be complete in about ten parts at 40 pfennigs the part.

THREE hundred dollars is being offered for accurate information of the present whereabouts of the manuscript work, written by the Rev. Lewis Rou, entitled "Critical Remarks upon the Letter to the Craftsman on the Game of Chess." This unpublished tract was during 1858-9 for a while in the possession of the late Dr. George H. Moore, then librarian of the New York Historical Society, to whom it had been lent by the now unknown owner. Information concerning it may be sent to the librarian of Cornell University, New York.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have in preparation a novel entitled "The Jessica Letters," which will very likely be published anonymously. The story develops from the circumstance of a young woman from the South, of supposed literary talent and a pagan by belief, calling upon the editor of a New York magazine who is both an idealist and a mystic. The two characters clash, and thence arises a psychological situation which is said to be most charming and original. Before its publication in book form "The Jessica Letters" will appear serially in The Critic, beginning with the October number. They have also in preparation a "Phonographic Reader," by James E. Munson, author of "A Short Course in Phonography." Mr. Munson has also well under way his "Dictionary of Phonography."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish next month, coincidently with its production at the Manhattan Theatre in New York, by Mrs. Minnie Madden Fiske, "Mary of Magdala," which has been specially translated for this production. They have in preparation a new story by Stephen Gwynn, author of "The Old Knowledge," to be entitled "John Maxwell's Marriage;" also the following volumes in The American Sportsman's Library: "The Bison, Musk-Ox, Sheep and Goat Family," in the writing of which Owen Wister, Caspar Whitney and George Bird Grinnell have shared, while the illustrations have been supplied by Carl Rungius and others; "Guns, Ammunition and Tackle," by Captain A. W. Money, W. E. Carlin, A. L. A. Himmellweight and J. Harrington Keene; "Photography for the Sportsman Naturalist," by W. E. Carlin; "The Sporting Dog," the authorship of which has not yet been announced; and "The Bear Family," by Dr. C. Hart Merriam.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just brought out a novel entitled "A Parish of Two," by Henry Goelet McVickar, a well-known New York society man, and Percy Collins, a pseudonym which is said to veil but thinly a very well-known ex-clergyman and society leader. The two writers have written in the form of an exchange of letters, a striking modern story of society, full of brilliancy of dialogue, dramatic situations and cleverness of literary finish. They have also just ready two books for young people—"Ahead of the Army," by W. O. Stoddard, a narrative of the experiences of an American boy during our war with Mexico, full of information; also, "Defending the Bank," by Edward S. Van Zile, a most amusing and interesting detective story for boys and girls, in which a couple of bright boys and girls appoint themselves amateur detectives and are able to run down a couple of bank robbers who are planning to rob the bank of which the father of one of the boys is president.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY will publish next month two books of widely differing nature. The one is entitled "Margie of the Lower Ranch," and is a story of ranch life by Frances Parker, who since she was graduated from college has spent a number of years on a ranch in Northern Montana. The heroine of the story, "Marjie Narvarre," is a natural, warm-hearted girl, who makes life pleasant for all around her. A love story is carried through the book with skilful development. The chief charm of the tale lies in the Western dash and breeziness with which the author has imbued her work. The minor characters are drawn with a hand so steady we know that they are the counterparts of living persons, whom the author has met and known. It is a book that young people will enjoy as much as grown-ups. The other book announced by them is entitled "Love Stories from Real Life," and contains four long love stories founded on incidents that have come under the observation of the author, Mildred Champagne, a young journalist. Each book will contain eight illustrations printed in colors.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. have in preparation a new novel by Miss Ellen Glasgow, author of "The Battleground," entitled "The Deliverance;" the rediscovered "Quatrains" of Abu'l-Ala, a forerunner of Omar Khayyám, whose poetry almost suggests plagiarism on the part of the famous tentmaker; Professor Pickering's remarkable new "Atlas of the Moon;" Frank M. Chapman's "Color Key to North American Birds;" "The Moth Book," by Dr. W. J. Holland, with over a thousand of the insects in color, being a new volume in the New Nature Library; "American Masters of Sculpture," by Charles Caffin, uniform with Mr. Caffin's volume on painters; "Memoirs," by the famous Madame Lebrun, translated by Lionel Strachey; "A Child's Letters to Her Husband," by Helen Watterson Moody, which were very successful when published serially in a magazine a year or two ago, but withheld from book publication till now; "The Toilers of the Home," by Lillian Pettengill, a personal record of domestic service; a comprehensive manual on "Driving," by Francis W. Ware; also, "How to Make a Flower Garden," the best suggestions by many writers from Country Life in America.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish next month, in addition to the works already announced in these columns, "Good-Bye, Proud World," by Ellen Olney Kirk, a novel whose interest shifts from a bustling New York newspaper office to the charming peacefulness of a Connecticut village; "Witnesses of the Light," by Washington Gladden, popular biographies of Dante, Michelangelo, Fichte, Hugo, Wagner and Ruskin, and their message to the world; "The Passing Show," five short plays in blank verse, by Harriet Monroe; "The Overture," a volume of poems, by Russell Taylor, whose contributions to the best magazines have already won distinction; "Elizabeth of England," incidents in the life of England's great queen, depicted in heroic verse, by Nathaniel S. Shaler; also, three books for young people—"The Christ Story," a simple, clear account of Christ's life, with illustrations; "The Young Ice Whalers," by Winthrop Packard, an illustrated story of the adventures of two Massachusetts boys in the seas about Arctic Alaska; and "A Lieutenant Under Washington," by Everett T. Tomlinson, a story of the campaign about the Brandywine and ending at Valley Forge, which will appeal to boys.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, in any nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

[F] In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

[W] Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

A Duke and His Double

By EDWARD S. VAN ZILE. With frontispiece by FLORENCE SCOVEL SHINN. 16mo, 75 cents.

The story of how a Chicago flour merchant substituted his double for the Duke. A rattling tale of contemporary New York society.

Philadelphia Telegram: "A most amusing social extravaganza. . . . It is the brilliant wit and dash and daring of the thing that makes it go."

N. Y. Times Saturday Review: "Buoyant, frolicking, even bolsterous farce. . . . We can honestly commend Mr. Van Zile's book as good summer reading . . . a book to really read when one is in no mood for serious thought."

Cheerful Americans

By CHARLES BATTELL LOOMIS. With 24 illustrations by FLORENCE SCOVEL SHINN, FANNY Y. CORY, and others. 12mo, $1.25.

Contains three whimsical automobile stories, the "American Abroad" series, so popular in the Century; "The Man of Putty," "Too Much Boy," "The Men Who Swapped Languages," "Veritable Quidors," etc.

N. Y. Times Saturday Review says of one of these stories: "It is worthy of Frank Stockton." The remainder of the long review cordially recommends the book.

Philadelphia Ledger: "His droll humor creeps out in every page."

Burlington Hawkeye: "It is hard to say which story is the most amusing."

Commercial Advertiser: "His opera-bouffe portrayals of American types are distinctly enjoyable. Most of us have met them or their next of kin in real life. . . . The volume is abundantly illustrated, and the artists have admirably caught the spirit of the author's humor."

PUBLISHERS are gradually realizing the importance of two vital facts, especially when contemplating having large editions bound.

FIRST—To have their books bound in the best possible manner.

SECOND—To save enough money thereon as will guarantee an enormous annual extra dividend.

You are certainly not averse to making money. Ask me to submit samples and estimates. You will then follow the lead of some of the best publishing houses who find it profitable to give me their work.

A STORY OF A RUGGED AND PICTURESQUE PEOPLE

By EUGENE THWING

"A great story—intensely interesting, true to life, and a phase of life never previously touched"—says Dr. Robert Lilley, F. R. A. S.

Through it all runs a deep purpose, the working out of which gives character to the book and holds the reader's sympathy as well as his interest to the end.

HIGHLY PRAISED BY PROMINENT BOOKMEN

"Very powerfully written. . . . Ought to have a good sale."—Charles W. Burrows, Pres't The Burrows Brothers Co., Cleveland.

"An excellent story of sustained interest, dramatic, instructive, clean. I believe it will prove a seller."—Isaac K. Funk, LL.D., Pres't Funk & Wagnalls Company, New York.

"A rattling good story. . . . impresses the reader very powerfully."—Ward Macauley of Macauley Bros., Detroit.

"Vigorous, lively, wholesome. Gives promise of being a marked success."—Albert C. Walker of Scrantom, Wetmore & Co., Rochester.

"Every character is well drawn; every scene is well contrived; and the dialogue is good. It is full of good dramatic material."—Dr. Robert Lilley, F.R.A.S., of The Century Dictionary Editorial Staff.

"A strong book. . . . has all the features that go to make up a good seller. It is full of human nature, sympathy and action. Its situations are natural and real, and although vivid and intense, are not overdrawn. I consider it better than 'The Man from Glengarry.' You can enter our order for 1,000 copies."—Harry F. Davis of R. S. Davis & Co., Pittsburgh.

State Publications

A Provisional List of the Official Publications of the Several States of the United States from their Organization

R. R. BOWKER

PART I: NEW ENGLAND STATES—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut

Includes preface giving a sketch of State Bibliography.

PART II: NORTH CENTRAL STATES—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin

The complete work, exceeding 500 pages, will be furnished at $5. Subscriptions will be received only for the whole work.

But 500 copies have been printed and there are no plates.

The attention of State libraries, of the central public libraries, and of foreign libraries is especially called to this publication, but it is also important to that larger number of libraries which cannot undertake to collect the State publications even of their own State, and yet should be able to inform students and inquirers as to what is to be found in the publications of their own State and of other States. What New York and Massachusetts are doing in forestry, for instance, is of importance in all States and to foreign students of the subject.

Publications of Societies

A Provisional List of the Publications of American Scientific, Literary, and Other Societies from their Organization

This volume, of 186 pages, schedules over 1100 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. It will be found of use in all libraries—in large libraries as a check-list, in small libraries as a bibliographical key to a most important field of special literature.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. Established in 1878, with which was incorporated the American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular (established in 1852.) Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly cumulative indexes, etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year, postpaid; to foreign countries, postpaid, $4.00 a year; single numbers, 10 cents, postpaid. Special Numbers: Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Number, 25 cents; the numbers containing the three, six and nine months' Cumulated Lists, 25 cents each. Extra copies of the Annual Summary Number, to subscribers only, $1.00.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL. Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription, $5.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 50 cents. Price to Europe, or other countries in the Union, $6 a year; single numbers, 25. (LITERARY NEWS is sent free to subscribers of THE LIBRARY JOURNAL.) Teachers may be interested in the "School Number" published in the spring of each year.

GENERAL INDEX TO THE LIBRARY JOURNAL, vols. 1-25, 1876-1897. Arranged to serve as an index to succeeding volumes or for other sources of professional information. 4°, in sheets, or paper binding, $2.50; A. L. A. half leather, $3.00.

LITERARY NEWS. A Monthly Journal of Current Literature. Contains the freshest news concerning books and authors; lists of new publications; reviews and critical comments; characteristic extracts; sketches and anecdotes of authors; bibliographical references; prominent topics of the magazines; portraits of authors, and illustrations from the newest books, etc., etc. Subscription, $1.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 10 cents.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE of books in print and for sale July 1, 1876, compiled under the direction of F. LEVY and its supplements, 1876-84, 1884-90, 1890-95, and 1895-1900, compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER, aims to present all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first part alphabetically by both authors and titles, and in the second part alphabetically by subjects.

The Catalogue and its supplementary volumes form the only approximately complete guide in existence to the American books of the day, so arranged as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about any particular book of which the consultant is in search, but shows what others there are by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable both in filling orders and in stimulating business; to the librarian, in supplying gaps and proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information by a convenient method.

The author-and-title volume of the 1876 volume is out of print. A limited number of the subject volume may be had in half leather binding at $15.

The volumes covering the periods 1876-84, and 1884-90 are also out of print.

—, 1895-1900, 4°, hf. mor., $15.

THE ANNUAL AMERICAN CATALOGUE, Cumulated, containing yearly the monthly lists in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, cumulated, giving in one alphabet, by author, title, and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by the latest volume. It also contains a directory of publishers with full street addresses. The current volume covering 1900 to 1902, inclusive. 8vo, cloth, net, $3.00.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL. Contains: The latest catalogues of upwards of 300 American publishers. These lists, all bound in one volume arranged alphabetically for ready reference, with marginal index, guiding the finger at once to the right letter, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books. Large 8vo, cloth, without index, net, $2.00; with index, 2 v., 8°, net, $4.50.

INDEX TO THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL, 1902, contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in the Catalogues volume of the PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902, furnishing by means of 140,000 entries, ready reference to the books of the leading publishers in print July 1, 1902, and to forthcoming books of which they could furnish information in August of that year. 1 v., 8°, cl., net, $5.00. Supplementary Index for 1903. 1 v., 8°, cl., net, $2.50. The two volumes bound in one, $6.

THE ANNUAL LITERARY INDEX, including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the cooperation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and R. R. BOWKER. 8°, cloth, $3.50.

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE. Contains a price-list of all the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

THE ENGLISH CATALOGUE [Annual] giving full titles classified under author and subject in one strict alphabet, with particulars of the size, price, month of publication, and name of publisher of the books issued in Great Britain and Ireland, in the calendar year, being a continuation of the "London" and "British" Catalogues. THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY

Reference List of New Publications

JANUARY-JULY, 1903

MONTHLY CUMULATION, AUGUST, 1903

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics. The figures in parentheses are not the imprint date, but refer to the date of "The Publishers' Weekly" in which full title entry will be found and not to the date of publication, for which information should be sought in the full title entry thus indicated. Where not specified, the binding is cloth.
